Loosen Up Goldwater Is Warned

3 Large States Would Drop Him

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., had notice today from three Republican governors that if he becomes the GOP presidential nominee he will have to alter his conservative image or lose their big states in the November election.

Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and George Romney of Michigan spoke out Sunday at news conferences held in connection with today's opening of the 56th annual national Governors' Conference.

Edges Further

Scranton said on a television broadcast and at a news conference that he is available for the presidential nomination. He edged a little further into the race at the urging of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Scranton said Republican candidates are worried about winning in their states if Goldwater is the nominee.

Rockefeller said he is in the race until a better representative of the moderate Republicans comes along, and he made it clear he doesn't think one will.

Try for Change

What had taken on the aspects Sunday of a "Stop-Goldwater" movement rapidly was changing into an effort by Republican moderates to get Goldwater to accept a strong civil rights declaration in the party platform and to repudiate some of his ideas, such as making Social Security voluntary.

After a day in which GOP moderates flailed away at Goldwater, Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon summed it up as "an exercise in sheer futility." He said he thinks Goldwater's nomination is certain.

Welcomes Talks

Goldwater said in Chester, Pa., where he accepted an honorary degree from Pennsylvania Military College, that he would be glad to talk to Scranton and other leaders about the issues.

"I think I can safely say that I can run on a platform that would contain the civil rights bill that passes the Congress," said Goldwater. "I can assure you it won't be the one that is before us now."

He added that he thinks less than 1 per cent of the Republicans favor the public accommodations section of the bill.

Do Not Jibe

Romney told a news conference Goldwater's views do not "square with the principles for which the Republican party stands on the basis of its past record and heritage."

If Goldwater doesn't clarify them to his satisfaction, the Michigan governor said, "I will do everything in my power to keep him from becoming the party's presidential candidate."

Goldwater has "no popular support in Michigan," said Romney.

Goldwater told a news conference in Chester he expects to be the nominee, but that his critics conceivably could unite and deny him the nomination.

"I won't be confident of it until they've counted the roll call," he said.

Park Suspends 576 To Quiet Action By Korea Students

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—President Chung Hee Park suspended 576 government officials —including a Cabinet vice minister—for corruption today in an effort to quiet student demonstrators. The action was announced by Premier Chung Il-kwon but he did not identify the officials or give other details.

Corruption within Park's government was one cause of the violent student demonstrations against Park in Seoul and other South Korea cities last week.

The president also ordered a probe of scandals charged to his government by the demonstrators. They included a government - financed apartment construction project and price rigging of flour, cement and sugar.

New trouble for Park's government could come from the death Sunday of Lee Yoon-shik, 20, a university freshman injured last Wednesday in the rioting.

Lee was in a group of students who clashed with police guarding the Capitol and the presidential mansion in Seoul. His was the first death reported as a result of the rioting.

A student's death during student demonstrations four years ago touched off the widespread violence that ultimately forced President Syngman Rhee into exile.

Goldwater Wants Scranton To Seek Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater figures that it would take the solid and open opposition of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton to derail his bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Arizona senator indicates he sees no chance of that.

"If they did that, I'd probably step out anyway," Goldwater told newsmen Sunday night as he flew back from Chester, Pa. "A thing like that would tear the party apart."

Goldwater said earlier that all three men have disavowed any part of an effort to stop his candidacy to head the ticket.

He said if he wins the nomination he will "allow my party full swing" in choosing a vice presidential candidate. Goldwater said he thinks party leaders would want to balance the ticket by choosing an Easterner of moderate Republican views to share the ticket.

Goldwater added if he were Scranton he would be thinking about a bid for the vice presidency.

He said if Scranton had second place on a Republican ticket which failed to beat President Johnson the Pennsylvania governor would be in a position to claim the presidential nomination in 1968.

Goldwater told a news conference at Chester that he, Scranton and Nixon "are all very close together on Republican principles." He said they disagree only on minor points.

He made it clear that he sees Nixon as the man to whom his foes could rally in the battle for the nomination.

But as things stand now, Goldwater said, he expects to capture the nomination at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco next month.

"We're running out of actors" in the stop-Goldwater drive, the front-running senator said.

Nixon said again Sunday night that he intends to have no part in any stop-Goldwater movement. But he told a group of Michigan Republicans in Detroit that he would willingly accept any assignment the Republicans gave him "and if the party should decide on me as its candidate, Mr. Johnson would know he'd been in a fight."

Goldwater heads today for a rendezvous with Nixon, Eisenhower and other top Republicans at the National Governors' Conference in Cleveland, Ohio.

Two Are Unhurt As Car Goes Over Palenville Cliff

PALENVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—An automobile sailed through the air over a cliff and landed right side up at least 200 feet down, with only minor injuries to the two young, Brooklyn men inside.

State Police said James Magee, 21, and John Brerton, 21, were wearing seat belts. They were reported in good condition today at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskills.

Police said the car missed a curve Sunday night on Route 23-A and crashed through guard rails at the Rip's Point lookout near this Catskill Mountain community.

Economic Alliance Would Help Asia, Javits Says

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., proposes a "New Grand Design of U.S. foreign policy," rooted in an economic alliance, to help the people of southeast Asia achieve the strength to stand up to Red China.

Javits addressed a commencement audience Sunday at Colgate University.

The exercises were among more than a score of commencements Sunday in New York State.

Javits urged creation of an economic alliance for development of southeast Asia to provide the people with "the hope and economic opportunity they need to resist the sheer mass and belligerence of the Communist Chinese."

Colgate conferred degrees on 330 seniors and awarded honorary degrees to Javits and to Andy Kerr, the university's retired football coach.

At other graduation ceremonies, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, urged 218 graduates of Skidmore College to give their lives to caring for others, and two federal officials stressed the importance of a liberal education in the space age.

At Schenectady, Dr. Leland J. Haworth, director of the National Science Foundation, told a Union College audience that a person "cannot regard himself as well-informed if he remains in total ignorance of one of the other" of the many types of knowledge.

Relocation Survey Is Set Uptown

A relocation survey is to be started in the uptown urban renewal area this week, Eric Hemphill, urban renewal director announced today.

It is to provide information needed for further development of plans by the relocation office and is to be conducted by Ralph Marallo, relocation director and his assistant Max Mones.

Each family and individual residing at a property which may be acquired, or who must move because of the proposed UR program, will be visited.

Information Available

Relocation services to become available will be explained to householders and certain questions will be asked. Information obtained will be treated confidentially. It is to be used to provide orderly moving of families and persons, once the plan is approved.

The UR Agency is obligated to pay moving expenses and provide asistance to the people and businesses being displaced.

Those conducting the survey will have identification papers and the urban renewal office asks for the cooperation of the renewal area residents. The relocation office is at 97 Broadway.

Downtown Completed

A similar survey in downtown's Broadway East project area was completed last fall.

The plan for the uptown project has been completed and will be presented to the Common Council for approval after review and approval by the federal government.

Meetings are to be held during the summer for explaining the plan to area residents and businessmen.

Presentation of the plan to the community will precede its introduction to the planning board and to the council for approval. Both the planning board and council will hold public hearings on the plan before giving their reaction to it.

10 States to Make Choice

Barry's Drive Heads Toward 600 Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's drive for Republican presidential nominating delegates is expected to near the 600 mark this week as 146 delegates are chosen in 10 states.

With the GOP convention opening five weeks from today, the Arizona senator has 535 first ballot votes according to an Associated Press survey of delegates already chosen. He needs just 120 more—655—for a first ballot victory.

Indications are that Goldwater will pick up enough votes this week to boost his front running total near the 600 mark and set the stage for the last two state conventions next week in Montana and Texas.

Favored to Win

Goldwater will be favored to win most of those delegates, apparently giving him enough to win the nomination.

But Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said Sunday he thought Goldwater would be from 80 to 100 votes short of a first ballot nomination, and he envisioned "quite a contest."

While attention is on the GOP presidential nomination race, candidates for two governorships, three Senate seats and 10 House seats will be decided by voters or party conventions in five states.

Starts on Weekend

Goldwater's post-California primary drive got under way over the weekend at State conventions in Colorado, Alabama, Washington and Hawaii and at a pair of district conventions in Virginia. Combined with some minor vote shifts in Iowa and the District of Columbia, he netted 65 votes, according to the AP survey based on primary commitments, pledges, instruc-

9 People Are Hurt In 8 Kingston Traffic Accidents

Nine persons were injured in eight city traffic mishaps over the weekend and drivers were booked on charges after three of them.

Dolores M. Jump, 16, of 409 Delaware Avenue and Linda Ashdown, 15, of 36 Esopus Avenue, injured in a two-car mishap on the Kingston side of the Rondout Creek Bridge at 7:45 p. m. Saturday were reported in fair condition today at the Benedictine Hospital.

Police said the one car was driven by Dolores Jump, and the other by Eloise Brown Waite, 45, of 1081-16 Seventh Street, Washington, D.C. Miss Ashdown was in the car driven by the local girl.

Dolores Jump is under treatment for contusions and abrasions of the forehead, knee injuries and a mild concussion. The other girl suffered knee, head and elbow injuries.

New Religious Turmoil Faces Saigon as Catholics Protest

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Thousands of Vietnamese Roman Catholics demonstrated for three hours in downtown Saigon Sunday, threatening the embattled country with new religious-political turmoil.

Many demonstrators carried banners denouncing U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, although organizers of the rally said the anti-Lodge banners were not authorized.

Other banners called Buddhism an ally of communism. A few placards thanked the United States for its aid in the fight against Communist guerrillas.

The anti-Lodge demonstrators accused the ambassador of supporting the Buddhists in their campaign against President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime, which was overthrown last November. Diem his family and many of his leading officials were Roman Catholics and the church had a favored position under his regime.

The demonstration brought out an estimated 40,000 persons on the morning after the sentencing of a Catholic army officer whose troops fired on Buddhist demonstrators in Hue last year. Eight persons died in the clash, which set off the Buddhist campaign against Diem.

Maj. Dang Sy, 37, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Some Catholics think he is being offered as a scapegoat to South Viet Nam's Buddhist majority.

Most of the demonstrators assembled in a square before the U.S. Information Agency building and a U.S. officers' mess. Some had come 25 miles on foot from a Catholic resettlement area for refugees from Communist North Viet Nam. The resettlement area is a stronghold of anti-government sentiment.

A small group broke away and tried to pull down a memorial plaque to President John F. Kennedy. The square, in front of Saigon's Catholic cathedral, was renamed John F. Kennedy Square on May 30.

"This is holy ground in front of the cathedral," said a demonstrator. "We object to having it renamed after a politician."

Some Vietnamese Catholics blame the Kennedy administration for Diem's overthrow.

A pamphlet distributed at the rally charged that Lodge "exploited the so-called repression of Buddhists last year to overthrow the old regime. Now he is fomenting religious discrimination to create a new regime subservient to his own personal aims."

Some banners said: "Go home Cabot Lodge."

Flights To Continue For Check

Sense of Urgency In Washington

VIENTIANE, Laos, (AP) — Communist groundfire knocked down the second U.S. Navy jet in two days over Laos Sunday, but the pilot was safely lifted out of the red-held jungle.

U.S. officials hoped to continue an air search today for the pilot of the first plane, but a heavy cloud cover hung over Vientiane. The monsoon season has set in.

Both planes were shot down east of the Plaine des Jarres area, recently overrun by the Pathet Lao. Both were Crusader jets capable of 1,000 miles an hour. They were operating from the carrier Kitty Hawk in the South China Sea.

Second Jet Armed

The second jet was armed and accompanying an unarmed reconnaissance plane over central Laos. The United States has been conducting photographic flights over Communist positions since May 17 at the request of the neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma.

The pilot, Cmdr. Doyle W. Lynn of La Mesa, Calif., was rescued by a U.S. helicopter and flown back to the Kitty Hawk, an embassy spokesman said.

No Rescue Details

U.S. officials gave no details of the jungle rescue, but it was unofficially reported that several helicopters had been badly shot up in anat tempt to find the other pilot, Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, 30, of San Diego, Calif.

Klusman was on a reconnaissance flight when his plane was hit. He was reported to have parachuted safely, but his exact landing spot in the rugged, isolated terrain apparently was not known.

Red China charged that U.S. jet fighters fired two rockets at Khang Khay, Pathet Lao headquarters on the Plaine des Jarres. There was no mention of damage or casualties.

Providing Cover

Reliable sources in Vientiane said Laotian air force T28 fighter-bombers armed with machine guns are providing cover for the U.S. reconnaissance planes.

Premier Souvanna Phouma's neutralist government ordered the protection after consultations with U.S. Embassy officials in the wake of the loss of the two American planes.

In Washington, the State Department said the reconnaissance flights would be continued with U.S. fighter escorts. The armed escorts were ordered Saturday after the loss of Lynn's plane near Ban Ban, 25 miles northeast of the Plaine des Jarres.

New Sense of Urgency

The downing of the two planes created a new sense of urgency among U.S. officials in Washington. President Johnson met at the White House with his top advisers Sunday. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara abruptly cancelled an appearance at Ohio University's commencement exercises.

The Pathet Lao already holds one U.S. pilot, a civilian. Eugene Debruin of Kaukauna, Wis., was captured last September when his Air America cargo plane was shot down. Air America is a private line under government charter.

Pa.'s Worst Crash Claims Four Lives

LEBANON, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania's worst auto accident over the weekend claimed the lives of four out-of-state residents, including two young staff employes of the Peace Corps.

The three-car mishap occurred Saturday on rain-slick Route 22 about three miles west of Jonestown near the small community of Ono.

Miss Milmoe, McGinn and Mrs. Wasylina were pronounced dead at the scene by A. H. Heisey, Lebanon County coroner. Nick Wasylina died at the hospital.

Grieving Indians Follow Nehru Ashes Into River

ALLAHABAD, India (AP) — Thousands of grieving Indians plunged into the Ganges River in a frenzied stampede today as the ashes of the late Prime Minister Nehru were strewn on India's holy rivers.

At least one woman drowned before police, wielding clubs from boats, forced swimmers and waders to the shore. Four persons were killed in a stampede Sunday as Nehru's ashes were brought from New Delhi.

The mourning thousands, dressed in the white homespun cotton of India's poor mobbed a floating platform and it sank under their weight. Scores tried to climb in boats filled with newsmen and government officials, but police beat them back.

About half a million persons crowded to the river banks or waded in. The temperature hit 107 degrees and scores collapsed. Others were injured by police clubs.

Nehru's family, wilted by the heat and almost deafened by the uproar, went out into the river in an amphibious army vehicle to strew the ashes.

"Babuji (father) is gone," sobbed Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, as she boarded the vehicle.

Congregation Is Back at Church Bombed in 1963

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The glass-enclosed message board outside the Sixteenth Street Baptist church still carried the date of Sept. 15, 1963. But a new day had dawned for the little brick church.

Sunday, the congregation returned to the Negro church that was wrecked by a bomb last Sept. 15. Four girls were killed and 19 other persons were injured in the explosion.

The church was rebuilt with offerings from around the world of more than $200,000.

The Rev. Dr. H. O. Hester of Montgomery, Ala., a white clergyman, delivered the principal sermon.

The congregation gathered outside and was led into the church by the pastor, the Rev. John H. Cross.

Fourteen persons were baptized. Sunday School services were held in the basement where the children died and most of the injured received their wounds in that explosion last year.

Cats may not have nine lives, but they are living longer these days. The average cat lives 12 to 15 years. Animal hospitals often encounter 19 and 20-year-olds.

If Goldwater Is Chosen He Can Credit His Vitality

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Sen. Barry Goldwater wins the Republican presidential nomination, to a large extent it's because he showed vitality. Almost without exception other Republican leaders sat back, keeping hands off. Now they're stirred up.

The exception was New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. He and Goldwater wanted the nomination and fought for it. None of the others appeared to lift a finger except Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, who never had a chance.

No wonder Rockefeller looked sardonically Sunday at some of those others — like Michigan Gov. George Romney and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton—who now suddenly seem disturbed that Goldwater may win.

Even Nixon More Alive

They showed no concern before when Rockefeller and Goldwater were battling and might ruin each other. Now they do when Goldwater may clinch the nomination before the Republican convention meets in July.

And former Vice President Richard M. Nixon sounds more vigorous about being a candidate.

And former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who said he would express no preference and has kept hands off all these months, now has appealed to Scranton to make himself available for the nomination.

More Active Now

He can say his nudge to Scranton isn't expressing preference, since he had previously said he wants convention delegates to have a "fair chance to work their will." But nudging Scranton is being more active than he was before.

Scranton himself said last April the nomination should go to someone who fought for it, "rather than someone who sits on the sidelines and gets it in an easy way."

He said he wasn't even stirred up enough about the issues to be a good candidate although he said he would accept a draft. Last week he said he'd be willing, if drafted by the convention, to run for the vice presidency with Goldwater.

Scranton Speaks Up

He even said he knew of no "basic differences between him" and the Arizona senator. But Sunday, with Goldwater getting closer to a first-ballot nomination, Scranton suddenly said he would be available for the nomination.

"I'm ready to serve," he said. This time he didn't say he'd have to be drafted. But now, also suddenly, he and Romney say they want clarification of Goldwater's views although he's expressed them for months and written three books.

"I have a feeling," Scranton said, "that the country as a whole is beginning to think he does not" measure up to the principles of the Republican party. This was an ironic statement, coming from Scranton.

The country as a whole would be puzzled to know where Scranton measures up to those principles since his view on anything are widely unknown. It was right here that Rockefeller got in a dig at Scranton and Romney.

Romney in Line Too

He said he'd like to know where Scranton stands and, as for Romney, the New York governor said the Michigan governor had spoken out too late. Romney says he, too, would accept a draft although he intends to run for a second term as governor.

Romney said Sunday that Goldwater has "voiced public views that do not square with the principles for which the Republican party stands." He said he would spare no effort to keep Goldwater from the nomination if his views do not measure up to the needs of the nation and the party.

There's one appropriate question at this point: where were Romney and Scranton all these months while Goldwater was campaigning if they don't know his views?

Nixon seeemed to think he was finished after he lost the presidential race in 1960 and the contest for the governorship of California in 1962. He said after this second defeat it was "my last campaign for public office."

In 1963 he said would not under any circumstances accept a Republican presidential draft. But by 1964 he was saying. "I will play whatever role the party decides."

Rhinebeck Youth Held On Disorderly Charge

A 16-year-old Rhinebeck youth was held in Columbia County jail Sunday when he could not pay a $10 fine imposed for disorderly conduct at Lake Taghkanic State Park Sunday morning.

John Goddison pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Reno after park rangers charged he had refused to obey a park ranger and used foul and abusive language. He will serve 10 days in lieu of the $10 fine.

Highland Woman Hurt In Two-Car Crash

A Highland woman was injured Saturday night in a two-car collision on lower Church Street, Poughkeepsie. Police said Janina Ellingsen, was treated at Vassar hospital and released.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Mary Harris, 50, Stone Ridge, whose car was in collision with a vehicle operated by Alvin Fink, 46, of Encino, Calif. Fink and a passenger, Mrs. Florence Brown, New York City, escaped unhurt, police said.

Where there's Hope [and the Yellow Pages], there's life

Bob Hope's rollicking new comedy, "A Global Affair," rollicks around a 10-month-old baby who's abandoned at the United Nations. The baby's placed in the custody of a hopeful bachelor—Bob Hope, that is—who turns out to be a pretty hopeless temporary father—and mother. Ah, but then the hero enters: the Yellow Pages. Where else could a helpless Hope cope with his need for a Nurse? Or a Diaper Service. Or Baby Accessories, Baby Sitters, Blankets, Scales, Mattresses and Bedding. In the Yellow Pages you can find nearly anything for babies. Or for anybody else. And if you sell goods or services, remember that more than nine out of ten references to the Yellow Pages result in action—a letter, a phone call, or a personal visit. THE JOB CORPS

The big gun in President Johnson's "war on poverty" has been loaded. The House Education and Labor Committee has approved the administration's proposed $962.5 million Economic Opportunity Act.

It now remains for the whole House, along with the Senate, to pull the lanyard.

If the act becomes law—and it is believed it will this session — the United States will embark on a number of offensives designed to eliminate the nation's stubborn pockets of poverty, both urban and rural, and enlist those trapped in them in the building of the "Great Society."

One of these offensives is called the Job Corps, conceived as a means of rescuing at least some of the estimated 750,000 youths between 16 and 21 who are out of school, out of work, out of touch with society and, worst of all, out of hope.

The idea is to take young men away from their old, defeating environments and place them in rural camps and urban training centers, there to teach them job skills (as well as the ABCs, where necessary), good work habits, a sense of social responsibility —above all, to lift and widen their horizons.

For many, it would be their last chance to realize their human potentials and participate in the American dream.

Job Corps planners hope that 40,000 young men—all volunteers—could be enrolled within the first year. Half of them would live in about 200 conservation camps around the country, half in job-training centers in or near cities.

As in the CCC days of the '30s, the youths in the camps would perform useful work for society—repairing parks, building roads — while undergoing a program of physical conditioning and basic education.

Trainees in both the camps and urban centers would be paid $50 a month, with a separation bonus of $50 a month up to a maximum of two years' service.

There would be similar work-training programs for girls—who constitute 46 per cent of all school dropouts—to be administered by the Labor Department.

Numerous universities already have task forces planning programs for the Job Corps. Businesses are developing new kinds of teaching aids. Many teachers, returning Peace Corps veterans and retired service officers have volunteered to help staff the corps.

As for finding jobs for Job Corps graduates in this day of increasing automation, one oil company says it could use 1,000 service station attendants right now. Hotels and hospitals have trouble finding dependable help. The entire service industry has a constant need for properly motivated workers.

Other youths may go on to complete their education. Many refused by Selective Service because of health or educational deficiences, would now be able to pass the examination.

The Job Corps would cost $191 million in its first year (about equal to what the United States spends in six months in South Viet Nam).

The cost to the nation of the loss of those for whom the Job Corps will be too late is beyond calculation.

WAR ON POVERTY CHALLENGE

If money could buy happiness, President Johnson's war on poverty would be a simple matter. His call for a $220-million attack on the depressed areas of the Appalachian states could be repeated elsewhere in the country, with corps commanders in Washington pinpointing the offensives on a map.

Nothing can be done without money, of course, and balanced against the national income, the $220 million is something we can well afford. Indeed, we cannot afford not to spend it to try to eliminate this grave contradiction of poverty in the midst of plenty.

But assigning the funds is only the beginning. What will be needed most of all is intelligent and imaginative planning and cooperation between federal and local officials. The goal is not mere relief but the rebuilding of the entire economy of Appalachia and integrating it with the national economy as a whole.

Not least of all will be the part which private enterprise plays in establishing industries and tapping this reservoir of unused human energies and, in the doing, creating a self-regenerating market for itself.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

VIOLENCE IN THE TOLERANCE CAPITAL

Ever since I can remember, New York City has been the tolerance capital of America.

Go back a long ways to the pre-World War I era. In those days you couldn't be a radical with impunity in Slippery Rock or Peoria. But a Max Eastman could found a magazine called The Masses below Fourteenth Street in Manhattan, and a coterie could gather around him with nobody to say them nay. An I.W.W. leader like one-eyed Big Bill Haywood could not hope for middle-class entertainment in Boise, but he was welcome at Mabel Dodge's salon on lower Fifth Avenue. Poets like Edna Millay might feel out of place in Maine, but not in Greenwich Village.

Or take a later period, the Nineteen Twenties. If a youngster just out of college chose to stay at home in the place of his birth, he was expected to become a business man, join the country club, and never miss a meeting of Rotary. But in New York he could follow H. L. Mencken and bait the booboisie, or write poetry without punctuation or capitals and still be regarded as a genius if it sounded good.

New York, of course, was a multiracial community. There could be cracks about the Jews, the Italians and the Irish, but it was hard to keep a good man down no matter what his race. A Bernard Baruch, in New York, could become a millionaire; a Jimmy Walker could become Mayor; an Al Smith could be nominated for President.

The Negro got the benefit of New York's particular brand of tolerance when he began moving north. He couldn't necessarily find a good place to live, but a Claude McKay could write a book like "Home to Harlem" and get it published and favorably reviewed, a Charles Gilpin could get a star part in an O'Neill play, a Walter White could organize for the betterment of his race and find plenty of local support for his efforts. Branch Rickey couldn't have put Jackie Robinson on first base when he was still the general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, but he did do just that when he switched to become the boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

I am not so stupid as to imagine that life is easy for a lot of people in New York. But as long as the city remains the tolerance capital of America, things can improve there. And what New York accepts is generally exported elsewhere. For better or worse, New York is the style capital and the communications capital of the nation.

Well, what about the things that seem to be menacing the tolerance capital today? I am sure that the recent spate of Negro violence on late subway trains has no connection with a plot of any kind. But stall-ins and other demonstrations of the sort, not criminal in themselves, rip the fabric of mutual forebearance. In this murky atmosphere hoodlumism is encouraged. And what becomes then of the tolerant city?

At this point we might go to the eastern shore of Maryland for a lesson. The two Maryland eastern shore towns of Salisbury and Cambridge have similar population mixes and similar traditions. In Salisbury, in the spring of 1961, a group of Negroes appealed to the white ministers of the town for help with problems of discrimination. The ministers went to the restaurant owners — and within a year they had managed to get the restaurants desegregated.

In Cambridge, just thirty miles from Salisbury, Negroes, following a far more intransigent leadership, gave the restaurant owners one week in which to stand and deliver. The result could have been predicted. Restaurant owners got their backs up, and there is still not much progress toward desegregation in Cambridge. Meanwhile there has been plenty of violence.

True enough, violence won for Lenin in Russia. But where has it ever won in a nation that is eighty per cent contented? The way to win in America, is to exploit what tolerance you have. This has been done over and over again in New York, and it will be a shame if the old insight that brought the Jews out of the East Side ghetto and the Irish to City Hall is lost.

THE WELL CHILD

Patience, Understanding Help Child With Problems

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Control is something every child must learn for himself. When a child still wets the bed at night after he is 5, it may be due to a variety of causes.

If the occurrence is only occasional, it may be due to overfatigue or nightmares. In some, however, the bedwetting may be a part of an epileptic seizure. However, in the overwhelming majority of bedwetters emotional difficulties are the cause. A thorough search should be made for such organic causes as bladder infection (cystitis), diabetes and kidney disease.

When a child who has gained control of his bladder lapses into bedwetting after reaching the age of 7 or older, it is most important to find the cause.

The child who is a bedwetter should be encouraged to go for progressively longer periods during the day without going to the bathroom. This helps to increase the bladder's capacity and reduce its irritability. When bedwetting in the older child becomes an established habit, it is hard to break. Alarm clocks and other electrical devices have been used to overcome the habit. Some parents report excellent results with them.

Because there is no single cause, no one treatment will benefit all bedwetters, but patience and understanding—after organic causes have been treated or ruled out—can go a long way towad solving the problem.

Q—My child died two weeks after birth with pemphigus. What causes it and is there any cure for it?

A—Pemphigus of the newborn is characterized by large blisters covering sizable areas of the body. The cause is not known. The victim is usually treated with sulfa drugs and penicillin to control any infection that may occur as the blisters break. Blood transfusions and cortisone are often given to improve the general condition, but there is no specific cure and a large proportion of the victims fail to recover.

Q—What should be done about a supernumerary nipple on my baby?

A—A girl or boy is often born with an extra nipple just below the normal one on one side. This is usually smaller than normal and many parents believe at first that it is a mole or birthmark. It is rarely a source of any concern unless it is unusually large. If at any time in life it causes embarrassment, it can be removed and will leave an almost invisible scar; but this is not usually necessary.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The reason the United States doesn't give the men in South Viet Nam better planes for their guerilla fighting is simple:

We don't have them.

The United States has developed some pretty hot fighters, cargo planes and bombers. These are sophisticated types for conventional or nuclear wars. Defense men say they're not suited for South Viet Nam.

U. S. and South Vietnamese forces are using older planes because they're the best we have on hand for this kind of fighting, even though some of these aircraft are "tired," even when reconditioned.

The hot new planes are too complicated for South Vietnamese to maintain. They land too fast and require super runways not generally available in guerilla territory. They're too specialized for all-round guerilla war requirements.

The United States hasn't been heavily involved in a guerilla war in some time; Air Force strategists say privately they're not sure what the air role is.

So Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's planners are not certain what kind of a plane they want.

Nevertheless, development of a compromise guerilla-war plane is now proceeding.

DEFENSE STRATEGISTS SPECIFY the aircraft must be suitable generally for areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America where guerilla wars may be likely.

The plane must be one native troops in backward countries could quickly learn to operate and repair.

It must be able to take off on short, relatively unimproved runways, be highly maneuverable and able to fly at 50 miles an hour and at 300. It should be usable for reconnaissance ground support, bombing and for transporting six to eight soldiers to some hot spot.

It snould have two propellers and two pilots; if one propeller or one pilot is knocked out the other can bring the plane home.

The plane would not be capable of handling enemy air power or sophisticated antiaircraft fire. If the enemy brought in strong air or antiair power, the conflict would immediately change its character; we'd bring in sophisticated equipment.

McNAMARA'S MEN ARE WORKING on two approaches to the plane problem.

They're experimenting with modifications of two types of training plane which already have a number of the good qualities sought—simplicity, versatility, ability to use short runways. These planes are being fitted with heftier engines and capsules or "pods" which can be attached to the wings for a particular mission, then detached when the plane is assigned another task. One pod would carry photo and other reconnaissance equipment; other pods would contain rockets, cannon or machine guns.

If one of these training plane modifications works out, the guerrilla version could be ready in some quantity in 16 to 18 months.

Six aircraft companies are submitting concepts for a new guerrilla plane. Some of these offer considerable promise, officials here say. But quantity deliveries would be more than two years in the future.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese war goes on.

Reflex Action Is Expected Soon as CR Bill Is Enacted

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe the Southern Senators will not be so unhappy, after all, if a cloture motion to close debate in the Senate is approved by a two-thirds vote this week. It could, of course, hasten final action on the civil rights bill because the proponents are sure of a 51 per cent majority to pass the measure itself.

The sooner the bill is enacted, however, the quicker will the nationwide reaction to its enforcement set in and the sooner will come the public demands for repeal or substantial amendment of the law. For the moment the actual enforcement of such a far-reaching civil rights measure starts, there will be general concern from coast to coast due to a variety of reasons.

First, there will be, in Congress, a controversy as to how much money should be appropriated to augment considerably the Federal police force as well as the legal staff of the Department of Justice.

Second, many lawsuits will be filed on every side, not only by the government but by private parties. The government, to be sure, will have the right to intervene in many of the latter cases.

Thus, for example, the owner of a rooming house who will be pressed into a policy of integration with respect to admission of guests may challenge the Constitutionality of the new law on the ground that it does not apply equally to all rooming houses. Those with fewer than five rooms to rent are to be exempted from its provisions. Since the Constitution provides that all citizens are entitled to "the equal protection of the laws," it seems certain that some lawsuits will be filed which will insist that, if it is constitutional for rooming houses with five rooms or less to discriminate in choosing customers, it is also constitutional for any such place to do so when it caters to guests who occupy more than five rooms.

The same principle of authorized discrimination by reason of race or color or religion or sex applies in connection with the equal-employment sections of the bill. For the provisions of the proposed law would give the Federal government, under the guise of searching for discriminatory actions, the power, in effect, to control employment practices in various businesses. It will be up to the Department of Justice to prove in suits before the Supreme Court just why it is supposed to be constitutional to permit discrimination in a business with less than 100 employees and yet forbid discrimination in a business where there are more than 100 employees.

Many persons, when denied jobs, will argue, moreover, that discrimination was the basis for refusal to grant them employment, and some of these individuals will seek redress on constitutional grounds no matter whether the exempted quota as finally written in the bill is based on a scale varying from 25 to 100 employees over the next four-year period or whether a specific quota of 100 is set.

Nearly every company will have to start keeping careful records on job applications, promotions and transfers. Personnel departments will be subject to investigation by Federal agents, and there probably will be lawsuits brought not merely where discrimination against Negroes is alleged, but where there may be claims of discrimination against whites.

The general hope in Washington has been that enactment of the pending bill would end street demonstrations. There will, of course, be an appeal by the Administration here to the Negro leaders to stop the demonstrations and give the law-enforcement machinery a chance to function. But there may be new controversies. While several states, for instance, have their own civil rights laws, some of these statutes do not go as far as the bill pending in the Senate.

If issues growing out of the enforcement problem become a matter of public agitation during the summer and autumn months, this could have an effect upon the national campaign, especially in certain Congressional districts and states where members of Congress have voted for the civil rights legislation and now may have to face a protest vote at the polls.

While the Republicans, in their national party platform, will join the Democrats in affirming the principles behind a new civil rights law there seems no doubt that the Republican Presidential nominee, whoever he is, will be pointing to certain flaws in the legislation, hoping thereby to get the benefit of the protest vote on the measure as a whole. The substantial vote given Gov. Wallace of Alabama in the Democratic primaries in several northern states recently could prove to have been the forerunner of a crossover vote to the Republican party.

The sooner, therefore, the civil rights bill becomes law, the more time there will be for the negative sentiment to be aroused and for its influence to be exerted when the Presidential and Congressional elections are held in November.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

It is a wet and windy night. Scuds of clouds scan the face of the moon. German officers study the dark English Channel. The word goes out: "They will not come tonight." The time is 8 p. m. The date is June 5, 1944.

There are 58 divisions—1,044,000 men—waiting for the Allies D-Day. Up and down the French Coast, Wehrmacht staff officers study the weather charts. The whirls and loops are the new god of invasion. The moon phase and the tide must be exactly right. It cannot be tonight, because the wind is force 5-6, and the Channel is force 4-5.

The sea is too high for small boats. The low cloud layer means that Eisenhower would be coming in with no air cover. It will never happen. He is too smart to risk high seas and no fighter protection. At Berchtesgaden, Adolf Hitler stands at a picture window, looking at a dark night and listening to the wind weep around his lofty nest.

Dr. Morell gives him two more pills. The Fuehrer makes a face as he downs them. The chief of household staff is called. He is told that the Fuehrer has taken a sleeping draught, and is not to be disturbed. He will remain awake another hour, studying the maps of the Eastern Front. Hitler is not interested in his Atlantic Wall, because nothing is happening there.

Not to be disturbed. Under any circumstances. At Le Mans, Colonel-General Dollman says to Gen. Pemsel: "Anything likely to happen today?" He has been waiting for the invasion a long time. Pemsel says no. Then he sighs: "If only one could rely on those weather men."

Dollman wants even more time. In this he concurs with Erwin Rommel. More offshore mines, more obstacles, more steel "asparagus" in the fields. He wants to lock the 600-mile gate against intruders. "Then," he says, "we can hold our map exercise in Rennes." He is happy. He orders Pemsel to see that every divisional commander along the front is present.

This frisks the front of authority. The German generals, with their regimental commanders, will be in Rennes at 10 a. m. tomorrow. They will stage an exercise depicting what to do in case of an airborne invasion. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel sits in a speeding car crossing the Meuse.

He is headed for Berchtesgaden to see his Fuehrer. Rommel will plead for more men, more guns. Enroute, he will stop home in Germany to celebrate his wife's birthday tomorrow. This man is commander of Army Group B. He is the boss of the French coast. He will be gone, he thinks, three days. He will beg Hitler to permit him to use the armored divisions.

Hitler has already said no. In fact, he has ordered Rommel to toss any invasion back into the sea on the first day, without panzers. The news is pleasing to Gerd von Runstedt. Rommel's boss because Field Marshal von Runstedt does not believe in meeting an invasion-in-force head-on. He wants to permit it to come ashore, then encircle it, and squeeze it to death.

Besides, Hitler has already issued the dictum from on high that the invasion will be staged where the Channel is narrowest: Pas de Calais. It is becoming increasingly difficult to disagree with the Fuehrer. Still the Wehrmacht is relaxed in spirit. A million men eat, doze, sing, drink, make love, play cards. One of them, Paul Carell, will someday write a book about it called "Invasion—They're Coming."

Gen. von Schlieben argues with his staff. "It is a known rule," he says, "that a division can cover six miles. My 709th is covering forty miles of French Coast. A futile business." Or, to put it another way, he who defends all defends nothing.

London has been sending silly messages to France all day. They are alerting SOE—Sabotage Organizations Europe. The Resistance knows that when the first part of Paul Verlaine's poem of autumn is broadcast, it means to be ready to destroy 571 French railway stations and to blow up 30 main lines. The words go:

Les sanglots longs
de l'automne

When the second part is broadcast, it means that the invasion is imminent.

Blessent mon coeur
monotone

The Germans know the meaning of the broadcast. They too have spies in the Resistance. Col.-Gen. Salmuth's 15th Army monitors BBC. They hear the first part of the poem on June 1, 2, and 3. Tonight at 9 p. m. they hear the second part. There is much excitement.

Salmuth sends the news that D-Day is imminent to von Runstedt and military commanders in Belgium and France, including Rommel's headquarters. Someone forgets to notify the 84th corps. This group is at Normandy facing the sea. A black and empty sea.

The reaction of the commanders is stupefying. Von Runstedt doesn't believe it. Hitler sleeps through it. Rommel rides on. Chief of Staff of the High Command, General Jodl, reads it and chuckles. He quotes one of his staff officers as making the appropriate remark: "As if General Eisenhower will announce the invasion over BBC!"

The German Army drinks well, and goes to sleep . . .

Gets Own Degree After Educating Seven Children

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Sun Pei Lee, a native of China who put seven children through college, finally got his own degree—at age 68.

It took him so long, Lee said in an interview, because "we had to make a living." In gratitude for paying their way through college, his children financed his five and a half years at the University of Delaware.

He received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture Sunday becoming the oldest student ever to graduate from the University of Delaware.

"I will look for a job," said Lee. "I want to do what I have learned."

Only his wife and his youngest daughter, Stella, saw him receive his degree.

Lee was a pioneer of the textile industry in China. In 1956, under the Refugee Act, he and his wife followed their children to the United States. He became an American citizen in 1963. His wife hopes to become naturalized in August.

Lee hopes to work for an international or foreign agency which seeks to improve agriculture production and distribution.

Lee estimates he has trained more than 3,000 technologists and engineers for the textile industry. His first schoool was begun in Nantung in 1927. When he left Nantung in 1938, he started another school in Shanghai.

Cottage Hired by King Damaged by Vandals

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Vandals smashed furniture and set bed clothing afire Sunday night in a cottage rented for the summer by Dr. Martin Luther King who has said he may summon a "nonviolent army" here for massive demonstrations.

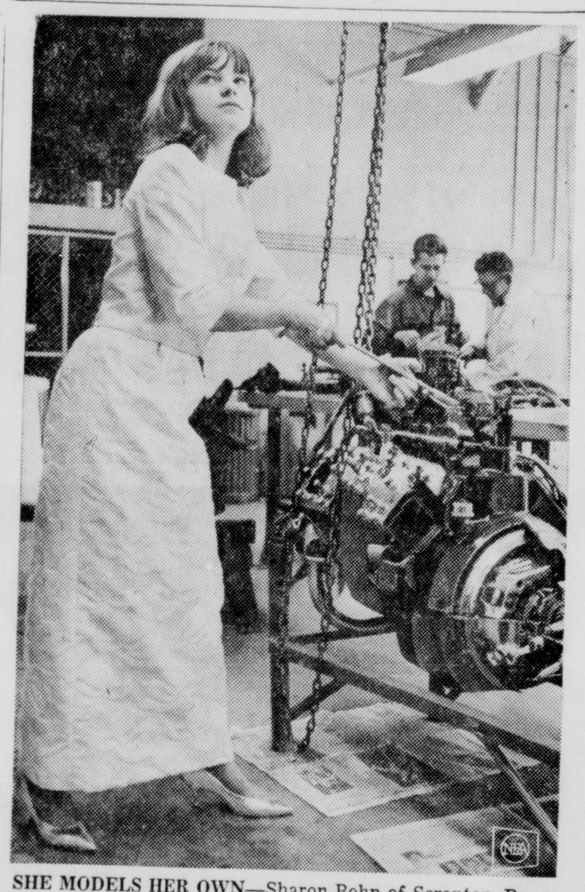

King was in New York.

King, director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was here Friday for a conference with Negroes. He said at the time he commands a nonviolent army of whites and Negroes waiting to come here and demonstrate against segregation.

Hurley Summer Recreation Plans

Starting June 29 and continuing through August 14, the Town of Hurley Youth Recreation Committee will conduct its annual summer recreation program.

Morning playground activities will be carried on at the West Hurley Elementary School athletic field from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. A similar program will take place for the Old Hurley youths, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon at the athletic field at the rear of the Reformed Church in Hurley. Both areas will have two adult playground counselors. To be eligible for the playground activities, children must have completed grade one.

At 12:30 p. m. a bus will leave from each playground area and transport the children to DeWitt Lake for supervised and instructional swimming. The same buses will pick up the children at DeWitt Lake at 4 p. m. and deliver them back to their respective playground areas. To be eligible for the afternoon swimming program, each child must have completed second grade.

Registration will take place on opening day. No child may participate unless he is officially registered. Provisions will be made for late registrations.

Anyone requesting further information concerning the Town of Hurley Summer Recreation Program may contact any of the the following committe members—Ernest Myer and Roy Weber of Old Hurley, or Mrs. Fay Klinger, Mrs. Erne Levins and Floyd Robbins, the West Hurley committee members.

Top Jazz Pianist Killed in Mishap

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jazz pianist Meade (Lux) Lewis wound up his engagement in a suburban night club Sunday, drove onto the highway and was killed seconds later in an automobile collision.

Jimmy Dobbins, 19, Minneapolis, a passenger in the second car, was injured fatally.

Lewis, 58, of Los Angeles, was considered one of the top booogie-woogie pianists. Critics credited the bulky, jovial musician with advancing the form from a simple fold art in the 1920s into a highly expressive and complex music.

"Honky Tonk Train Blues," which Lewis wrote in 1923, was his most famous composition. Lewis recorded the piece in 1929. It didn't become popular then and Lewis dropped from sight. Several years later jazz promoter John Hammon heard the tune, searched for the composer, and found Lewis working as a car washer in a Chicago garage.

Lewis became popular again, played one recital in New York's Carnegie Hall, and "Honky Tonk Train Blues" became a standard for boogie-woogie pianists.

Cardinal Bea Coming On Secreat Mission

BOSTON (AP)—Augustin Cardinal Bea, president of the Vatican's Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, arrives in Boston today on a "secret mission."

The 83-year-old cardinal told newsmen when he left Rome Sunday only that he was "going on a secret mission. When I return in eight days, perhaps I can say more."

Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, who will be his host here, declined to elaborate on Cardinal Bea's visit.

Dear Abby . . . Compulsive Talker!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is there something wrong with me? Whenever I take a trip on a bus or train, I get into very intimate conversations with the person sitting next to me. I don't know why, but before I know it, I am telling this person my life's history. I've told complete strangers things about myself that I'd never think of revealing to anyone I know. If I ever run into any of these people again I would die of shame, but I can't seem to help myself once I get going. I am not a child. I am a grown woman who has seen 33 summers. Please don't use my name.

TALKS TOO MUCH

DEAR TALKS: Some people who "talk too much" are reacting to a deeply rooted psychological problem. If you're lucky, it won't hurt you (although it may bore others). Meanwhile, try counting to ten before you start, then talk about something besides yourself. You MAY not be that interesting.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I live in a very small town where everybody knows everybody else's business. After I graduate from high school it is only natural for people to wonder why I don't look for a job. The trouble is I can't work because I am five months' pregnant and I have to get out of this town as soon as possible. I am being pressured from all sides to go look for a job. I have only enough money for a bus ticket to a place not more than 200 miles from here. Is there a home for unwed mothers that will take me in? Please put your answer in the paper.

MARION (not my real name)

DEAR MARION: Send me your real name and address at once and I will send you the information you need immediately.

DEAR ABBY: My son was asked to be an usher at his friend's wedding. He will have to rent a tuxedo for the wedding. Who is supposed to pay for it?

MRS. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: Either you or your son, depending on his resources. But in any case—not the friend who is being married.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Wrestler's Wife has prompted me to write. Soon after we were married my husband's brother would snap his fingers on my bare arm, shove me, and otherwise horse around. I didn't want to make an issue of it, and my husband didn't say anything, so I let it go. Sixteen years ago, at a family reunion, this brother rushed across the room, grabbed both my feet and pulled me off the davenport. I hit the floor like a melon. My teen-aged children were present and so were his. The laughter ceased when I couldn't get up. When it was ascertained that I had broken the end of my spine, my brother-in-law felt terrible. Since then I have spent weeks in the hospital, months having therapy and years in a heavy body brace. I might have been spared all this if either my husband or I had made it clear from the start that I did not want to be touched.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I just received an interesting note from Capt. H. L. Wentworth of Searsport, Maine.

He writes in part: "Leo Walsh of Rosendale sent me your column, "Do You Remember," a recent one as it quoted the article about Searsport, Maine. I sent the newspaper to you. You must have forgotten me. I was a Panama Canal pilot for many years, and used to receive, through Leo Walsh, your column and have them in my scrapbooks. Capt. Walsh is also now retired from the Canal and living in Rosendale."

Capt. Wentworth further writes: "Knowing you like history, I though you would like the article on Searsport. I retired from the Canal in 1960 and am now living in Searsport, having bought the home formerly owned by the Lincoln Colcord mentioned in the article, a grand old house and much history.

"It overlooks Penobscot Bay, a view of shipping coming and going. If ever you are down this way, Mrs. Wentworth and I would like to have you stop in for a visit. I have many books on early sail and steam and scrapbooks I have kept. Anytime I may be able to supply information on any boat, I would be most happy to do so. I also have two other friends in the boating world in your area, Danny Murphy, and William Benson. Murphy has sent me some of your writings, when I was captain of a New York tug, Danny was engineer there."

When I received the Searsport, Maine paper, I did not place Capt. Wentworth as somehow I connect him with the Panama Canal. As soon as the item appeared in this column, Danny Murphy called me and told me, and later dropped in to see the paper, which I loaned to him, as he was very much interested in it. Now I will look at the Lincoln Colcord homestead picture. It sounds facinating.

One of my neighbors showed me a book of the early 1920's which covers the homesteads of the Hudson Valley. I did not have a chance to really look through it well, but I see the old stone houses of Kingston and Hurley are represented.

They speak of pot cheese being made in a community right near Kingston many years ago, in which art they seemed to excell. I really do not know the difference between pot cheese and cottage cheese, but I remember when we had housekeepers from the old country, they made their own pot cheese, which hung in a bag on the clothes line, and from which cheese cake was later made and other delicious foods.

I notice most of the old homesteads in this book, have large yards, shady trees, porches on both sides of the houses. In those days homes were built to live in, more than for show purposes. Comfort and coziness, shade and sun, vegetable gardens and flower bushes, were so much more important than sterile looking lawns, without trees, or today's modern apartments. First someone buys a large tract of land in modern times, takes off all the buildings, and pulls down the mammoth trees, then puts up some, one story homes, on a slab of cement, and perhaps an unfinished attic. Then the little trees are planted, and the top soil is brushed lightly over the sand or clay, and folks spend several years trying to make it grow. It takes three generations to make a homestead, of cozy shade trees, corners, porches and real homey living. I take it Capt. Wentworth has such a cozy lived in homestead in Searsport, Maine, the like of which cannot be made on poured cement.

Record Savings Bank Deposit Gains in May

NEW YORK, June 8—Savings bank deposit gains of $285 million in regular accounts—a new record for May— were achieved last month, according to preliminary data released today by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. The previous high for any May, $236 million, was registered last year.

The increase brought total regular deposits in the nation's 508 mutual savings banks to $45.8 billion. In the first five months of 1964, savings bank regular deposits have increased $1.5 billion, compared to $1.1 billion in the January-May period of 1963.

Dr. Grover W. Ensley, executive vice president of the National Association, said that the savings bank figures were an indication that the economic effects of the tax cut were still in a transitional stage. "The record savings bank gains," he noted, "confirm evidence from other sources that consumer spending—except for automobiles—has not kept pace with the rise in personal disposable income. Although retail sales are good, they have not reached boom proportions."

matter of fact

The Purple Heart was founded by George Washington in 1782 for bravery. Only three were actually awarded. The 200th anniversary of Washington's birth was chosen for the revival of this award and on February 22, 1932, a new Purple Heart was instituted to recognize those killed or wounded in the service.

ABOLISHING DESTITUTION

Throughout the year, this column receives letters from those who have been left practically destitute. Widows, with no training to make a living, are invariably the chief victims.

Thrift is a forgotten virtue in countless of these homes. The head-of-the-house was often a larger earner and spender. An executive earning $25,000 a year leaves his widow in worse financial condition than a worker making $5,000. It is a case of easy-come and easy-go.

When destitution hits such a widow, it is tragic. Accustomed to a good standard of living, she finds herself with little money and with no vocational training.

In every home in America where extravagant spending is taking place and the entire family is living in a kind of false paradise, a single insurance policy can work wonders.

A father with a family of four or more to provide for who finds, even in the face of high income, that he can't save anything and who is speculating in the stock market and indulging in all manner of expensive habits, should call in an experienced insurance man to talk things over.

In my lifetime, I have met and talked with hundreds of such improvident parents. Their lack of thrift and saving usually stems from two sources: the will to speculate in risk-laden stocks and careless spending arising often from bad habits.

A young executive, age 30 to 45, in a well-paying job often does not think about the day of his retirement or his death. He is full of ability and ambition and sometimes his eating and drinking and living habits start him on his way to an early death.

Thrift and saving sometimes can change the direction of his life and his career; and one insurance policy, forcing him to save a couple of thousands of dollars yearly, can be the instrument to do this.

A wonderful artist friend of mine passed away ten years ago, leaving his wife destitute. For a quarter of a century, he made $25,000 - $50,000 a year. He had a bar in his studio and the hangerson there were numbered by the score. He speculated heavily in the stock market.

His widow recently passed on. She had lived on relief since his death.

How easy it would have been for him at the age 35-45 (when he was in his prime) to set aside $2,500 a year to maintain a $100,000 insurance policy.

Right now in America there are thousands of heads-of-homes like him who have small savings and who could well afford to lay aside $100, $200, $300 a month with which to pay premiums on insurance policies.

Taxes, inflation, very costly living expenses and wasteful extravagances are today the cruel enemies of thrift, saving and sound investment.

There are millions of people in America who are living beyond their means. Most of them have known prosperity over a period of years, but have failed, during their vigorous and talented decades, to set up plans that would abolish destitution in their retirement years.

At age 35-40, most people can buy a $50,000 insurance contract for around $100 a month. And dividends are paid on such policies.

Q — "I have $30,000 from an estate. I must have $200 a month to live on. What should I do?

S. S. P.

A—$2,400 annual income from $30,000 means your money must earn 8 per cent. Maybe an annuity (I don't know your age) might be a solution.

Shot Shocks Tenants

LONDON, Ky. (AP) — Basil Poynter was able to calm his wife and another customer after a .303 rifle discharged while a customer was examining it. The bullet went into the ceiling and no one was hurt. But he had more trouble calming upstairs-apartment dwellers who returned home and found a hole the size of a half dollar in the floor and a bullet in the mattress.

Lightning Hits Barn and Radio Tower on Sunday

Thundershowers accompanied by a downpour of rain hit the Hudson Valley area late Sunday, and lightning reportedly hit and damaged a radio tower in Marlboro and started fire in a Plattekill barn.

Area farmers and other residents of Ulster County and neighboring counties welcomed the rain which fell over the weekend and continued this morning with showers.

Plattekill Fire Chief Thorolf Hagen reported lightning is believed to hit a barn on the Albert Grimm property on Quaker Street in that community at about 8:40 p. m. Sunday. Fire broke out in corn that was piled on the floor of a small barn, and firemen were at the scene extinguishing the stubborn fire that burned in the corn husks for more than an hour.

Chief Hagen said the fire broke out during a thunderstorm. He said there was no electrical hookup in the barn.

Lightning hit the Poughkeepsie Radio station—WEOK FM antenna at Marlboro, causing damage that disrupted service. Repairs were being made today to restore the FM circuit.

The city engineer's office here reported a total of .74 of an inch fell in this area this month. An office spokesman said .31 of an inch fell on June 3—.33 of an inch was registered on Saturday, and .05 of an inch fell Sunday and the same amount today.

The rain brought relief to parched hay fields and farms of the area, and was welcomed by residents who had been worried about their flowers and vegetable gardens.

In Dutchess County the rainfall for the entire month of May was .94 of an inch, while since Saturday the Dutchess County airport reported a rainfall of 1.84 inches since Saturday.

The thunderstorms that passed over the county late Sunday, caused no serious damage, excepting that reported at the radio tower in Marlboro.

$1,800 Antiques Are Stolen From High Falls Home

Antiques valued at over $1,800 are missing from the house of Hattie Stinson on Lucas Avenue Turnpike at High Falls. The loss was discovered Sunday when she went to the premises to inspect it. She had not been at the premises for several months. Employed in Kingston and residing at 260 Clinton Avenue, she told Deputy Sheriff Ernest Ahlberg who investigated, she had not been at the premises for several months. When she entered the place Sunday afternoon, it was discovered that entrance had been gained by breaking a screen door and forcing the top portion of an old Dutch door.

The full extent of the loss is not known but among the missing articles are a set of silverware with mother of pearl handles, a George Washington dish with a scene at Newburgh on it, a brass marble top table, an assortment of Wedgewood chinaware, antique lamps, a chime clock and many other antiques.

Entrance to the place was apparently made not long ago.

How List Stands

The field shaped this way:

Goldwater	535
Nelson A. Rockefeller	128
William W. Scranton	85
Henry Cabot Lodge	45
Richard M. Nixon	15
Margaret Chase Smith	15
Favorite sons	93
Uncommitted	209

Indiana Republicans meet today and Tuesday to elect 32 GOP delegates, but their votes have already been credited to Goldwater, under state law, because of his May 5 preferential primary victory there.

To Choose Thursday

New York's Republican state committee meets Thursday and is expected to name 10 at-large delegates favorable to Rockefeller to go with the 76 district delegates he won in last week's primary. The New York governor also picked up five votes Sunday from the Puerto Rican delegation.

Goldwater is expected to face rough sledding in his attempts to muster support at the Minnesota convention beginning Thursday, the Maryland convention Friday and the Connecticut convention Friday and Saturday. At stake are 46 votes.

But Goldwater is viewed by political leaders in Missouri, Utah, New Mexico, Idaho and Virginia as the likely winner of most of their 58 votes to be decided in conventions Friday and Saturday.

Other Matters

There are other matters to be settled at state conventions this week:

Indiana — Republicans will nominate a Senate candidate from a field of three and a gubernatorial candidate from a field of seven. Two congressmen are in the running—Rep. Donald C. Bruce for the Senate and Rep. William G. Bray for governor. Democrats, meeting Thursday and Friday, are expected to renominate Sen. Vance Hartke for a second term and choose a gubernatorial nominee from among five candidates.

Utah—Republicans will either endorse or nominate candidates for Senate, House and governor. Under a new state law, the top two men at the convention go on the August primary ballot unless one of them gets an endorsement by 80 per cent of the state convention delegates.

There are only two candidates for the Senate—Rep. Sherman P. Lloyd and Ernest L. Wilkinson, former president of Brigham Young University. Neither is expected to get 80 per cent. Five men seek the nod for governor, including former Gov. J. Bracken Lee, State Publicity Director D. James Cannon and former GOP National Committeeman Michelli Melich.

Connecticut — Republicans are expected to nominate former Gov. John Davis Lodge without opposition for the Senate seat held by Thomas J. Dodd. Dodd already has won Democratic nomination for a second term.

Idaho—Republicans and Democrats will nominate or endorse primary candidates for two House seats.

South Carolina — Democrats vote in a primary election Tuesday on six House candidates. Only two of the incumbents — Robert T. Ashmore and W.J.B. Dorn—have primary opposition. But there's a four-way race for the nomination to the seat vacated by Robert W. Hemphill, who quit to become a federal judge.

Will Not Reconsider

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to reconsider its denial of a jury trial to former Mississippi Gov. Ross R. Barnett and his successor, Paul B. Johnson, on criminal contempt charges filed against them in the James H. Meredith case.

Barnett and Johnson were charged with contempt on the ground they refused to obey orders of the U. S. Circuit Court in New Orleans not to interfere with admission of Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi in 1962.

Meredith entered the university amid rioting that caused President Kennedy to send in federal troops. Meredith since was graduated.

Meyner Awaiting Ruling Before He Passes on Tobacco

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Former Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, an "off and on again cigarette smoker," says his job of administering a new cigarette advertising code should be that of a judge, not an image-maker for the tobacco industry.

The code, developed after the U.S. Surgeon General's report linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer, establishes uniform standards for cigarette advertising.

Meyner said he would have authority to review all advertising and impose fines of up to $100,000 for violations.

The code prohibits advertising that represents cigarette smoking as essential to "social prominence, distinction, success or sexual attraction."

It also bars advertising in publications or radio and television programs directed primarily at persons under 21.

In announcing Meyner's appointment Sunday, the companies said he would have "complete and final authority to determine whether cigarette advertising complies with the standards of this code and to enforce the code in all its respects."

Meyner said he would not take over his new job until the Justice Department completes a review of the code to determine whether it violates federal antitrust laws. He declined to discuss his salary.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

RED RIVALRY: The clash between the Soviet Union and China "most probably" will lead to a complete break but war between the Communist giants is unlikely, writes Dr. Mose L. Harvey, a State Department specialist on communism for 17 years, in the current issue of U.S. News & World Report.

"As things now are and seem likely to continue for the indefinite future, neither has the slightest thing to gain from a military showdown," Harvey wrote in the copyright article. He recently left the government to become director of the Center for Advanced International Studies at the University of Miami.

PRAYER: The Bill of Rights is "our most precious heritage" and any narrowing of its present guarantees in the field of religion could impair the other liberties it protects, 223 constitutional lawyers told the House Judiciary Committee in opposing any amendment to permit public school religious exercises.

The committee last week completed hearings on proposed amendments. The chairman, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has not yet set a date for closed deliberations on the various proposals.

RED BLOC: Former Secretary of State Christian Herter says there is a growing independence from Moscow in Romania, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, particularly in the economic field, "and I think we ought to encourage that."

Herter, who is serving President Johnson as a special representative for trade negotiations at Geneva, voiced approval of the recent extension of most-favored-nation treatment to Poland and Yugoslavia and said the United States should use trade concessions to encourage Communist satellites to be independent.

COMMUNION: President Johnson, a member of the Christian Church, received communion Sunday at St. Mark's Episcopal church. His wife and daughter are Episcopalians.

Last month, the Rev. Canon Albert J. Du Bois, executive director of the American Church Union, a voluntary association of Episcopal clergy and laity, questioned whether the president is eligible to receive communion.

He is, said the rector of St. Mark's, the Rev. William M. Baxter, and the Episcopal bishop of Washington, the Right Rev. William F. Creighton.

FOREIGN LOANS: Postwar repayment records indicate the United States will get back a large proportion of the dollars loaned for foreign aid, plus billions more in interest.

Of $25.7 billion loaned abroad by the U.S. government since World War II, the foreign recipients have paid back $10 billion on the principal so far plus $4 billion in interest, Commerce Department statistics showed Sunday.

Strikes Set Tuesday By 7 Aluminum Plants

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Strikes are planned Tuesday at seven Aluminum Co. of America plants in five states by the Aluminum Workers International Union, in sympathy with a 2-week-old walkout at the Alcoa plant in Massena.

Eddie Stahl, president of the aluminum workers union, said the decision to strike was reached here Sunday at a meeting of all the local unions involved.

An estimated 8,000 to 10,000 workers would be idled, including the 3,000 already affected at Massena, Stahl said. The Massena walkout was called May 23 in a dispute over reclassification of about 60 hourly rated jobs.

Notice of the strike plans was given to Alcoa's general manager of industrial relations, William Davis, in Pittsburgh, the union president said.

The plants that would be shut down by the strike, set for 11 p.m. Tuesday, are in Davenport, Iowa, Lafayette and Yankeetown, Ind., East St. Louis, Ill., Chillicothe, Ohio, and Lancaster and Cressona, Pa.

Rosendale Summer Home Burglarized

A New York City man's summer home off Route 32, Rosendale, was burglarized sometime between May 31 and June 6, according to State Police Sergeant Elliott Johnson of the Kingston substation.

Joseph Teicht, 609 W. 188th Street, New York City, reported the burglary. He told BCI Investigator Richard Ryan the intruder took a case of beer, a bottle of whiskey, a pair of work gloves and a sweat shirt.

Entrance was gained by forcing a side door, troopers said.

Copies of the examination reports have been sent to the clerk and other officials of the units of government examined. Since the reports are a part of the public record, they are available for review by interested citizens.

A copy of each of the reports is also on file at the Department of Audit and Control in Albany and is available for public inspection.

$10,000 in Rents Stolen

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The manager of an apartment building in suburban Irondequoit was held up at gunpoint and robbed of $10,000 in rent receipts.

John Pumo told police that the men, armed with revolvers, accosted him Saturday after he had collected rent from the 39 units of the Swarthmore Gardens.

The holdup men, in their early twenties, apparently escaped on foot, police reported.

Somè Insect Bite

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—For two years, little Dawn Bardowell was bothered by an irritating, itchy sensation in the top of her shoulder.

Recently, the irritation broke out again and the 9-year-old girl was taken to a surgeon.

He removed two shotgun pellets that had lodged in the youngster's shoulder,, apparently parts of a spent charge from a hunter's gun.

Dawn said it apparently happened while she was visiting a relative's farm. "I felt a sting one day, but thought it was an insect."

BEATLE ON THE WINK — Ringo Starr, drummer of the Beatles, winks at the world from his bed in the University Hospital in London where he is recovering from tonsilitis and laryngitis. Barry Would Not Satisfy New York State: Robinson

CLEVELAND (AP) — If Sen. Barry Goldwater is the Republican presidential nominee, the GOP in New York State will be seriously hurt, predicts Jackie Robinson, former major league baseball star.

"This is a matter of tremendous concern to all of us," Robinson said Sunday in an interview. "A Goldwater ticket will drive thousands of New York people to the Democrats by default."

Robinson is now an aide to Gov. Rockefeller, who is attending the national governors' conference here.

Conscienec Spoke Up

But nothing seemed to be missing. Then he found a note "Sorry, changed my mind. I could never feel right again. There is nothing gone."

Degree for Dr. King

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That wrecking ball is breaking up those old haunts of mine.

The latest Hollywood landmark to be attacked by the demolition crews is the NBC radio studios at Sunset Blvd. and Vine St. The familiar pea-green building is being battered to oblivion after a brief quarter-century of life.

The studios are putting up a hard fight. They were built in 1939 to last, since the future for network radio seemed firm and enduring.

What memories those halls hold. They were happy hunting grounds for a young reporter who could drop in almost any day and find a host of stars.

There was Bing Crosby, sitting on a high stool and crooning to John Scott Trotter's orchestra. Fanny Brice, the irrepressible Baby Snooks. Red Skelton, who always did an aftershow for the studio audience that was longer than his broadcast.

Al Jolson, basking in the renewed fame caused by "The Jolson Story". The Fibber McGee and Molly crew. Perfectionist Edgar Bergen, who always treated his dummies with respect. Ozzie and Harriet Nelson and their two sons, who stood on boxes to reach the microphone. Phil Harris and Alice Faye, Oscar Levant, Jack Benny, Lum and Abner, "One Man's Family," etc., etc.

Meredith Willson, a longtime habitue of NBC Sunset, was talking about the place the other day.

"I drove by the old building the other day," he sighed, "and I couldn't look at what they were doing to it; I had to turn my head. It's too sad to see that place go."

Christine Keeler Released From Prison

LONDON (AP) — Christine Keeler, 22, the red-haired prostitute who once shook the British government, was released from Holloway Prison today.

She had served six months of a nine-month sentence for perjury and conspiring to obstruct justice. She had tried to frame a Negro ex-lover, jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, with testimony that he beat her up.

Christine's perjury trial was part of the aftermath of a sex and security scandal which brought John D. Profumo's resignation as war minister a year ago and threatened to tumble Prime Minister Harold Macmillan from power. Macmillan rode out the storm but resigned a few months later because of his health.

Christine got three months off her sentence for good behavior.

The loss didn't disturb Miller. He had just completed installing indoor plumbing.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) —Network television over the past weekend was very good to viewers who like their dramas real.

There was Friday night's special 90-minute "CBS Reports" in which Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to the Normandy beaches where the Allied forces launched their assault on Hitler's Fortress Europe on D-Day 20 years ago.

Sunday there was ABC's live coverage of the exciting windup in the Thunderbird Golf tournament as Tony Lema's final putt broke a tie with Mike Souchak and won him top prize money.

Finally Sunday night on NBC, there was a meticulous — and painful — account of the literal return to life of a young woman whose broken and burned body was pulled from a Nantucket plane wreck six years ago.

Last summer Gen. Eisenhower, accompanied by Walter Cronkite and a camera crew, went back to the English Channel countryside, now sleepy beach and fields, which two decades ago was the site of the largest amphibious invasion in history.

The former president, commander of the invasion forces, sometimes spoke with a crisp clinical detachment as he explained the principles and theories behind the huge operation. Then he would shift to a more personal vein, recalling an anecdote or explaining his own emotions at moments of decision.

Much of the film showed the general in casual sports clothes, strolling along a sunny beach where children played, or in a crumbling German pill box, or sitting in the war room preserved in an English country house. He responded easily to Cronkite's questions. Interspersed was film shot before and during the invasion.

NBC's "Patient in Room 601" used news film taken at the time of the Nantucket plane crash in August 1958 and interviewed many persons involved in the story of plucky Lita Levine who almost six years ago started off gaily on a summer vacation. Since then she has undergone more than 40 operations and lost all her fingers, but is now launched on a painting career.

The camera lingered overlong on some of the subjects, particularly her highly vocal mother and on the doctors with their cautious phraseology. The most moving portions were when the girl—she is now 29—was telling of her terrible ordeal, often with a touch of wry humor.

Sometimes it seems a shame that television programs do not come in half sizes. This was a good example of a program that would have been sharper and more effective if it had been told in 45 minutes.

Saturday night's "Defenders" episode on CBS, seemed to have been written right off the current headlines and was an interesting treatment of the law in connection with the civil rights, passive resistence movement. It had all the punch and vitality of a fine editorial.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans go right along making up their own minds. This makes it pretty tough sometimes for the experts.

Has Good Points

The American voter doesn't always cast his ballot the way pollsters say he's going to.

The American consumer does not always spend his money, or save it, or go into debt the way either the politicians or the economists say he is sure to do.

The American businessman doesn't always spend for new plants on cue, or tailor his borrowing to fit the money managers' manipulating of interest rates, or build up his inventories when he hears a boom is in the offing.

The stock trader doesn't always buy because he's told the economic news is all good, or sell because he's warned it might change.

All this may be rough on some of the experts and pollsters. But consumer calm has some good points. Right now it's pretty reassuring.

For instance, the federal income tax cut didn't spark the rush to spend which some politicians said would send the economy soaring. But neither did it trigger a boom that some experts warned would bring inflation.

Instead the consumers have gone on spending a little more as they have a little more to spend, saving a little more as their take home pay goes up a little, borrowing a little more as they figure they will be in a better position to meet the monthly payments.

Auto Loans Jump

Installment credit went up $412 million in April, but it had advanced even faster before the tax cut. Some savings institutions are reporting fewer deposits, but others are reporting gains.

Consumers paid off charge accounts and single-payment loans in March and then took on more of these items in April. Auto loans are increasing as sales mount, but other types of consumer debt aren't going up as fast as in January and February.

COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD—Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, president of the American Newspaper Guild, Kingston Unit, presents an engraved plaque to George Svirsky of Kingston in recognition of his outstanding contributions to the community in which he lives. Citing him as "a dedicated worker in countless charitable organizations and a beloved individual," Mrs. Narel presented Mr. Svirsky with the Page One Award for Community Service. The Page One Ball was held in the Wiltwyck Country Club. Messages of congratulations to the Guildsmen were received from President Lyndon B. Johnson, his press secretary George Reedy, Governor Nelson Rockefeller, and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson. Senator and Mrs. Ogden E. Bush attended the Ball.

JOURNALISM AWARD FOR AP REPORTER—Hugh A. Mulligan, Asociated Press reporter who covered the assassination and funeral of the late President John F. Kennedy, accepts the Guild's Page One Journalism Award from Edward Palladino, general chairman of this year's Page One Ball. Mr. Mulligan's coverage of the tragic event led to his role in the authorship of "The Torch Is Passed," The AP story of the Kennedy death. The book has sold more than four million copies to date.

A giant among the music greats of the world, Mr. Cowell received a Guggenheim Fellowship and a Rockefeller Grant, the latter for study in 10 Asian countries. Donations Sent Negro Singer To Save Children's Village

PERIGUEUX, France (AP)—Thanks to a burst of generosity from admirers, Negro singer Josephine Baker may be able to save her children's village at nearby Milandes.

A flood of donations have been pouring into a special account to prevent the eviction Tuesday night of Miss Baker and her 11 adopted children.

The star announced last week that she was broke and heavily in debt. Her 12th century chateau at Milandes and its furnishings were to be sold at auction Tuesday unless she could satisfy her creditors.

Movie star Brigitte Bardot made a radio-television appeal for Miss Baker. It was an unusual gesture for Miss Bardot, who had never met Miss Baker and detests the glare of television lights.

The French television office was deluged with calls asking where to send the checks.

Miss Baker says she needs $400,000 to get the chateau at Milandes into the black for good.

She has adopted children of various races to conduct a liveing demonstration of racial understanding. The children—all but one of them boys—are between 4 and 12 years old. They came from places as distant as Japan, Africa, South America and Finland.

Several years ago Miss Baker decided she would try to develop Milandes as a tourist attraction that would provide her children with a steady income. She could then retire permanently from the stage.

The property, including the hotels, the chateau and its grounds, now is heavily mortgaged. The horde of tourists did not materialize, and the tourist center has been a steadily losing proposition.

Miss Baker said last week that if she can solve her immediate problem, she intends to launch out on a different tack. She holds about 500 acres of very fertile ground which she believes can be profitably developed.

Earrings at Graduation

Q: I will be graduating from high school in two weeks and I, as well as the other girls in my class, would like to know if it would be proper to wear earrings with our academic gowns?

A: Large conspicuous earrings would not be proper. Small ones that will hardly be noticed, are permissible.

The Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Table Rules of Importance," describes how to eat spaghetti as well as other difficult foods. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Bridegroom's Parents are Divorced

Q: I am going to be married next month and have a problem in regard to seating at the wedding reception. I know that ordinarily the bridegroom's parents are seated at the same table, but my fiance's parents are divorced and I don't know whether it would be proper to seat them both at the family table. Neither of them has remarried. Will you please advise me?

A: It would not be proper to seat them at the same table. The bridegroom's mother would be seated at the family table on your father's right. His father would be seated at another table.

Luci B. Johnson Highly Approved IN GOP Territory

HARVARD, Ill. (AP) — McHenry County may have gone Republican in every presidential election this century, but it has given at least one Democrat its overwhelming approval.

The youngest of the LBJ's, blue-eyed Luci Baines Johnson, charmed record crowds of 200,000 Saturday, and upstaged 15 mayors and a would-be governor on hand for the 23rd annual Harvard Milk Day.

In Harvard, "milk capital of the world" a cheering crowd estimated at 100,000 lined the sidewalks to watch 16-year-old Luci lead a parade down the city's white-painted main street.

"I've heard that you paint your main street white for milk day, but I didn't believe it until I saw it," she exclaimed.

Charles Percy, Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, and 15 Illinois and Wisconsin mayors on hand for a milking contest were no match for the Texas warmth of the enthusiastic teen-ager.

Earlier she literally stopped a children's pet parade in La Grange, Ill., where an estimated 90,000 persons turned out to catch a glimpse of the President' perky envoy.

QUEEN AND HER COURT—Crowned Page One Queen of 1964 Saturday night at the Page One Ball was Miss Kathleen Pritchitt, center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick James Pritchitt of Route 4, Box 179, Saugerties. In addition to her silver loving cup, sterling silver bracelet and $50 U.S. Savings Bond, Miss Pritchitt will have a weekend in New York City and will receive several gifts. The runners-up are Miss Diana Knight, at right, and Miss Pamela Houghtaling, at left. Miss Knight is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight of West Hurley and Miss Houghtaling is the daughter of Mrs. George L. Chilson and Leslie Hotaling. Peace Marcher, Student Talk to CORE, Unitarians

The Ulster County Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality met Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kricker, of Woodstock, to hear British peace marcher John Papworth discuss his experiences when he was jailed earlier this year in Albany, Ga. for attempting to walk through the city together with an integrated group of demonstrators.

Declaring that "non-violence when used with imagination is absolutely irresistable," Papworth pointed out that jailing the civil rights demonstrators, who went on prolonged hunger strikes during their incarceration, "by all estimates cost the Albany authorities close to $25 thousand," and he declared that one of the most potent factors in the success of such demonstrations "is the parsimoniousness of civil authorities anywhere — they can't afford to let you die, you know, and those daily injections of vitamins and so forth cost money." The Krickers' 18-year-old daughter, Candy, was one of the demonstrators.

Worked with Africans

Papworth, today a successful importer, worked for many years with African Nationalist parties. He stated that the physical structure of communities in Mississippi is identical to that of communities in Nairobi; "in each case, it is a physical confession of failure of the community to emerge."

Later in the evening after a buffet dinner, Papworth talked to the group about the theoretical aspects of movements like the civil rights movement in the United States.

Declaring that the Industrial Revolution had "reversed the rising trend toward democracy in the 18th Century and succeeded in consolidating power in more and more remote, minority hands," Papworth condemned Fabian Socialists and Communists alike "for continuing to deny human fulfillment."

"According to Freud, work is a man's chief contact with reality. But today under these vast Power Structures in which we live, man is required to be a passive adjunct to a machine. His decision-making powers are no longer wanted but are positively rejected by the Power Structure. It is only in direct non-violent action that man today can achieve any sort of liberation."

Awareness Vital

Papworth concluded by saying that "action without awareness is ineffectual," and he urged his listeners to "forge power links around the world" by keeping informed of civil rights action movements in other areas and making certain that their own actions were well publicized.

Speaking Sunday before the Ulster County Fellowship of Unitarians in Kingston, CORE speaker Jennifer Miller, a sophomore at Ulster County Community College, stated that the Ulster County Chapter of CORE was formed at this time "to prevent the emergence of explosive situations like those that now confront Chester, Pa., New York City and not too far south of us, Newburgh."

Declaring that this area is "stratigically located in the Hudson Valley and that as the exodus from the city continues and new industry locates here," CORE is deeply concerned that "bloodshed and rioting do not occur here as the result of more and more rigidly consolidated Negro ghettos and a depressed wage structure made possible by discriminatory practices in employment." She stressed the importance of each individual's committment to take action now to right existing wrongs where he finds them and called upon her audience to consider "not what you can do but how best you can do it—now."

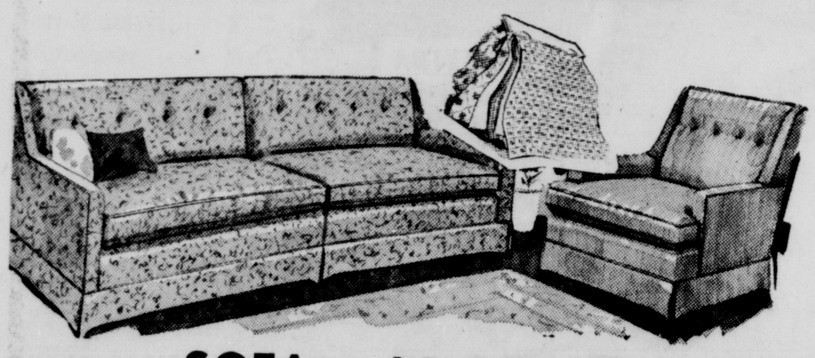

The Ulster County Chapter will begin a workshop in nonviolent disciplines under the instruction of National Field Worker Brendon Sexton. The first workshop will take place at 18 Mill Street, Kingston, Saturday, June 13, at 3:30. It is open to the public. At 8 p. m. the same day, CORE will sponsor a money-raising dance at the Recreation Center on Lower Broadway. Admission price will be nominal.

ROGER BLACK MICHAEL GALLAGHER

BOYS STATE CANDIDATES — Two Onteora Central High school students—Roger Black, left, and Michael Gallagher have been nominated for the American Legion's Boys State . Black was nominated to represent Phoenicia Post and Gallagher to represent Olive Post.

Nominate OCS Students for Boys State

Paul T. Runge, principal of the Onteora High School, has announced the nomination of two OCS students to represent American Legion posts at the annual Legion Boys State convention at Colgate University.

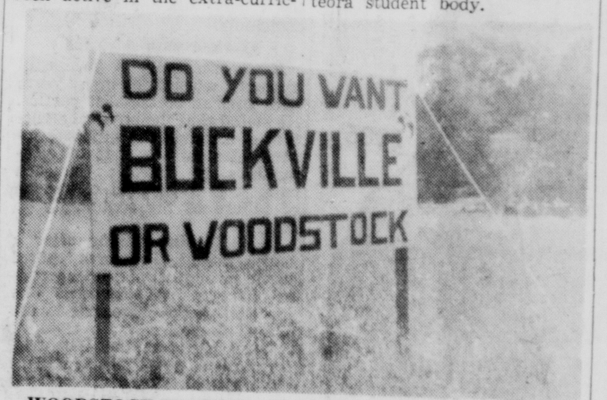

Nominated were Roger Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm D. Black, to represent Phoenicia Post 950, and Raymond J. Gallagher to represent Olive Memorial Post.

Both boys were chosen on the basis of an outstanding citizenship record and evidence of academic achievement and qualities of leadership.

Both Very Active

Black and Gallagher have been active in the extra-curricular program of the school. Black has been a class representative member of the dance band, the Junior Class vice president and a member of the radio club, Spanish club, current events club and the NRA club. He was also elected president of the Senior Class for 1965. He has earned varsity letters in football and track. Gallagher has been a member of the Biology Club and received varsity letters in football and baseball.

Each year, both the Phoenicia Post and the Olive Memorial Post have sponsored two boys to attend the Boys State program. This sponsorship, in addition to the awarding of prizes at graduation, has been one of the valuable contributions of the local community organizations to encourage and foster scholarship and good citizenship on the part of the Onteora student body.

WOODSTOCK PROTEST—This sign appeared recently at Bradley Meadows in Woodstock when it was learned that negotiations are under way to locate a supermarket and shopping center at this traditional setting for artists down through the years. Vassar Alumnae Contribute Over Million Dollars

More than $1,000,000 was contributed by Vassar College alumnae to the annual alumnae fund for the fourth straight year, it was reported Saturday at a meeting at the college. The contributions aggregated $1,411,676.

The Class of 1914, the 50th reunion class, reported a total of $550,602 in contributions and pledges. Mrs. Edmund A. Crenshaw Jr., Philadelphia, and Miss Annie L. Green, New York City, co-chairmen of their class's gift, reported a 96 per cent participation of 187 living graduates.

The college, which in the early 1950's started the trend for big giving by the alumnae of Women's colleges, this year will receive the United States Steel Foundation third place award for sustained alumni giving, in a competition sponsored by the American Alumni Council.

On Saturday, reunions were conducted by 13 former classes. Mrs. James R. Breed of Poughkeepsie was elected chairman of the nominating committee of the Alumnae Association.

Deputy Sheriff, Prisoner Hurt In Auto Crash

A Dutches County Deputy Sheriff and a prisoner were injured at 1:45 a. m. Sunday, when a sheriff's car was involved in a collision on Main Street at Innis Avenue, Poughkeepsie.

Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan told The Freeman that Deputy Sheriff Harold Jennings, 53, of Salt Point Road, Town of Hyde Park, was taking a Millerton youth to the jail, when the crash occurred.

The other car, Sheriff Quinlan said, was driven by Morris D. Kovacs, 53, of 6 Vineyard Avenue, Highland. Kovacs and his wife reportedly were not injured.

Richard D. Miller, 18, of Millerton, was in the sheriff's car, enroute to jail to await arraignment on an intoxication charge. Miller suffered severe lacerations of the forehead which required more than 22 sutures at Vassar Hospital.

Deputy Jennings was treated for an injury of the right arm. He later was released.

The sheriff said Jennings was driving west on Main Street and as he approached Innis Avenue the traffic light was green in his favor. The deputy saw the Kovacs car pulling out of Innis Avenue into the path of his car, and he tried to avoid a collision by pulling to the right, Quinlan said. The cars collided, and the sheriff's car continued on and snapped off a fire hydrant, causing the water to shoot into the air.

A Board of Public Works crew was summoned to the scene to make repairs.

Sheriff Quinlan said the accident investigation will continue, and a charge probably will be lodged.

Ulster, Dutchess

were traveling in opposite directions when the headon crash occurred.

Detective Sergeants Philip McCready and David Cundy of the Poughkeepsie town police, investigated.

The Associated Press listed the number of traffic deaths at 20. One person was burned to death and two others died in other kinds of mishaps. The tally began at 6 p. m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Ends Tragically

The train-car crash marked the tragic end to a day of swiming and water skiing.

The youngsters had driven from their homes in Wappingers Falls, south of Poughkeepsie, to Ballston Lake for a weekend at a summer camp.

After a day on the lake, they headed for town for dinner. The car was struck at a grade crossing and dragged nearly a half-mile by the southbound freight.

Rescuers worked an hour to cut away the twisted metal with acetylene torches before removing the dead and injured from the car.

The dead were John F. Burns, 21, Michael J. Barry, 13, David Windheim, 15, and David's sister, Corine, 17. Barry's sister, Anna, 15, was in critical condition with head injuries at a Schenectady hospital.

Others Reported

Other deaths, by community, included:

Rotterdam Junction — Alfred Kietzmann, 27, Amsterdam, car hit a tree early Saturday.

Schenectady—Lecretia Philips 9, hit by a car Saturday night.

Vernon—Sharon Ann Dundon, 16, Verona, struck by a car Saturday night.

Agree Tentatively

NEW YORK (AP)—A tentative agreement that could end the Broadway theater strike was announced today by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

He said negotiators for Actors Equity Association and the League of New York Theaters agreed at 3 a.m., but their action is subject to a vote by the governing bodies of both groups today.

The terms won't be disclosed until presented to the governing bodies, Wagner said. The negotiators said they were confident of acceptance.

Conservative Poll Picks Newcombe And Rickard Here

Lloyd A. Newcombe and Eric M. Rickard have won the Conservative Party primary contests, according to Lee Pierce, chairman of the Conservative Party of Ulster County.

Mr. Newcombe, of Catskill, is the Party's candidate for Senator from the 34th Senatorial District, and Mr. Rickard, of Mt. Tremper, is the Party's candidate for Assemblyman from the first Assembly District.

"Lloyd Newcombe won by a ratio of about 4 to 1 over incumbent Senator E. Ogden Bush," said Mr. Pierce, "while Eric Rickard won by more than 7 to 1 over incumbent Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

Mr. Newcombe was not available for comment, being away for a rest after his strenuous campaign.

Mr. Rickard expressed his sincere appreciation for the support indicated by the vote of the enrolled members of his party and stated he will closely adhere to the Party platform — "dedication to our American tradition of limited constitutional government, individual liberty and self-reliance."

"It is interesting to note," said Rickard, "that almost 50 per cent of the enrolled Conservatives voted in the Ulster County primary. This is, indeed, a remarkable turnout and is an excellent indication of the enthusiasm and vitality of the Conservative movement." Rickard is the first Ulster County enrolled Conservative to run for public office.

The Conservative Party of New York became the first official Conservative Party in the nation in 1962. November 1963 was the first time that voters could enroll in the party.

The next meeting of the Conservative Party of Ulster County has been postponed until Thursday evening, June 18. Frank S. Meyer of Woodstock will be the guest speaker.

Five Are Injured

Robinson was taken to Ellenville Hospital and treated for lacerations of the face and chest injuries. Trooper Pinnow said the driver was charged with operating a motor vehicle with unsafe tires.

Lloyd Davis, 19, of the Nevele Hotel, Ellenville, was injured at 5:25 p. m. Sunday when his car went out of control on Old Country Road, Town of Wawarsing, and hit a utility pole.

Fails on Curve

Trooper Pinnow said Davis was driving south when he failed to negotiate a left curve. The car skidded on wet pavement and hit the pole on the east side of the road. Davis was treated at Veteran's Memorial Hospital for lacerations of the scalp and abrasions of the right leg.

State Police Sergeant D. J. Suttlehan cited the youth for being an unlicensed driver. The summons is returnable at a later date.

Cars operated by Charles Pomeroy, 20, of Kerhonkson, and George Rycar, 21, of 428 East 139th Street, the Bronx, were involved in a collision on Route 209 about two miles north of Wawarsing at 9:55 a. m. Saturday. Rycar was cited by Trooper William Hubert on a charge of failing to yield the right of way, according to Trooper Pinnow.

Sideswipe Collision

Troopers said Pomeroy was driving north on Route 209 and Rycar was approaching the highway on Ukranian Road when the crash occurred. No injuries were reported.

Cars operated by James DiStefano, 69, of Thompson Ridge, and Edward Clowse, 19, Silver Lake, Middletown, were involved in a sideswipe collision in New Prospect Road, Town of Shawangunk, at 4:30 p. m. Sunday. No injuries were reported and no charges were filed. Trooper C. R. Larson investigated.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market nudged higher in slow trading early this afternoon despite some heavy selling in Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional.

Texas Gulf fell 3⅛ to 47 on a delayed opening block of 24,000 shares, trimming its loss only slightly in a rash of subsequent trades.

The company is being sued by two Canadian mining companies which claim they own the Ontario land on which Texas Gulf announced a big mineral discovery which has boomed the price of the stock.

Moderate and selective gains among airlines, motors, steels, oils, nonferrous metals and utilities helped bolster the averages.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 302.0 with industrials up .6, rails unchanged and utilities up .5.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .04 at 806.07.

Wide moves elsewhere in the list included 2-point hops by IBM and Xerox. Polaroid lost a point.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange seemed to have an irregularly higher trend.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Traver Without Lawyer, Trial Is Set for June 22

A suspended Poughkeepsie police lieutenant, today made another appearance in Dutchess County Court to face a second degree assault charge, involving the alleged wounding of a Highland taxicab driver.

George H. Traver, who received a week's adjournment on Monday, June 1, after his attorney N. LeVan Haver, of Kingston withdrew from the case, told Judge John R. Schwartz he had engaged the services of another attorney but the lawyer's physician had advised him not to take the case. The name was not mentioned in court.

Judge Schwartz told Traver the case was not a complicated one and that the defendant should be able to obtain counsel.

Assistant District Attorney John Heilman noted that the case has been pending six months since Traver was indicted and he asked the judge to set a definite date for trial. His suggestion that the trial be put down for June 22, was approved by the court.

Traver has been under suspension since his arrest by Town of Poughkeepsie police last Nov. 17, when the police officer allegedly hit John Phillips, of Highland with his service revolver during an argument in front of Traver's home. The gun discharged and wounded the Highland man.

May Be Further Gains Even After a Big Rise

Q) "I own Texas Gulf Sulphur for which I paid 17. The shares are now up in the 50's. Should I sell at this price or hold? I also have shares in Ponce de Leone Trotting Association, Florida. Could you let me know if these have any value?" J.M.

A) I congratulate you on your purchase of Texas Gulf Sulphur, but I can only commiserate with you on Ponce de Leone Trotting Association. There is no bid for these shares.

Texas Gulf had one of the most sensational rises in the list this year when it discovered zinc, copper, and silver ores—in substantial amounts—in its land holdings near Timmins, Ontario. No one can yet evaluate these holdings, or estimate what they will mean to future earnings of Texas Gulf.

If you are not in need of income, I would play along with this situation, which has a big speculative potential. Otherwise, I would sell.

Q) "A good article of yours on E bonds — very informative. I have a lot of E bonds purchased from 1944 on through the subsequent 15 years. I never look at them. You said there is a ten-year extension period after maturity. If my bonds have gone beyond that period, do you think I should check and see what I should do?" E.H.

A) Thank you. I like to write about series E bonds, because I believe they are the safest, most stable security available, and because they afford an absolutely assured 3¾ per cent return to maturity, compounded semi-annually.

It is entirely unnecessary for you to check your E bonds. All of these have entered, or will enter, their second period of extension automatically. They will accrue 3¾ per cent if held to maturity, with one exception. The issues dated from June 1957 and subsequently, have been granted automatic extension, but the accrual rate has not yet been set.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Essex Wire Corp. Strike Continues

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — The Essex Wire Corp. strike moved into a 101st day today after failure of a proposed settlement pact to win strikers' approval of its full terms.

The strikers, members of the International Union of Eelectrical Workers, sent the package back to their bargaining committee Sunday night in an action described by union representatives as unanimous.

"The members were just as unanimous as the day (March 28) they walked out of the plant," said George Gould, IUE international representative.

Hillsdale Local 810 of the IUE pulled out its 180 Essex Wire production workers in a dispute over a first contract with the company.

Next steps to get the parties back together were not yet clear.

Gov. George W. Romney, who played a big role in prior negotiations, had no immediate comment on the new turn in events.

Romney, shuttling between Michigan and Cleveland for the National Governors Conference at the Ohio city, returned to Michigan Sunday night just in time to hear of the union's action. Romney had a breakfast date in Detroit today with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Two hundred National Guardsmen remained on patrol in the factory strike zone with Romney's 10-day-old state of emergency order still effective.

Details of the four-year-contract proposal were not disclosed in full.

Sen. Smith Is Not For Any Effort ToStopGoldwater

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine says she will have nothing to do with any move to bar Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona from winning the Republican presidential nomination.

"I'm not in favor of stopping anyone," Mrs. Smith, a candidate herself for the GOP nomination, told a newsman Sunday.

The reporter had asked whether she would take part in a "Stop-Goldwater" movement.

Mrs. Smith commented during a news conference, after addressing the graduating class at Skidmore College, a women's college, and receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree.

She expressed an opinion that Goldwater did not yet have the nomination sewed up. His most difficult job, she predicted, will be to obtain the last few needed votes in the convention balloting.

Health for All

Star Billing

If you're in a trend-spotting mood these heady spring days (trend-spotting is the armchair squatter's substitute for bird-ogling), here's an item worth your notice. The New York State Health Department announced recently that it was establishing a new bureau devoted to combating chronic respiratory disease.

In announcing the move, the New York State Health Commissioner pointed out that upstate deaths from chronic respiratory disease had actually doubled in the two decades from 1940 to 1960. Ailments in this category include asthma, emphysema, chronic broncnitis, tuberculosis and others.

Chronic RD on a national scale now afflicts an estimated minimum of 12,000,000 Americans, and possibly as many as 27,000,000. While there has been a decrease in tuberculosis, other diseases of breathing such as emphysema and lung cancer have increased at a drastic rate. Whatever the sum total of reasons may be (cigarette smoking and air pollution are widely agreed to be important among them), it's lucky for all of us that the two commonest symptoms of Respiratory Disease are easy to spot. One is chronic cough; the other is shortness of breath.

Neither is a sure indication of serious RD, but both are warning signals not to be ignored. In fact, they are important enough to have first and second billing in the slogan of the RD Alert that Christmas Seal associations in all parts of the country are conducting right now: "Cough too much? Short of breath? Don't take chances with respiratory disease See a doctor." It means everybody, including you.

$4,325 Ruby Found On Weekend Gem Hunt

FRANKLIN, N.C. (AP) — A ruby estimated to be worth $4,325 was found by a Georgia housewife on a weekend gem hunt at the Old Shuler mine near here.

Mrs. David Stock, 30, of Dawson, Ga., bought six buckets of dirt for $1 at the mine and found a ruby weighing 86.50 carats.

Mrs. Stock, wife of a ladies ready-to-wear dealer, called it "a gift of God."

The mine charges a set fee for tourists to try their luck.

Jim Brinkman, who runs a gem shop in this area, estimated the value of Mrs. Stock's ruby at $50 a carat.

Brilliant Play Defeats South

BY OSWALD JACOBY

A motorist stopped his car to ask a Vermont farmer, "How far is it to Brattleboro?"

The reply was, "About 25,000 miles the way you are going, but if you turn around it's only 15."

A great many bridge players have a tendency to play hands that way. Occasionally such roundabout plays work. Most of the time it pays to use the simplest method available.

South's two no-trump was brilliant, imaginative and most unsound. Had he just passed, North would probably have bid and made three hearts. North might well have bid three hearts anyway, but he decided to gamble.

West doubled on general principles and opened the queen of diamonds.

South won in dummy and knocked out the ace of hearts. At this point, West could have led a club and defeated the contract, but West made the conservative lead of a low diamond. He hoped his partner would show up with the ace of spades.

This should have allowed South to bring home nine tricks, but South was too brilliant for that. He ran off the heart suit.

West discarded the five of spades and the queen-eight-four of clubs while East let go two spades and a club. Now South decided that West had hung on to an unguarded king of spades, so South led a spade from dummy, went up with his ace and conceded down one when the king failed to drop.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) —When Robert D. Graham completed his term as mayor recently, his friends referred to the four years as "years of enlightment."

During Graham's tenure, more than 2,800 mercury vapor street lights were installed in a 50-block area.

Beet-Cane Sugar Refinery Started

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — The bite of a ceremonial shovel into rain-dampened ground marked the beginning of construction of the first combination beet-cane sugar refinery in the United States.

About 500 persons looked on Sunday as government officials and businessmen marked the start of efforts to revive the Central New York sugar beet industry, which died out more than a half-century ago.

The $22-million plant is scheduled for full operation by October 1965 and is expected to process 50,000 tons of beet sugar annually.

It will be operated by the Empire State Sugar Refinery Co., a subsidiary of Pepsi Cola Co., and will rise on a 350-acre site, 14 miles north of Auburn.

The U.S. Agriculture Department has granted the Finger Lakes-Central New York area its first sugar beet allotment of 29,500 acres.

Speakers at the ground-breaking Sunday included Donald M. Kendall, president and chief executive of Pepsi Cola,

Pauker, Turck, Waterous and Carnright Pace Qualifiers

Herdegen Play Starts Saturday At Twaalfskill

A Kingston High school varsity golfer, Neil Pauker, led Herdegen Memorial qualifiers with an 18-hole score of 38-37-75 over Wiltwyck Country Club's sprawling par 36-36-72 layout Saturday.

Charles J. (Jimmy) Turck's 74-80-154 paced Wiltwyck's 13-man qualifing contingent. Three Wiltwyck players—Leon Randall, William (Buzzy) Costello and Harvey Bostic were exempt from the qualifying round.

At Woodstock Country Club, veteran Allen Waterous, posted a 36-hole score of 149 to lead five qualifiers. The club champion, Bill Van Aken, was exempt.

Robert Carnright of Saugerties fired 35-38-73 to pace the Twaalfskill Club qualifiers. Club champion George Hughes was exempt.

Frank K. Muller of Ellenville, a Cortland State player, earned the sixth at-large spot in a 4-hole sudden death playoff with Sam Spiegel of the Kingston high school varsity. Muler, who scrambled back with a 15-foot saving putt on the second hole of the playoff, eliminated Spiegel with a par-4. Spiegel sliced his tee shot and needed 3 to get on and missed his bid for the equalizer.

Two Fine Comebacks

Two spectacular comebacks highlighted the Wiltwyck qualifying round. W. H. (Bill) Mc Cullen rebounded from a first round of 88 with 73 for 161 and Art Ellis went from 91 to 78 for 169, the cutoff figure at his club.

Players qualified under a new format for the first time this year. Clubs were alloted quotas based on participation in the Herdegen tournament over the past five years.

The Shawangunk Country Club (Ellenville) qualifiers have not yet been determined. Deadline for filing is Wednesday.

The 72-hole medal tournament gets underway next Saturday, June 13, at 9 a. m. at The Twaalfskill Club.

All Stars Lose Cup Tilt, 3-0

German-American League All Stars blanked the Central New York All Stars, 3-0, in a Kennedy Cup series game Sunday at Albany. The loss eliminated the upstaters from the tournament.

Recent winners over the crack Hamburg, Germany booters, the German-American team dominated the action from the beginning. Tremendous work by the team's goalie thwarted several scoring bids by the Centrals.

Kingston Sport Club players on the all-star squad included Lee Roberts, George Vizvary, Alex Dirks, Carlos Bustamente, Tony Fitzharris.

All-star Jimmy Reinhardt remains on the injured list from injuries sustained in the May 24 game against Troy.

Resume Sunday

The Sport Club, locked in a tie with Albany Athletic Club, resumes league play next Sunday against the Albany Sons of Italy at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

In two other preliminary games on Sunday's program at Albany, Kingston Jayvees nipped the Albany AC's second team, 4 to 3, on a last minute goal by Bob Graves. The goal broke a deadlock that existed throughout most of the second half. The other goals were kicked by three members of the Kingston club. Ronald Scharlley, Brian Ennis and Roy McCoultchor.

Local Jayvees resume play next Sunday against the Poughkeepsie Blue and White varsity squad. Sunday's win kept Tony Alexander's charges unbeaten for the season.

In their second outing of the season, the Sport Club Juniors lost to Albany, 1-0.

The Jayvee lineup:

Goal — Manning; LFB — B. Sylvesky; RFB — Pete Wolf; CHB—Shaun Northrup; RHB—McCoultchor; LHB—Oscar; CF—Graves; OL—W. Hansen; IL—Hans Ulfig; OR—R. Scharlley; IR—B. Ennis; subs—R. Renalds, R. Dirks.

Rohan Takes Stock Feature In Debut at Onteora Track

Johnny Rohan, the Poughkeepsie stock car veteran, made his debut at Onteora Speedway and proved he will be a leading contender for top honors this year. Rohan, incidentally, had to qualify for the finals in the consolation event.

Rohan forged to the lead in the 25-lap feature and was in complete command the rest of the way. Ernie Beesmer, the consistent winner from Olive Bridge, made several passes at Rohan but could never quite overhaul Rohan's 404.

Beesmer was trailed across the finish line by Lou Searing, Ed Yonker, Fred Searing and John Van Leuvan in that order.

Three close finishes marked the keenly contested heats. The results follow:

Third heat—Fred Searing, Ed Yonker, Dick Van Leuvan, Clayton Barringer.

Consolation, Johnny Rohan, Beesmer, Vallely, Green.

Racing will continue every Friday night at the "Big O" and in case of rain, the show will be staged Sunday at 7 p. m.

Harold Montanye led the first five laps but was in collision with Beesmer. Nissen went ahead and held it until the skies opened and flagman Dick Young called it a complete race.

Heat winners were Beesmer and Montanye, Bud Glass captured the consolation.

Ron Santosky, the Rosendale flash, won the sedan feature for the third time but was bested by Doug Tyler in the reverse start.

Silver's Many Uses

Silver was once used only as a monetary standard and as decorative metal, but lately increasing uses have been found for it in industry. The shiny metal is a major ingredient in making photographic film. Silver's conductivity and resistance to corrosion makes it valuable in the electronics field.

Ed Palladino's MR Selections

BEST BET—Marcel Mir (1st)
UPSET CHANCE—E.T. Adios (4th)

1. MARCEL MIR won four straight at Green Mountain. Will probably go to the wire in this one. Figures as the best of the night. GRAND DARNLEY was once a fair pacer Has Cobb and the pole and figures to be tough, if on gait. FAMOROUS will be close.

2. SUMTER REBEL is as good a guess as any in a race of non-winners. LADDIE PICK and SUCCESS SID are next in line but don't count on it.

3. HENRY JONES closed well in debut at MR. Can win this with top-rated drive. NEVELE DUKE can't go much lower. Was once a classy trotter. COSMIC HANOVER doesn't show too much.

4. MARIE ADIOS a beaten favorite Rates another chance. E. T. ADIOS in perfect spot to upset. Can do just that. FABULOUS FLAME has been out only once but seems ready.

5. CASH IN started too late and just nipped in previous outing. Has a chance despite post. WAYCOUNT starts fast and might hang on. ADIOS TOPPER won before despite two breaks. Figures to be close.

6. WYN CREED has met and beaten better. Should cop this race. BLUE GRASS is the competition. TRADER VIC has the pole but little else.

7. KNIGHT PRINCE gets the call in a tight finish. CONGRESS KING seems troublesome. BAR RAIL shows a 2:08.3 reading.

8. TOPMOST a shaky choice over PAULETTE WICK and SKIPPER TASS, especially if Carmine does the driving.

9. ATLAS BOY doesn't have much to beat. GENE PUTNEY needs racing. JACQUELINE BYRD is another who has been out but once this season.

The doubles team moved into first place in the event, bumping Bob Moulter and Al Biggio of Elmira, with 1,369, into second place.

Art and Beef

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Probably the world's only combination meat market and art gallery is in El Paso at the Crossroads Meat Market. "Andy" Anderson sells sides of beef there and his wife Ferne exhibits her oil paintings on the walls. It's a pleasure for housewives shopping for the week's meat to be able to take in a rotating art exhibition at the same time.

BUTTERFLY, AND OWNER, MEET LUCI—Ten-year-old Karen House brought her dog Butterfly to a Pet Parade in La Grange, Ill., and met the President's daughter. Luci Johnson smiles as she pats the dog Karen received last year from Mrs. John F. Kennedy. Butterfly is the offspring of Pushinka, a Russian dog given to the late President Kennedy by Soviet Premier Khrushchev. (Ap Wirephoto)

Williams' Caddy Gets Key Hit; Dark, Mauch in Strategic War

Stephans Gets Winning Safety As Chisox Sweep

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gene Stephens, who made a living in the '50s as Ted Williams' caddy in the Boston Red Sox outfield, earns his major league paycheck these days with a set of clubs.

Stephens' pinch single in the eighth inning drove in the winning run Sunday as Chicago nipped Detroit 2-1 and completed a doubleheader sweep.

There was a time when all Stephens needed to earn his keep in the big time was a ready glove. That was in the twilight of Williams' fabulous American League career. The Splendid Splinter would start in left field, do his damage at the plate, and then let Stephens handle the fielding for the last few innings.

But when Williams retired in 1960, Stephens had to come up with something more than a five-fingered piece of leather to keep his job. It took him three years and a trip to the minors but he appears to have done it.

Stephens drifted to Baltimore and Kansas City and then to Indianapolis in 1963 when, all of a sudden, he discovered his bat. A .304 average with 17 homers earned him a look with the White Sox at the tailend of last season and he impressed with seven for 18 and a .389 average.

Chicago Manager Al Lopez remembered Stephens' bat in the eighth inning of Sunday's second game against Detroit. The White Sox had taken the opener 8-3 but were trailing 1-0 against Hank Aguirre in the nightcap.

Error Starts It

Floyd Robinson led off the eighth and reached on Jake Wood's error. A balk and a sacrifice moved Robinson to third and he scored on Ron Hansen's single. Don Buford's single put the winning run in scoring position and Lopez called for Stephens.

The veteran outfielder singled to left, delivering Hansen with the winning run and completing the sweep for the Chisox.

The double victory coupled with Minnesota's 5-2 victory over Baltimore put the White Sox in first place, a half-game in front of the Orioles. Elsewhere in the AL, New York whacked Los Angeles 9-3, Boston and Kansas City split with the Red Sox winning the first 9-5 and the A's taking the second 8-6, and Cleveland split a pair with Washington, winning the first 3-2 in 15 innings and losing the nightcap 6-3.

Stephens' hit made a winner of Joel Horlen, who fired a strong three-hitter, allowing just one hit after the first inning and retiring 20 of the last 21 batters he faced.

Dave Nicholson crashed a three-run homer and Pete Ward delivered a clutch single to win the opener. The Tigers had come back to tie it after Nicholson's eighth homer of the season put the Sox on top. A hit batsman and singles by Robinson and Ward pushed the lead run across in the sixth.

Ford Wins 7th

Whitey Ford won his seventh straight for the Yankees with home run support from Tommy Tresh and Elston Howard. Ken McBride lost it for the Angels, his 10th setback in 11 decisions. Ford hasn't lost and McBride hasn't won since Opening Day.

The Red Sox and A's had a home run duel with 11 balls soaring into Municipal Stadium's seats. Frank Malzone and Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs apiece in Boston's first game victory. Both homered and Yastrzemski had another circuit in the second game. Dick Williams homered twice for Boston in the second game and Jim Gentile drove in five runs with two homers for the A's in the nightcap.

The A's scored all their runs in the opener on homers with Ed Charles and Bill Bryan each connecting with a man on and pitcher Orlando Pena adding a bases empty shot. Tony Conigliaro had a two-run homer for the Red Sox.

The Twins halted rookie Wally Bunker's winning streak at six games and dropped the Orioles into second place. Baltimore grabbed a quick 2-0 lead but Harmon Killebrew's 15th homer evened things in the second. Tony Oliva and pitcher Camilo Iascual, who won his eighth, drive in runs to give Minnesota the lead and Bernie Allen's fifth homer closed the scoring.

Bob Chance clubbed two homers for Cleveland but the Indians struggled into the 15th before winning the first game against Washington. Al Smith singled Leon Wagner home to break it up after a walk and a throwinr error had put the winning run on third.

Chuck Hinton homered and added two other hits as Washington came back to take the nightcap. Al Koch won it, scattering eight hits including John Romano's seventh homer.

One Gold Fang

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When Hans, a sentry dog at Lockbourne Air Force Base, broke a fang on a fence, veterinarian Don Waldrup and dental officers Ralph Garcia and James Bigalke tackled repairs.

Now, although he may not be the handsomest sentry dog on base Hans is the most dazzling. The fang he damaged is gold-capped.

Giants Win It With Late Rally; LA Beats Mets

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When they come to write Danny Cater's baseball epitaph, they could say simply: "He was an innocent victim of the Great War."

Cater, a 24-year-old Philadelphia rookie, was listed in the starting line-up as batting fifth Sunday when first-place San Francisco edged the second-place Phillies 4-3 in 10 innings. Although seven Phillies came to the plate in the first inning, Cater never made it.

Managers Al Dark and Gene Mauch took care of that.

They perpetrated one of the weirdest innings of the season, moving players in and out faster than James Bond gets into trouble.

Giants' starter Bob Hendley, a southpaw, triggered the strategy battle by hitting Tony Taylor with a pitch, walking Cookie Rojas and giving a run-scoring single to Johnny Callison, the only hit of the inning.

Out came Dark and in came right-handed reliever Bob Bolin. Richie Allen walked, loading the bases and bringing Cater to the plate.

However, before the right-handed hitting Cater could look at a pitch, Mauch pulled him for left-hander Wes Covington. Bolin then went the same way as Cater as Dark brought on southpaw Ken MacKenzie. Mauch, not wanting to run out of outfielders before he got through one inning, let Covington bat.

Dark, however, didn't let MacKenzie pitch too long. After he got Covington on a pop out, he departed in favor of right-hander Gaylord Perry, the fourth Giants' pitcher. By now, observers were beginning to wonder if Dark would have to finish the game with Willie Mays on the mound.

The rest of the inning, though, went relatively fast. Roy Sievers lined a sacrifice fly to Mays for the second run, and Gus Triandos struck out.

After that display of bullpen versatility, Dark apparently took pity on his staff. He brought in just three more pitchers the rest of the way.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati outslugged St. Louis 11-6, Chicago overpowered Milwaukee 5-2, Pittsburgh whipped Houston 6-1 after losing 6-3 and Los Angeles trounced New York 6-1, then played a 1-1 tie when rain washed out the game after five innings.

Although Mauch might have won the battle, Dark wound up winning the war. Down 3-0, the Giants rallied in the ninth on Duke Snider's two-run homer and Jim Hart's solo blast. They won it in the 10th as Chris Short walked Tom Haller with the bases loaded, forcing in Chuck Hille.

Deron Johnson belted five hits in five times at bat and John Edwards clouted a grand slam homer in the first inning for the Reds. Johnson rapped three singles, a double and a home run. Frank Robinson also homered for the Reds while Julian Javier hit two and Charlie James one for the Cardinals.

The Cubs knocked down the Braves with home run power. Ernie Banks and Billy Williams each connected with one on and Andre Rodgers hit a bases-empty blast. Hank Aaron slammed a two-run home fror the Braves.

Vernon Law scattered seven hits as he won his third game against five defeats for the Pirates. He was supported by Bill Mazeroski's three-run inside-the-park homer in the second.

The Colts won the first game with a five-run rally in the ninth. Rusty Staub drove in the tying and winning runs with a bases-loaded single while John Bateman added a home run. Until the ninth, Pirates' starter Bob Veale had a three-hitter. He struck out 12, tying a Pittsburgh record for strikeouts in a nine-inning game.

Don Drysdale pitched and batted the Dodgers over the Mets in the opener, allowing six hits and driving in two runs with a homer in the third and a sacrifice bunt in the four-run ninth. He also singled. Charlie Smith homered for the Mets. Jim Hickman's home run in the fifth gave the Mets a 1-1 tie in the nightcap.

Vassar Hospital Wing Approved

An estimated $3.5 million project for a seven-story south wing at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, has been approved by the Hospital Review and Planning Council of Southern New York, it was made known Sunday.

J. Ernest Doolittle, president of the hospital's Board of Trustees, said plans have been approved. The project will include enlargement and improvement of emergency, surgical and recovery areas.

Doolittle said the building program will get underway immediately, with $3 million of the cost to be sought in public subscriptions throughout the area served by the hospital. The contributions will supplement $500,000 in funds now held by the hospital.

Doolittle stated the plans provide for a net increase of 90 beds for patients, increasing the hospital's total capacity from 255 acceptable beds to 345. It was explained that acceptable beds are those that meet U. S. Public Health Service standards for location and amount of adjacent space.

The new addition will be southwest of the five-story Community wing, costing $3 million, which was dedicated in January, 1960.

Open Bids Wednesday

Bid proposals on a project at State University College at New Paltz will be opened Wednesday, June 10 at 10:30 a. m. at the Department of Public Works Administration and Engineering Building, The State Campus, Albany. The project calls for sanitary work for correction of plugged sewer lines in Building 26 at the college.

Hayes Will Discuss Right to Work Laws

William K. Hayes, legislative director of the National Right To Work Committee, will speak on "The Truth About Right To Work Laws" at the 1964 convention of the Delaware County Bankers' Association, to be held at Kass' Inn, Margaretville, on Wednesday evening, June 10.

Hayes, who is making a series of appearances before groups in the Catskill and Mid-Hudson areas this month, is a native of upstate New York. A graduate of Fordham University, he received his law degree from George Washington University, and is a Navy veteran of the Korean War. He became associated in 1963 with the Right To Work organization, a nationwide coalition of workers and employers futhering state legislation to outlaw compulsory union membership.

Tito in Leningrad

MOSCOW (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia arrived in Leningrad today for talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Outlook for Humid Week, Several Days of Showers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts for Upstate New York, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Saturday:

Eastern New York — Warm and rather humid most of the week. Several days of showers and scattered thunderstorms. Good chance of showers and scattered thundershowers late Wednesday and Thursday and probably again over the weekend. Rainfall one-half inch or more. Temperatures well above normal.

Western New York — Temperatures will average 4-7 degrees above normal. Warmer Tuesday and Wednesday, cooler Thursday, warmer at the end of the week. Scattered showers late Tuesday or Wednesday and again at the end of the week, averaging one-half to locally one inch.

Temperature Normals—Daytime highs in the 70s; nighttime lows in the 50s.

TO RAZE LANDMARK—The 63-year-old wooden-planked Fish Creek bridge on the Fish Creek-High Woods Road will be razed and replaced by a modern concrete and steel structure, if preliminary plans are approved by Ulster County Board of Supervisors. Replacement of the landmark has been under study for some time. Under the proposed arrangement the bridge, a property of the Town of Saugerties, would be turned over to the county which maintains the county road connecting the bridge. The existing bridge at the site was constructed by the American Bridge Company of New York under the administration of the late David W. Maxwell, who was supervisor. It was completed in 1901. William B. Wolven was town clerk, and Augustus Wolven served as superintendent of highways. It replaced the old covered bridge which stood at the site for many years. (Freeman photo).

Williams Pays Fine

Albert Williams, 32, of Box 157, Clintondale, was arrested by Town of Plattekill constables on Sunday charged with being an unlicensed operator, driving an unregistered vehicle and driving while intoxicated. Before Justice of the Peace James Palen a $100 fine or 10 days in jail was imposed on the driving while intoxicated charge, $25 or five days in jail on the unregistered vehicle charge and $25 or five days in jail on the charge of being an unlicensed operator. The fines were paid.

Johnson Scoffing At Story About Menace to Liberty

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP)—President Johnson scoffed today at those who call the federal government "a major menace to individual liberty."

At the same time he appealed to college graduates of 1964 not to "feel alien to this world they are preparing to enter."

By some definitions, Johnson's message appeared to be aimed, on the one hand, at those who share the political philosophy of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and, on the other, at the college-educated segment of "the beat generation."

In his address, prepared for commencement exercises at Swarthmore College, Johnson said: "Let us not call forth phantom fears about what the future holds."

Continuing, he said, "One of those fears is that the federal government has become a major menace to individual liberty."

"This," he asserted, "is not so."

The chief executive went on to ask a series of rhetorical questions, all of them obviously intended to be answered in the negative:

"Does government subvert our freedom through the social security system?

"Does government undermine our freedom by bringing electricity to the farm—by controlling floods— or by ending bank failures?

"Is freedom lessened by efforts to abate pollution in our streams — or by efforts to strengthen competition in the free market?

"Is freedom diminished by banning the sale of harmful drugs — by providing school lunches for our children — by preserving our wilderness areas —or by improving the safety of our airways?

Johnson saved for last civil rights, a subject he has mentioned in every address he has made this year.

"Is freedom betrayed when in 1964 we redeem in full the pledge made a century ago by the Emancipation Proclamation?"

The President said that "far from crushing the individual, government at its best liberates him from the enslaving forces of his environment."

Alluding again to the civil rights issue, he said, "This government is fighting to free 20 million Americans whose rights and whose hopes have been damned because they were born with dark skin."

He went on to couple the civil rights issue with his antipoverty program, saying, "We are determined to wage unconditional war against the poverty that keeps one-fifth of our people in economic bondage."

WRECKS NEW CAR—A New Jersey woman injured 8:15 p. m. Friday when her new compact went out of control on the Thruway and crashed into guard rails, was discharged from Kingston Hospital Saturday. Thruway Troopers said Miss Helen Lettola, 22 of Westfield, N. J., suffered head, wrist, face and leg injuries. The mishap occurred about three miles north of Kingston. Doctor's ambulance took the injured woman to the hospital. The police report indicates that Miss Lettola purchased the new sports car on Thursday. Thruway Trooper J. F. McDonald (above) investigated.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos M. Rodriquez, Main Street, Highland, have purchased the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon H. Anderson, Little Italy Road, that community. Rodriquez is employed at the Highland Training School for Boys, and Anderson is associated with the Kingston IBM. Stewart T. Schantz was attorney for the sellers, and Mrs. Beatrice H. Speeding Charged

Edgar A. Ford, 28, of 31 Groff Street, Kingston was arrested on Route 28 Sunday evening on a charge of driving 70 miles an hour in a 50 mile zone. Deputy Sheriff James Freer issued a summons returnable before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan at 7 p. m. today.

Rhinebeck Will Vote Wednesday On School Project

Rhinebeck Central School District voters on Wednesday will vote on a proposition for a new 29-room elementary school and alterations to the Central school building, which will cost an estimated $1,412,000. State aid is estimated at $600,000.

Leslie Close, chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee for New buildings in the school district, said the committee urges a large turnout of qualified voters. Polls will be open from 2 to 9 p. m. at the high school.

Close said Mrs. Judy Kane is in charge of transportation and babysitters on voting day and that persons desiring either service may telephone her.

The committee chairman said persons eligible to vote must have these requirements: be a citizen of the United States, be at least 21 years of age, be a resident of the school district for a period of 30 days prior to the vote and must meet one of the following qualifications:

Own or is the spouse of the owner of taxable property in the district; is a parent of a child who has attended a district school for at least eight weeks prior to the day of voting.

Loosen Up Goldwater Is Warned

3 Large States Would Drop Him

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., had notice today from three Republican governors that if he becomes the GOP presidential nominee he will have to alter his conservative image or lose their big states in the November election.

Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and George Romney of Michigan spoke out Sunday at news conferences held in connection with today's opening of the 56th annual national Governors' Conference.

Edges Further

Scranton said on a television broadcast and at a news conference that he is available for the presidential nomination. He edged a little further into the race at the urging of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Scranton said Republican candidates are worried about winning in their states if Goldwater is the nominee.

Rockefeller said he is in the race until a better representative of the moderate Republicans comes along, and he made it clear he doesn't think one will.

Try for Change

What had taken on the aspects Sunday of a "Stop-Goldwater" movement rapidly was changing into an effort by Republican moderates to get Goldwater to accept a strong civil rights declaration in the party platform and to repudiate some of his ideas, such as making Social Security voluntary.

After a day in which GOP moderates flailed away at Goldwater, Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon summed it up as "an exercise in sheer futility." He said he thinks Goldwater's nomination is certain.

Welcomes Talks

Goldwater said in Chester, Pa., where he accepted an honorary degree from Pennsylvania Military College, that he would be glad to talk to Scranton and other leaders about the issues.

"I think I can safely say that I can run on a platform that would contain the civil rights bill that passes the Congress," said Goldwater. "I can assure you it won't be the one that is before us now."

He added that he thinks less than 1 per cent of the Republicans favor the public accommodations section of the bill.

Do Not Jibe

Romney told a news conference Goldwater's views do not "square with the principles for which the Republican party stands on the basis of its past record and heritage."

If Goldwater doesn't clarify them to his satisfaction, the Michigan governor said, "I will do everything in my power to keep him from becoming the party's presidential candidate."

Goldwater has "no popular support in Michigan," said Romney.

Goldwater told a news conference in Chester he expects to be the nominee, but that his critics conceivably could unite and deny him the nomination.

"I won't be confident of it until they've counted the roll call," he said.

Park Suspends 576 To Quiet Action By Korea Students

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—President Chung Hee Park suspended 576 government officials —including a Cabinet vice minister—for corruption today in an effort to quiet student demonstrators. The action was announced by Premier Chung Il-kwon but he did not identify the officials or give other details.

Corruption within Park's government was one cause of the violent student demonstrations against Park in Seoul and other South Korea cities last week.

The president also ordered a probe of scandals charged to his government by the demonstrators. They included a government - financed apartment construction project and price rigging of flour, cement and sugar.

New trouble for Park's government could come from the death Sunday of Lee Yoon-shik, 20, a university freshman injured last Wednesday in the rioting.

Lee was in a group of students who clashed with police guarding the Capitol and the presidential mansion in Seoul. His was the first death reported as a result of the rioting.

A student's death during student demonstrations four years ago touched off the widespread violence that ultimately forced President Syngman Rhee into exile.

Goldwater Wants Scranton To Seek Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater figures that it would take the solid and open opposition of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton to derail his bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Arizona senator indicates he sees no chance of that.

"If they did that, I'd probably step out anyway," Goldwater told newsmen Sunday night as he flew back from Chester, Pa. "A thing like that would tear the party apart."

Goldwater said earlier that all three men have disavowed any part of an effort to stop his candidacy to head the ticket.

He said if he wins the nomination he will "allow my party full swing" in choosing a vice presidential candidate. Goldwater said he thinks party leaders would want to balance the ticket by choosing an Easterner of moderate Republican views to share the ticket.

Goldwater added if he were Scranton he would be thinking about a bid for the vice presidency.

He said if Scranton had second place on a Republican ticket which failed to beat President Johnson the Pennsylvania governor would be in a position to claim the presidential nomination in 1968.

Goldwater told a news conference at Chester that he, Scranton and Nixon "are all very close together on Republican principles." He said they disagree only on minor points.

He made it clear that he sees Nixon as the man to whom his foes could rally in the battle for the nomination.

But as things stand now, Goldwater said, he expects to capture the nomination at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco next month.

"We're running out of actors" in the stop-Goldwater drive, the front-running senator said.

Nixon said again Sunday night that he intends to have no part in any stop-Goldwater movement. But he told a group of Michigan Republicans in Detroit that he would willingly accept any assignment the Republicans gave him "and if the party should decide on me as its candidate, Mr. Johnson would know he'd been in a fight."

Goldwater heads today for a rendezvous with Nixon, Eisenhower and other top Republicans at the National Governors' Conference in Cleveland, Ohio.

Two Are Unhurt As Car Goes Over Palenville Cliff

PALENVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—An automobile sailed through the air over a cliff and landed right side up at least 200 feet down, with only minor injuries to the two young, Brooklyn men inside.

State Police said James Magee, 21, and John Brerton, 21, were wearing seat belts. They were reported in good condition today at Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskills.

Police said the car missed a curve Sunday night on Route 23-A and crashed through guard rails at the Rip's Point lookout near this Catskill Mountain community.

Economic Alliance Would Help Asia, Javits Says

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., proposes a "New Grand Design of U.S. foreign policy," rooted in an economic alliance, to help the people of southeast Asia achieve the strength to stand up to Red China.

Javits addressed a commencement audience Sunday at Colgate University.

The exercises were among more than a score of commencements Sunday in New York State.

Javits urged creation of an economic alliance for development of southeast Asia to provide the people with "the hope and economic opportunity they need to resist the sheer mass and belligerence of the Communist Chinese."

Colgate conferred degrees on 330 seniors and awarded honorary degrees to Javits and to Andy Kerr, the university's retired football coach.

At other graduation ceremonies, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, urged 218 graduates of Skidmore College to give their lives to caring for others, and two federal officials stressed the importance of a liberal education in the space age.

At Schenectady, Dr. Leland J. Haworth, director of the National Science Foundation, told a Union College audience that a person "cannot regard himself as well-informed if he remains in total ignorance of one of the other" of the many types of knowledge.

Relocation Survey Is Set Uptown

A relocation survey is to be started in the uptown urban renewal area this week, Eric Hemphill, urban renewal director announced today.

It is to provide information needed for further development of plans by the relocation office and is to be conducted by Ralph Marallo, relocation director and his assistant Max Mones.

Each family and individual residing at a property which may be acquired, or who must move because of the proposed UR program, will be visited.

Information Available

Relocation services to become available will be explained to householders and certain questions will be asked. Information obtained will be treated confidentially. It is to be used to provide orderly moving of families and persons, once the plan is approved.

The UR Agency is obligated to pay moving expenses and provide asistance to the people and businesses being displaced.

Those conducting the survey will have identification papers and the urban renewal office asks for the cooperation of the renewal area residents. The relocation office is at 97 Broadway.

Downtown Completed

A similar survey in downtown's Broadway East project area was completed last fall.

The plan for the uptown project has been completed and will be presented to the Common Council for approval after review and approval by the federal government.

Meetings are to be held during the summer for explaining the plan to area residents and businessmen.

Presentation of the plan to the community will precede its introduction to the planning board and to the council for approval. Both the planning board and council will hold public hearings on the plan before giving their reaction to it.

10 States to Make Choice

Barry's Drive Heads Toward 600 Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's drive for Republican presidential nominating delegates is expected to near the 600 mark this week as 146 delegates are chosen in 10 states.

With the GOP convention opening five weeks from today, the Arizona senator has 535 first ballot votes according to an Associated Press survey of delegates already chosen. He needs just 120 more—655—for a first ballot victory.

Indications are that Goldwater will pick up enough votes this week to boost his front running total near the 600 mark and set the stage for the last two state conventions next week in Montana and Texas.

Favored to Win

Goldwater will be favored to win most of those delegates, apparently giving him enough to win the nomination.

But Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said Sunday he thought Goldwater would be from 80 to 100 votes short of a first ballot nomination, and he envisioned "quite a contest."

While attention is on the GOP presidential nomination race, candidates for two governorships, three Senate seats and 10 House seats will be decided by voters or party conventions in five states.

Starts on Weekend

Goldwater's post-California primary drive got under way over the weekend at State conventions in Colorado, Alabama, Washington and Hawaii and at a pair of district conventions in Virginia. Combined with some minor vote shifts in Iowa and the District of Columbia, he netted 65 votes, according to the AP survey based on primary commitments, pledges, instruc-

9 People Are Hurt In 8 Kingston Traffic Accidents

Nine persons were injured in eight city traffic mishaps over the weekend and drivers were booked on charges after three of them.

Dolores M. Jump, 16, of 409 Delaware Avenue and Linda Ashdown, 15, of 36 Esopus Avenue, injured in a two-car mishap on the Kingston side of the Rondout Creek Bridge at 7:45 p. m. Saturday were reported in fair condition today at the Benedictine Hospital.

Police said the one car was driven by Dolores Jump, and the other by Eloise Brown Waite, 45, of 1081-16 Seventh Street, Washington, D.C. Miss Ashdown was in the car driven by the local girl.

Dolores Jump is under treatment for contusions and abrasions of the forehead, knee injuries and a mild concussion. The other girl suffered knee, head and elbow injuries.

Driver Keeps Going

Officers Meyer Levy and Curtis VanDemark investigated.

Police were notified at 10:20 p. m. Saturday that a car owned by Annie Lee Jackson, of 239 Catherine Street had been struck by a car, the driver of which, continued on.

New Religious Turmoil Faces Saigon as Catholics Protest

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Thousands of Vietnamese Roman Catholics demonstrated for three hours in downtown Saigon Sunday, threatening the embattled country with new religious-political turmoil.

Many demonstrators carried banners denouncing U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, although organizers of the rally said the anti-Lodge banners were not authorized.

Other banners called Buddhism an ally of communism. A few placards thanked the United States for its aid in the fight against Communist guerrillas.

The anti-Lodge demonstrators accused the ambassador of supporting the Buddhists in their campaign against President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime, which was overthrown last November. Diem his family and many of his leading officials were Roman Catholics and the church had a favored position under his regime.

The demonstration brought out an estimated 40,000 persons on the morning after the sentencing of a Catholic army officer whose troops fired on Buddhist demonstrators in Hue last year. Eight persons died in the clash, which set off the Buddhist campaign against Diem.

Maj. Dang Sy, 37, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Some Catholics think he is being offered as a scapegoat to South Viet Nam's Buddhist majority.

Most of the demonstrators assembled in a square before the U.S. Information Agency building and a U.S. officers' mess. Some had come 25 miles on foot from a Catholic resettlement area for refugees from Communist North Viet Nam. The resettlement area is a stronghold of anti-government sentiment.

A small group broke away and tried to pull down a memorial plaque to President John F. Kennedy. The square, in front of Saigon's Catholic cathedral, was renamed John F. Kennedy Square on May 30.

"This is holy ground in front of the cathedral," said a demonstrator. "We object to having it renamed after a politician."

Some Vietnamese Catholics blame the Kennedy administration for Diem's overthrow.

A pamphlet distributed at the rally charged that Lodge "exploited the so-called repression of Buddhists last year to overthrow the old regime. Now he is fomenting religious discrimination to create a new regime subservient to his own personal aims."

Some banners said: "Go home Cabot Lodge."

Flights To Continue For Check

Sense of Urgency In Washington

VIENTIANE, Laos, (AP) — Communist groundfire knocked down the second U.S. Navy jet in two days over Laos Sunday, but the pilot was safely lifted out of the red-held jungle.

U.S. officials hoped to continue an air search today for the pilot of the first plane, but a heavy cloud cover hung over Vientiane. The monsoon season has set in.

Both planes were shot down east of the Plaine des Jarres area, recently overrun by the Pathet Lao. Both were Crusader jets capable of 1,000 miles an hour. They were operating from the carrier Kitty Hawk in the South China Sea.

Second Jet Armed

The second jet was armed and accompanying an unarmed reconnaissance plane over central Laos. The United States has been conducting photographic flights over Communist positions since May 17 at the request of the neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma.

The pilot, Cmdr. Doyle W. Lynn of La Mesa, Calif., was rescued by a U.S. helicopter and flown back to the Kitty Hawk, an embassy spokesman said.

No Rescue Details

U.S. officials gave no details of the jungle rescue, but it was unofficially reported that several helicopters had been badly shot up in anat tempt to find the other pilot, Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, 30, of San Diego, Calif.

Klusman was on a reconnaissance flight when his plane was hit. He was reported to have parachuted safely, but his exact landing spot in the rugged, isolated terrain apparently was not known.

Red China charged that U.S. jet fighters fired two rockets at Khang Khay, Pathet Lao headquarters on the Plaine des Jarres. There was no mention of damage or casualties.

Providing Cover

Reliable sources in Vientiane said Laotian air force T28 fighter-bombers armed with machine guns are providing cover for the U.S. reconnaissance planes.

Premier Souvanna Phouma's neutralist government ordered the protection after consultations with U.S. Embassy officials in the wake of the loss of the two American planes.

In Washington, the State Department said the reconnaissance flights would be continued with U.S. fighter escorts. The armed escorts were ordered Saturday after the loss of Lynn's plane near Ban Ban, 25 miles northeast of the Plaine des Jarres.

New Sense of Urgency

The downing of the two planes created a new sense of urgency among U.S. officials in Washington. President Johnson met at the White House with his top advisers Sunday. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara abruptly cancelled an appearance at Ohio University's commencement exercises.

The Pathet Lao already holds one U.S. pilot, a civilian. Eugene Debruin of Kaukauna, Wis., was captured last September when his Air America cargo plane was shot down. Air America is a private line under government charter.

Pa.'s Worst Crash Claims Four Lives

LEBANON, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania's worst auto accident over the weekend claimed the lives of four out-of-state residents, including two young staff employes of the Peace Corps.

The three-car mishap occurred Saturday on rain-slick Route 22 about three miles west of Jonestown near the small community of Ono.

The dead:

Margaret M. Milmoe, 23, of Oneida, N.Y., editorial research assistant for the Peace Corps in Washington, D.c.; John Edward McGinn, 26, Arlington, Va., a member of the Peace Corps who recently returned from a project in Ghana; Nick Wasylina, 46, and his wife, Mary Ellen, 37, of Chicago.

Miss Milmoe, McGinn and Mrs. Wasylina were pronounced dead at the scene by A. H. Heisey, Lebanon County coroner. Nick Wasylina died at the hospital.

Miss Milmoe formerly was associated with CBS News before going to work for the Peace Corps. She was planning to enter training for a project in Nigeria.

Grieving Indians Follow Nehru Ashes Into River

ALLAHABAD, India (AP) — Thousands of grieving Indians plunged into the Ganges River in a frenzied stampede today as the ashes of the late Prime Minister Nehru were strewn on India's holy rivers.

At least one woman drowned before police, wielding clubs from boats, forced swimmers and waders to the shore. Four persons were killed in a stampede Sunday as Nehru's ashes were brought from New Delhi.

The mourning thousands, dressed in the white homespun cotton of India's poor mobbed a floating platform and it sank under their weight. Scores tried to climb in boats filled with newsmen and government officials, but police beat them back.

About half a million persons crowded to the river banks or waded in. The temperature hit 107 degrees and scores collapsed. Others were injured by police clubs.

Nehru's family, wilted by the heat and almost deafened by the uproar, went out into the river in an amphibious army vehicle to strew the ashes.

"Babuji (father) is gone," sobbed Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, as she boarded the vehicle.

Congregation Is Back at Church Bombed in 1963

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The glass-enclosed message board outside the Sixteenth Street Baptist church still carried the date of Sept. 15, 1963. But a new day had dawned for the little brick church.

Sunday, the congregation returned to the Negro church that was wrecked by a bomb last Sept. 15. Four girls were killed and 19 other persons were injured in the explosion.

The church was rebuilt with offerings from around the world of more than $200,000.

The Rev. Dr. H. O. Hester of Montgomery, Ala., a white clergyman, delivered the principal sermon.

The congregation gathered outside and was led into the church by the pastor, the Rev. John H. Cross.

Fourteen persons were baptized. Sunday School services were held in the basement where the children died and most of the injured received their wounds in that explosion last year.

Cats may not have nine lives, but they are living longer these days. The average cat lives 12 to 15 years. Animal hospitals often encounter 19 and 20-year-olds.

If Goldwater Is Chosen He Can Credit His Vitality

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Sen. Barry Goldwater wins the Republican presidential nomination, to a large extent it's because he showed vitality. Almost without exception other Republican leaders sat back, keeping hands off. Now they're stirred up.

The exception was New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. He and Goldwater wanted the nomination and fought for it. None of the others appeared to lift a finger except Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, who never had a chance.

No wonder Rockefeller looked sardonically Sunday at some of those others — like Michigan Gov. George Romney and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton—who now suddenly seem disturbed that Goldwater may win.

Even Nixon More Alive

They showed no concern before when Rockefeller and Goldwater were battling and might ruin each other. Now they do when Goldwater may clinch the nomination before the Republican convention meets in July.

And former Vice President Richard M. Nixon sounds more vigorous about being a candidate.

And former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who said he would express no preference and has kept hands off all these months, now has appealed to Scranton to make himself available for the nomination.

More Active Now

He can say his nudge to Scranton isn't expressing preference, since he had previously said he wants convention delegates to have a "fair chance to work their will." But nudging Scranton is being more active than he was before.

Scranton himself said last April the nomination should go to someone who fought for it, "rather than someone who sits on the sidelines and gets it in an easy way."

He said he wasn't even stirred up enough about the issues to be a good candidate although he said he would accept a draft. Last week he said he'd be willing, if drafted by the convention, to run for the vice presidency with Goldwater.

Scranton Speaks Up

He even said he knew of no "basic differences between him" and the Arizona senator. But Sunday, with Goldwater getting closer to a first-ballot nomination, Scranton suddenly said he would be available for the nomination.

"I'm ready to serve," he said. This time he didn't say he'd have to be drafted. But now, also suddenly, he and Romney say they want clarification of Goldwater's views although he's expressed them for months and written three books.

"I have a feeling," Scranton said, "that the country as a whole is beginning to think he does not" measure up to the principles of the Republican party. This was an ironic statement, coming from Scranton.

The country as a whole would be puzzled to know where Scranton measures up to those principles since his view on anything are widely unknown. It was right here that Rockefeller got in a dig at Scranton and Romney.

Romney in Line Too

He said he'd like to know where Scranton stands and, as for Romney, the New York governor said the Michigan governor had spoken out too late. Romney says he, too, would accept a draft although he intends to run for a second term as governor.

Romney said Sunday that Goldwater has "voiced public views that do not square with the principles for which the Republican party stands." He said he would spare no effort to keep Goldwater from the nomination if his views do not measure up to the needs of the nation and the party.

There's one appropriate question at this point: where were Romney and Scranton all these months while Goldwater was campaigning if they don't know his views?

Nixon seeemed to think he was finished after he lost the presidential race in 1960 and the contest for the governorship of California in 1962. He said after this second defeat it was "my last campaign for public office."

In 1963 he said would not under any circumstances accept a Republican presidential draft. But by 1964 he was saying. "I will play whatever role the party decides."

Rhinebeck Youth Held On Disorderly Charge

A 16-year-old Rhinebeck youth was held in Columbia County jail Sunday when he could not pay a $10 fine imposed for disorderly conduct at Lake Taghkanic State Park Sunday morning.

John Goddison pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Reno after park rangers charged he had refused to obey a park ranger and used foul and abusive language. He will serve 10 days in lieu of the $10 fine.

Highland Woman Hurt In Two-Car Crash

A Highland woman was injured Saturday night in a two-car collision on lower Church Street, Poughkeepsie. Police said Janina Ellingsen, was treated at Vassar hospital and released.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Mary Harris, 50, Stone Ridge, whose car was in collision with a vehicle operated by Alvin Fink, 46, of Encino, Calif. Fink and a passenger, Mrs. Florence Brown, New York City, escaped unhurt, police said.

Where there's Hope [and the Yellow Pages], there's life

Bob Hope's rollicking new comedy, "A Global Affair," rollicks around a 10-month-old baby who's abandoned at the United Nations. The baby's placed in the custody of a hopeful bachelor—Bob Hope, that is—who turns out to be a pretty hopeless temporary father—and mother. Ah, but then the hero enters: the Yellow Pages. Where else could a helpless Hope cope with his need for a Nurse? Or a Diaper Service. Or Baby Accessories, Baby Sitters, Blankets, Scales, Mattresses and Bedding. In the Yellow Pages you can find nearly anything for babies. Or for anybody else. And if you sell goods or services, remember that more than nine out of ten references to the Yellow Pages result in action—a letter, a phone call, or a personal visit. It's a great place to advertise.

THE JOB CORPS

The big gun in President Johnson's "war on poverty" has been loaded. The House Education and Labor Committee has approved the administration's proposed $962.5 million Economic Opportunity Act.

It now remains for the whole House, along with the Senate, to pull the lanyard.

If the act becomes law—and it is believed it will this session — the United States will embark on a number of offensives designed to eliminate the nation's stubborn pockets of poverty, both urban and rural, and enlist those trapped in them in the building of the "Great Society."

One of these offensives is called the Job Corps, conceived as a means of rescuing at least some of the estimated 750,000 youths between 16 and 21 who are out of school, out of work, out of touch with society and, worst of all, out of hope.

The idea is to take young men away from their old, defeating environments and place them in rural camps and urban training centers, there to teach them job skills (as well as the ABCs, where necessary), good work habits, a sense of social responsibility —above all, to lift and widen their horizons.

For many, it would be their last chance to realize their human potentials and participate in the American dream.

Job Corps planners hope that 40,000 young men—all volunteers—could be enrolled within the first year. Half of them would live in about 200 conservation camps around the country, half in job-training centers in or near cities.

As in the CCC days of the '30s, the youths in the camps would perform useful work for society—repairing parks, building roads — while undergoing a program of physical conditioning and basic education.

Trainees in both the camps and urban centers would be paid $50 a month, with a separation bonus of $50 a month up to a maximum of two years' service.

There would be similar work-training programs for girls—who constitute 46 per cent of all school dropouts—to be administered by the Labor Department.

Numerous universities already have task forces planning programs for the Job Corps. Businesses are developing new kinds of teaching aids. Many teachers, returning Peace Corps veterans and retired service officers have volunteered to help staff the corps.

As for finding jobs for Job Corps graduates in this day of increasing automation, one oil company says it could use 1,000 service station attendants right now. Hotels and hospitals have trouble finding dependable help. The entire service industry has a constant need for properly motivated workers.

Other youths may go on to complete their education. Many refused by Selective Service because of health or educational deficiences, would now be able to pass the examination.

The Job Corps would cost $191 million in its first year (about equal to what the United States spends in six months in South Viet Nam).

The cost to the nation of the loss of those for whom the Job Corps will be too late is beyond calculation.

WAR ON POVERTY CHALLENGE

If money could buy happiness, President Johnson's war on poverty would be a simple matter. His call for a $220-million attack on the depressed areas of the Appalachian states could be repeated elsewhere in the country, with corps commanders in Washington pinpointing the offensives on a map.

Nothing can be done without money, of course, and balanced against the national income, the $220 million is something we can well afford. Indeed, we cannot afford not to spend it to try to eliminate this grave contradiction of poverty in the midst of plenty.

But assigning the funds is only the beginning. What will be needed most of all is intelligent and imaginative planning and cooperation between federal and local officials. The goal is not mere relief but the rebuilding of the entire economy of Appalachia and integrating it with the national economy as a whole.

Not least of all will be the part which private enterprise plays in establishing industries and tapping this reservoir of unused human energies and, in the doing, creating a self-regenerating market for itself.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

VIOLENCE IN THE TOLERANCE CAPITAL

Ever since I can remember, New York City has been the tolerance capital of America.

Go back a long ways to the pre-World War I era. In those days you couldn't be a radical with impunity in Slippery Rock or Peoria. But a Max Eastman could found a magazine called The Masses below Fourteenth Street in Manhattan, and a coterie could gather around him with nobody to say them nay. An I.W.W. leader like one-eyed Big Bill Haywood could not hope for middle-class entertainment in Boise, but he was welcome at Mabel Dodge's salon on lower Fifth Avenue. Poets like Edna Millay might feel out of place in Maine, but not in Greenwich Village.

Or take a later period, the Nineteen Twenties. If a youngster just out of college chose to stay at home in the place of his birth, he was expected to become a business man, join the country club, and never miss a meeting of Rotary. But in New York he could follow H. L. Mencken and bait the booboisie, or write poetry without punctuation or capitals and still be regarded as a genius if it sounded good.

New York, of course, was a multiracial community. There could be cracks about the Jews, the Italians and the Irish, but it was hard to keep a good man down no matter what his race. A Bernard Baruch, in New York, could become a millionaire; a Jimmy Walker could become Mayor; an Al Smith could be nominated for President.

The Negro got the benefit of New York's particular brand of tolerance when he began moving north. He couldn't necessarily find a good place to live, but a Claude McKay could write a book like "Home to Harlem" and get it published and favorably reviewed, a Charles Gilpin could get a star part in an O'Neill play, a Walter White could organize for the betterment of his race and find plenty of local support for his efforts. Branch Rickey couldn't have put Jackie Robinson on first base when he was still the general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, but he did do just that when he switched to become the boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

I am not so stupid as to imagine that life is easy for a lot of people in New York. But as long as the city remains the tolerance capital of America, things can improve there. And what New York accepts is generally exported elsewhere. For better or worse, New York is the style capital and the communications capital of the nation.

Well, what about the things that seem to be menacing the tolerance capital today? I am sure that the recent spate of Negro violence on late subway trains has no connection with a plot of any kind. But stall-ins and other demonstrations of the sort, not criminal in themselves, rip the fabric of mutual forebearance. In this murky atmosphere hoodlumism is encouraged. And what becomes then of the tolerant city?

At this point we might go to the eastern shore of Maryland for a lesson. The two Maryland eastern shore towns of Salisbury and Cambridge have similar population mixes and similar traditions. In Salisbury, in the spring of 1961, a group of Negroes appealed to the white ministers of the town for help with problems of discrimination. The ministers went to the restaurant owners — and within a year they had managed to get the restaurants desegregated.

In Cambridge, just thirty miles from Salisbury, Negroes, following a far more intransigent leadership, gave the restaurant owners one week in which to stand and deliver. The result could have been predicted. Restaurant owners got their backs up, and there is still not much progress toward desegregation in Cambridge. Meanwhile there has been plenty of violence.

True enough, violence won for Lenin in Russia. But where has it ever won in a nation that is eighty per cent contented? The way to win in America, is to exploit what tolerance you have. This has been done over and over again in New York, and it will be a shame if the old insight that brought the Jews out of the East Side ghetto and the Irish to City Hall is lost.

THE WELL CHILD

Patience, Understanding Help Child With Problems

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Control is something every child must learn for himself. When a child still wets the bed at night after he is 5, it may be due to a variety of causes.

If the occurrence is only occasional, it may be due to overfatigue or nightmares. In some, however, the bedwetting may be a part of an epileptic seizure. However, in the overwhelming majority of bedwetters emotional difficulties are the cause. A thorough search should be made for such organic causes as bladder infection (cystitis), diabetes and kidney disease.

When a child who has gained control of his bladder lapses into bedwetting after reaching the age of 7 or older, it is most important to find the cause.

The child who is a bedwetter should be encouraged to go for progressively longer periods during the day without going to the bathroom. This helps to increase the bladder's capacity and reduce its irritability. When bedwetting in the older child becomes an established habit, it is hard to break. Alarm clocks and other electrical devices have been used to overcome the habit. Some parents report excellent results with them.

Because there is no single cause, no one treatment will benefit all bedwetters, but patience and understanding—after organic causes have been treated or ruled out—can go a long way towad solving the problem.

Q—My child died two weeks after birth with pemphigus. What causes it and is there any cure for it?

A—Pemphigus of the newborn is characterized by large blisters covering sizable areas of the body. The cause is not known. The victim is usually treated with sulfa drugs and penicillin to control any infection that may occur as the blisters break. Blood transfusions and cortisone are often given to improve the general condition, but there is no specific cure and a large proportion of the victims fail to recover.

Q—What should be done about a supernumerary nipple on my baby?

A—A girl or boy is often born with an extra nipple just below the normal one on one side. This is usually smaller than normal and many parents believe at first that it is a mole or birthmark. It is rarely a source of any concern unless it is unusually large. If at any time in life it causes embarrassment, it can be removed and will leave an almost invisible scar; but this is not usually necessary.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The reason the United States doesn't give the men in South Viet Nam better planes for their guerilla fighting is simple:

We don't have them.

The United States has developed some pretty hot fighters, cargo planes and bombers. These are sophisticated types for conventional or nuclear wars. Defense men say they're not suited for South Viet Nam.

U. S. and South Vietnamese forces are using older planes because they're the best we have on hand for this kind of fighting, even though some of these aircraft are "tired," even when reconditioned.

The hot new planes are too complicated for South Vietnamese to maintain. They land too fast and require super runways not generally available in guerilla territory. They're too specialized for all-round guerilla war requirements.

The United States hasn't been heavily involved in a guerilla war in some time; Air Force strategists say privately they're not sure what the air role is.

So Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's planners are not certain what kind of a plane they want.

Nevertheless, development of a compromise guerilla-war plane is now proceeding.

DEFENSE STRATEGISTS SPECIFY the aircraft must be suitable generally for areas of Asia, Africa and Latin America where guerilla wars may be likely.

The plane must be one native troops in backward countries could quickly learn to operate and repair.

It must be able to take off on short, relatively unimproved runways, be highly maneuverable and able to fly at 50 miles an hour and at 300. It should be usable for reconnaissance ground support, bombing and for transporting six to eight soldiers to some hot spot.

It should have two propellers and two pilots; if one propeller or one pilot is knocked out the other can bring the plane home.

The plane would not be capable of handling enemy air power or sophisticated antiaircraft fire. If the enemy brought in strong air or antiair power, the conflict would immediately change its character; we'd bring in sophisticated equipment.

McNAMARA'S MEN ARE WORKING on two approaches to the plane problem.

They're experimenting with modifications of two types of training plane which already have a number of the good qualities sought—simplicity, versatility, ability to use short runways. These planes are being fitted with heftier engines and capsules or "pods" which can be attached to the wings for a particular mission, then detached when the plane is assigned another task. One pod would carry photo and other reconnaissance equipment; other pods would contain rockets, cannon or machine guns.

If one of these training plane modifications works out, the guerrilla version could be ready in some quantity in 16 to 18 months.

Six aircraft companies are submitting concepts for a new guerrilla plane. Some of these offer considerable promise, officials here say. But quantity deliveries would be more than two years in the future.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese war goes on.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe the Southern Senators will not be so unhappy, after all, if a cloture motion to close debate in the Senate is approved by a two-thirds vote this week. It could, of course, hasten final action on the civil rights bill because the proponents are sure of a 51 per cent majority to pass the measure itself.

The sooner the bill is enacted, however, the quicker will the nationwide reaction to its enforcement set in and the sooner will come the public demands for repeal or substantial amendment of the law. For the moment the actual enforcement of such a far-reaching civil rights measure starts, there will be general concern from coast to coast due to a variety of reasons.

First, there will be, in Congress, a controversy as to how much money should be appropriated to augment considerably the Federal police force as well as the legal staff of the Department of Justice.

Second, many lawsuits will be filed on every side, not only by the government but by private parties. The government, to be sure, will have the right to intervene in many of the latter cases.

Thus, for example, the owner of a rooming house who will be pressed into a policy of integration with respect to admission of guests may challenge the Constitutionality of the new law on the ground that it does not apply equally to all rooming houses. Those with fewer than five rooms to rent are to be exempted from its provisions. Since the Constitution provides that all citizens are entitled to "the equal protection of the laws," it seems certain that some lawsuits will be filed which will insist that, if it is constitutional for rooming houses with five rooms or less to discriminate in choosing customers, it is also constitutional for any such place to do so when it caters to guests who occupy more than five rooms.

The same principle of authorized discrimination by reason of race or color or religion or sex applies in connection with the equal-employment sections of the bill. For the provisions of the proposed law would give the Federal government, under the guise of searching for discriminatory actions, the power, in effect, to control employment practices in various businesses. It will be up to the Department of Justice to prove in suits before the Supreme Court just why it is supposed to be constitutional to permit discrimination in a business with less than 100 employees and yet forbid discrimination in a business where there are more than 100 employees.

Many persons, when denied jobs, will argue, moreover, that discrimination was the basis for refusal to grant them employment, and some of these individuals will seek redress on constitutional grounds no matter whether the exempted quota as finally written in the bill is based on a scale varying from 25 to 100 employees over the next four-year period or whether a specific quota of 100 is set.

Nearly every company will have to start keeping careful records on job applications, promotions and transfers. Personnel departments will be subject to investigation by Federal agents, and there probably will be lawsuits brought not merely where discrimination against Negroes is alleged, but where there may be claims of discrimination against whites.

The general hope in Washington has been that enactment of the pending bill would end street demonstrations. There will, of course, be an appeal by the Administration here to the Negro leaders to stop the demonstrations and give the law-enforcement machinery a chance to function. But there may be new controversies. While several states, for instance, have their own civil rights laws, some of these statutes do not go as far as the bill pending in the Senate.

If issues growing out of the enforcement problem become a matter of public agitation during the summer and autumn months, this could have an effect upon the national campaign, especially in certain Congressional districts and states where members of Congress have voted for the civil rights legislation and now may have to face a protest vote at the polls.

While the Republicans, in their national party platform, will join the Democrats in affirming the principles behind a new civil rights law there seems no doubt that the Republican Presidential nominee, whoever he is, will be pointing to certain flaws in the legislation, hoping thereby to get the benefit of the protest vote on the measure as a whole. The substantial vote given Gov. Wallace of Alabama in the Democratic primaries in several northern states recently could prove to have been the forerunner of a crossover vote to the Republican party.

The sooner, therefore, the civil rights bill becomes law, the more time there will be for the negative sentiment to be aroused and for its influence to be exerted when the Presidential and Congressional elections are held in November.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

It is a wet and windy night. Scuds of clouds scan the face of the moon. German officers study the dark English Channel. The word goes out: "They will not come tonight." The time is 8 p. m. The date is June 5, 1944.

There are 58 divisions—1,044,000 men—waiting for the Allies D-Day. Up and down the French Coast, Wehrmacht staff officers study the weather charts. The whirls and loops are the new god of invasion. The moon phase and the tide must be exactly right. It cannot be tonight, because the wind is force 5-6, and the Channel is force 4-5.

The sea is too high for small boats. The low cloud layer means that Eisenhower would be coming in with no air cover. It will never happen. He is too smart to risk high seas and no fighter protection. At Berchtesgaden, Adolf Hitler stands at a picture window, looking at a dark night and listening to the wind weep around his lofty nest.

Dr. Morell gives him two more pills. The Fuehrer makes a face as he downs them. The chief of household staff is called. He is told that the Fuehrer has taken a sleeping draught, and is not to be disturbed. He will remain awake another hour, studying the maps of the Eastern Front. Hitler is not interested in his Atlantic Wall, because nothing is happening there.

Not to be disturbed. Under any circumstances. At Le Mans, Colonel-General Dollman says to Gen. Pemsel: "Anything likely to happen today?" He has been waiting for the invasion a long time. Pemsel says no. Then he sighs: "If only one could rely on those weather men."

Dollman wants even more time. In this he concurs with Erwin Rommel. More offshore mines, more obstacles, more steel "asparagus" in the fields. He wants to lock the 600-mile gate against intruders. "Then," he says, "we can hold our map exercise in Rennes." He is happy. He orders Pemsel to see that every divisional commander along the front is present.

This frisks the front of authority. The German generals, with their regimental commanders, will be in Rennes at 10 a. m. tomorrow. They will stage an exercise depicting what to do in case of an airborne invasion. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel sits in a speeding car crossing the Meuse.

He is headed for Berchtesgaden to see his Fuehrer. Rommel will plead for more men, more guns. Enroute, he will stop home in Germany to celebrate his wife's birthday tomorrow. This man is commander of Army Group B. He is the boss of the French coast. He will be gone, he thinks, three days. He will beg Hitler to permit him to use the armored divisions.

Hitler has already said no. In fact, he has ordered Rommel to toss any invasion back into the sea on the first day, without panzers. The news is pleasing to Gerd von Runstedt, Rommel's boss because Field Marshal von Runstedt does not believe in meeting an invasion-in-force head-on. He wants to permit it to come ashore, then encircle it, and squeeze it to death.

Besides, Hitler has already issued the dictum from on high that the invasion will be staged where the Channel is narrowest: Pas de Calais. It is becoming increasingly difficult to disagree with the Fuehrer. Still the Wehrmacht is relaxed in spirit. A million men eat, doze, sing, drink, make love, play cards. One of them, Paul Carell, will someday write a book about it called "Invasion—They're Coming."

Gen. von Schlieben argues with his staff. "It is a known rule," he says, "that a division can cover six miles. My 709th is covering forty miles of French Coast. A futile business." Or, to put it another way, he who defends all defends nothing.

London has been sending silly messages to France all day. They are alerting SOE—Sabotage Organizations Europe. The Resistance knows that when the first part of Paul Verlaine's poem of autumn is broadcast, it means to be ready to destroy 571 French railway stations and to blow up 30 main lines. The words go:

Les sanglots longs
de l'automne

When the second part is broadcast, it means that the invasion is imminent.

Blessent mon coeur
monotone

The Germans know the meaning of the broadcast. They too have spies in the Resistance. Col.-Gen. Salmuth's 15th Army monitors BBC. They hear the first part of the poem on June 1, 2, and 3. Tonight at 9 p. m. they hear the second part. There is much excitement.

Salmuth sends the news that D-Day is imminent to von Runstedt and military commanders in Belgium and France, including Rommel's headquarters. Someone forgets to notify the 84th corps. This group is at Normandy facing the sea. A black and empty sea.

The reaction of the commanders is stupefying. Von Runstedt doesn't believe it. Hitler sleeps through it. Rommel rides on. Chief of Staff of the High Command, General Jodl, reads it and chuckles. He quotes one of his staff officers as making the appropriate remark: "As if General Eisenhower will announce the invasion over BBC!"

The German Army drinks well, and goes to sleep . . .

Gets Own Degree After Educating Seven Children

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Sun Pei Lee, a native of China who put seven children through college, finally got his own degree—at age 68.

It took him so long, Lee said in an interview, because "we had to make a living." In gratitude for paying their way through college, his children financed his five and a half years at the University of Delaware.

He received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture Sunday becoming the oldest student ever to graduate from the University of Delaware.

"I will look for a job," said Lee. "I want to do what I have learned."

Only his wife and his youngest daughter, Stella, saw him receive his degree.

Lee was a pioneer of the textile industry in China. In 1956, under the Refugee Act, he and his wife followed their children to the United States. He became an American citizen in 1963. His wife hopes to become naturalized in August.

Lee hopes to work for an international or foreign agency which seeks to improve agriculture production and distribution.

Lee estimates he has trained more than 3,000 technologists and engineers for the textile industry. His first schoool was begun in Nantung in 1927. When he left Nantung in 1938, he started another school in Shanghai.

Cottage Hired by King Damaged by Vandals

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Vandals smashed furniture and set bed clothing afire Sunday night in a cottage rented for the summer by Dr. Martin Luther King who has said he may summon a "nonviolent army" here for massive demonstrations.

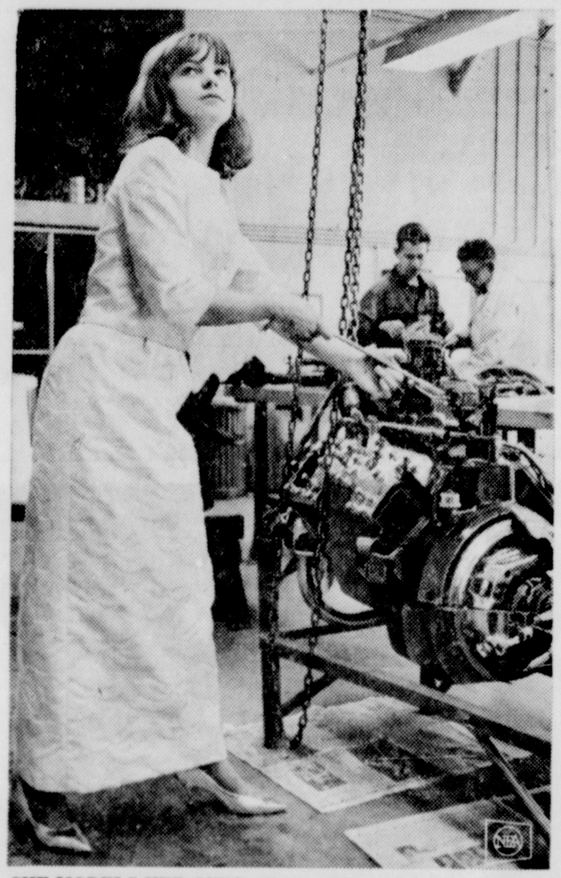

King was in New York.

King, director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was here Friday for a conference with Negroes. He said at the time he commands a nonviolent army of whites and Negroes waiting to come here and demonstrate against segregation.

Hurley Summer Recreation Plans

Starting June 29 and continuing through August 14, the Town of Hurley Youth Recreation Committee will conduct its annual summer recreation program.

Morning playground activities will be carried on at the West Hurley Elementary School athletic field from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday. A similar program will take place for the Old Hurley youths, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon at the athletic field at the rear of the Reformed Church in Hurley. Both areas will have two adult playground counselors. To be eligible for the playground activities, children must have completed grade one.

At 12:30 p. m. a bus will leave from each playground area and transport the children to DeWitt Lake for supervised and instructional swimming. The same buses will pick up the children at DeWitt Lake at 4 p. m. and deliver them back to their respective playground areas. To be eligible for the afternoon swimming program, each child must have completed second grade.

Registration will take place on opening day. No child may participate unless he is officially registered. Provisions will be made for late registrations.

Anyone requesting further information concerning the Town of Hurley Summer Recreation Program may contact any of the the following committe members—Ernest Myer and Roy Weber of Old Hurley, or Mrs. Fay Klinger, Mrs. Erne Levins and Floyd Robbins, the West Hurley committee members.

Top Jazz Pianist Killed in Mishap

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jazz pianist Meade (Lux) Lewis wound up his engagement in a suburban night club Sunday, drove onto the highway and was killed seconds later in an automobile collision.

Jimmy Dobbins, 19, Minneapolis, a passenger in the second car, was injured fatally.

Lewis, 58, of Los Angeles, was considered one of the top boooge-woogie pianists. Critics credited the bulky, jovial musician with advancing the form from a simple fold art in the 1920s into a highly expressive and complex music.

"Honky Tonk Train Blues," which Lewis wrote in 1923, was his most famous composition. Lewis recorded the piece in 1929. It didn't become popular then and Lewis dropped from sight. Several years later jazz promoter John Hammon heard the tune, searched for the composer, and found Lewis working as a car washer in a Chicago garage.

Lewis became popular again, played one recital in New York's Carnegie Hall, and "Honky Tonk Train Blues" became a standard for boogie-woogie pianists.

Cardinal Bea Coming On Secreat Mission

The 83-year-old cardinal told newsmen when he left Rome Sunday only that he was "going on a secret mission. When I return in eight days, perhaps I can say more."

Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, who will be his host here, declined to elaborate on Cardinal Bea's visit.

Dear Abby . . .

Compulsive Talker!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is there something wrong with me? Whenever I take a trip on a bus or train, I get into very intimate conversations with the person sitting next to me. I don't know why, but before I know it, I am telling this person my life's history. I've told complete strangers things about myself that I'd never think of revealing to anyone I know. If I ever run into any of these people again I would die of shame, but I can't seem to help myself once I get going. I am not a child. I am a grown woman who has seen 33 summers. Please don't use my name.

TALKS TOO MUCH

DEAR TALKS: Some people who "talk too much" are reacting to a deeply rooted psychological problem. If you're lucky, it won't hurt you (although it may bore others). Meanwhile, try counting to ten before you start, then talk about something besides yourself. You MAY not be that interesting.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I live in a very small town where everybody knows everybody else's business. After I graduate from high school it is only natural for people to wonder why I don't look for a job. The trouble is I can't work because I am five months' pregnant and I have to get out of this town as soon as possible. I am being pressured from all sides to go look for a job. I have only enough money for a bus ticket to a place not more than 200 miles from here. Is there a home for unwed mothers that will take me in? Please put your answer in the paper.

MARION (not my real name)

DEAR MARION: Send me your real name and address at once and I will send you the information you need immediately.

DEAR ABBY: My son was asked to be an usher at his friend's wedding. He will have to rent a tuxedo for the wedding. Who is supposed to pay for it?

MRS. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: Either you or your son, depending on his resources. But in any case—not the friend who is being married.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Wrestler's Wife has prompted me to write. Soon after we were married my husband's brother would snap his fingers on my bare arm, shove me, and otherwise horse around. I didn't want to make an issue of it, and my husband didn't say anything, so I let it go. Sixteen years ago, at a family reunion, this brother rushed across the room, grabbed both my feet and pulled me off the davenport. I hit the floor like a melon. My teen-aged children were present and so were his. The laughter ceased when I couldn't get up. When it was ascertained that I had broken the end of my spine, my brother-in-law felt terrible. Since then I have spent weeks in the hospital, months having therapy and years in a heavy body brace. I might have been spared all this if either my husband or I had made it clear from the start that I did not want to be touched.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I just received an interesting note from Capt. H. L. Wentworth of Searsport, Maine.

He writes in part: "Leo Walsh of Rosendale sent me your column, "Do You Remember," a recent one as it quoted the article about Searsport, Maine. I sent the newspaper to you. You must have forgotten me. I was a Panama Canal pilot for many years, and used to receive, through Leo Walsh, your column and have them in my scrapbooks. Capt. Walsh is also now retired from the Canal and living in Rosendale."

Capt. Wentworth further writes: "Knowing you like history, I though you would like the article on Searsport. I retired from the Canal in 1960 and am now living in Searsport, having bought the home formerly owned by the Lincoln Colcord mentioned in the article, a grand old house and much history.

"It overlooks Penobscot Bay, a view of shipping coming and going. If ever you are down this way, Mrs. Wentworth and I would like to have you stop in for a visit. I have many books on early sail and steam and scrapbooks I have kept. Anytime I may be able to supply information on any boat, I would be most happy to do so. I also have two other friends in the boating world in your area, Danny Murphy, and William Benson. Murphy has sent me some of your writings, when I was captain of a New York tug, Danny was engineer there."

When I received the Searsport, Maine paper, I did not place Capt. Wentworth as somehow I connect him with the Panama Canal. As soon as the item appeared in this column, Danny Murphy called me and told me, and later dropped in to see the paper, which I loaned to him, as he was very much interested in it. Now I will look at the Lincoln Colcord homestead picture. It sounds facinating.

One of my neighbors showed me a book of the early 1920's which covers the homesteads of the Hudson Valley. I did not have a chance to really look through it well, but I see the old stone houses of Kingston and Hurley are represented.

They speak of pot cheese being made in a community right near Kingston many years ago, in which art they seemed to excell. I really do not know the difference between pot cheese and cottage cheese, but I remember when we had housekeepers from the old country, they made their own pot cheese, which hung in a bag on the clothes line, and from which cheese cake was later made and other delicious foods.

I notice most of the old homesteads in this book, have large yards, shady trees, porches on both sides of the houses. In those days homes were built to live in, more than for show purposes. Comfort and coziness, shade and sun, vegetable gardens and flower bushes, were so much more important than sterile looking lawns, without trees, or today's modern apartments. First someone buys a large tract of land in modern times, takes off all the buildings, and pulls down the mammoth trees, then puts up some, one story homes, on a slab of cement, and perhaps an unfinished attic. Then the little trees are planted, and the top soil is brushed lightly over the sand or clay, and folks spend several years trying to make it grow. It takes three generations to make a homestead, of cozy shade trees, corners, porches and real homey living. I take it Capt. Wentworth has such a cozy lived in homestead in Searsport, Maine, the like of which cannot be made on poured cement.

Record Savings Bank Deposit Gains in May

NEW YORK, June 8—Savings bank deposit gains of $285 million in regular accounts—a new record for May— were achieved last month, according to preliminary data released today by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. The previous high for any May, $236 million, was registered last year.

The increase brought total regular deposits in the nation's 508 mutual savings banks to $45.8 billion. In the first five months of 1964, savings bank regular deposits have increased $1.5 billion, compared to $1.1 billion in the January-May period of 1963.

Dr. Grover W. Ensley, executive vice president of the National Association, said that the savings bank figures were an indication that the economic effects of the tax cut were still in a transitional stage. "The record savings bank gains," he noted, "confirm evidence from other sources that consumer spending—except for automobiles—has not kept pace with the rise in personal disposable income. Although retail sales are good, they have not reached boom proportions."

The Purple Heart was founded by George Washington in 1782 for bravery. Only three were actually awarded. The 200th anniversary of Washington's birth was chosen for the revival of this award and on February 22, 1932, a new Purple Heart was instituted to recognize those killed or wounded in the service.

ABOLISHING DESTITUTION

Throughout the year, this column receives letters from those who have been left practically destitute. Widows, with no training to make a living, are invariably the chief victims.

Thrift is a forgotten virtue in countless of these homes. The head-of-the-house was often a larger earner and spender. An executive earning $25,000 a year leaves his widow in worse financial condition than a worker making $5,000. It is a case of easy-come and easy-go.

When destitution hits such a widow, it is tragic. Accustomed to a good standard of living, she finds herself with little money and with no vocational training.

In every home in America where extravagant spending is taking place and the entire family is living in a kind of false paradise, a single insurance policy can work wonders.

A father with a family of four or more to provide for who finds, even in the face of high income, that he can't save anything and who is speculating in the stock market and indulging in all manner of expensive habits, should call in an experienced insurance man to talk things over.

In my lifetime, I have met and talked with hundreds of such improvident parents. Their lack of thrift and saving usually stems from two sources: the will to speculate in risk-laden stocks and careless spending arising often from bad habits.

A young executive, age 30 to 45, in a well-paying job often does not think about the day of his retirement or his death. He is full of ability and ambition and sometimes his eating and drinking and living habits start him on his way to an early death.

Thrift and saving sometimes can change the direction of his life and his career; and one insurance policy, forcing him to save a couple of thousands of dollars yearly, can be the instrument to do this.

A wonderful artist friend of mine passed away ten years ago, leaving his wife destitute. For a quarter of a century, he made $25,000 - $50,000 a year. He had a bar in his studio and the hangerson there were numbered by the score. He speculated heavily in the stock market.

His widow recently passed on. She had lived on relief since his death.

How easy it would have been for him at the age 35-45 (when he was in his prime) to set aside $2,500 a year to maintain a $100,000 insurance policy.

Right now in America there are thousands of heads-of-homes like him who have small savings and who could well afford to lay aside $100, $200, $300 a month with which to pay premiums on insurance policies.

Taxes, inflation, very costly living expenses and wasteful extravagances are today the cruel enemies of thrift, saving and sound investment.

There are millions of people in America who are living beyond their means. Most of them have known prosperity over a period of years, but have failed, during their vigorous and talented decades, to set up plans that would abolish destitution in their retirement years.

At age 35-40, most people can buy a $50,000 insurance contract for around $100 a month. And dividends are paid on such policies.

A—$2,400 annual income from $30,000 means your money must earn 8 per cent. Maybe an annuity (I don't know your age) might be a solution.

Shot Shocks Tenants

LONDON, Ky. (AP) — Basil Poynter was able to calm his wife and another customer after a .303 rifle discharged while a customer was examining it. The bullet went into the ceiling and no one was hurt. But he had more trouble calming upstairs-apartment dwellers who returned home and found a hole the size of a half dollar in the floor and a bullet in the mattress.

Commercial radio came into its own, beginning with its first pre-advertised radio program, the coverage of the Harding-Cox election returns. Lightning Hits Barn and Radio Tower on Sunday

Thundershowers accompanied by a downpour of rain hit the Hudson Valley area late Sunday, and lightning reportedly hit and damaged a radio tower in Marlboro and started fire in a Plattekill barn.

Area farmers and other residents of Ulster County and neighboring counties welcomed the rain which fell over the weekend and continued this morning with showers.

Plattekill Fire Chief Thorolf Hagen reported lightning is believed to hit a barn on the Albert Grimm property on Quaker Street in that community at about 8:40 p. m. Sunday. Fire broke out in corn that was piled on the floor of a small barn, and firemen were at the scene extinguishing the stubborn fire that burned in the corn husks for more than an hour.

Chief Hagen said the fire broke out during a thunderstorm. He said there was no electrical hookup in the barn.

Lightning hit the Poughkeepsie Radio station—WEOK FM antenna at Marlboro, causing damage that disrupted service. Repairs were being made today to restore the FM circuit.

The city engineer's office here reported a total of .74 of an inch fell in this area this month. An office spokesman said .31 of an inch fell on June 3—.33 of an inch was registered on Saturday, and .05 of an inch fell Sunday and the same amount today.

The rain brought relief to parched hay fields and farms of the area, and was welcomed by residents who had been worried about their flowers and vegetable gardens.

In Dutchess County the rainfall for the entire month of May was .94 of an inch, while since Saturday the Dutchess County airport reported a rainfall of 1.84 inches since Saturday.

The thunderstorms that passed over the county late Sunday, caused no serious damage, excepting that reported at the radio tower in Marlboro.

$1,800 Antiques Are Stolen From High Falls Home

Antiques valued at over $1,800 are missing from the house of Hattie Stinson on Lucas Avenue Turnpike at High Falls. The loss was discovered Sunday when she went to the premises to inspect it. She had not been at the premises for several months. Employed in Kingston and residing at 260 Clinton Avenue, she told Deputy Sheriff Ernest Ahlberg who investigated, she had not been at the premises for several months. When she entered the place Sunday afternoon, it was discovered that entrance had been gained by breaking a screen door and forcing the top portion of an old Dutch door.

The full extent of the loss is not known but among the missing articles are a set of silverware with mother of pearl handles, a George Washington dish with a scene at Newburgh on it, a brass marble top table, an assortment of Wedgewood chinaware, antique lamps, a chime clock and many other antiques.

Entrance to the place was apparently made not long ago.

How List Stands

The field shaped this way:

Goldwater	535
Nelson A. Rockefeller	128
William W. Scranton	85
Henry Cabot Lodge	45
Richard M. Nixon	15
Margaret Chase Smith	15
Favorite sons	93
Uncommitted	209

Indiana Republicans meet today and Tuesday to elect 32 GOP delegates, but their votes have already been credited to Goldwater, under state law, because of his May 5 preferential primary victory there.

To Choose Thursday

New York's Republican state committee meets Thursday and is expected to name 10 at-large delegates favorable to Rockefeller to go with the 76 district delegates he won in last week's primary. The New York governor also picked up five votes Sunday from the Puerto Rican delegation.

Goldwater is expected to face rough sledding in his attempts to muster support at the Minnesota convention beginning Thursday, the Maryland convention Friday and the Connecticut convention Friday and Saturday. At stake are 46 votes.

But Goldwater is viewed by political leaders in Missouri, Utah, New Mexico, Idaho and Virginia as the likely winner of most of their 58 votes to be decided in conventions Friday and Saturday.

Other Matters

There are other matters to be settled at state conventions this week:

Indiana — Republicans will nominate a Senate candidate from a field of three and a gubernatorial candidate from a field of seven. Two congressmen are in the running—Rep. Donald C. Bruce for the Senate and Rep. William G. Bray for governor. Democrats, meeting Thursday and Friday, are expected to renominate Sen. Vance Hartke for a second term and choose a gubernatorial nominee from among five candidates.

Utah—Republicans will either endorse or nominate candidates for Senate, House and governor. Under a new state law, the top two men at the convention go on the August primary ballot unless one of them gets an endorsement by 80 per cent of the state convention delegates.

There are only two candidates for the Senate—Rep. Sherman P. Lloyd and Ernest L. Wilkinson, former president of Brigham Young University. Neither is expected to get 80 per cent. Five men seek the nod for governor, including former Gov. J. Bracken Lee, State Publicity Director D. James Cannon and former GOP National Committeeman Michelli Melich.

Connecticut — Republicans are expected to nominate former Gov. John Davis Lodge without opposition for the Senate seat held by Thomas J. Dodd. Dodd already has won Democratic nomination for a second term.

Idaho—Republicans and Democrats will nominate or endorse primary candidates for two House seats.

Meredith entered the university amid rioting that caused President Kennedy to send in federal troops. Meredith since was graduated.

Meyner Awaiting Ruling Before He Passes on Tobacco

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Former Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, an "off and on again cigarette smoker," says his job of administering a new cigarette advertising code should be that of a judge, not an image-maker for the tobacco industry.

The code, developed after the U.S. Surgeon General's report linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer, establishes uniform standards for cigarette advertising.

Meyner said he would have authority to review all advertising and impose fines of up to $100,000 for violations.

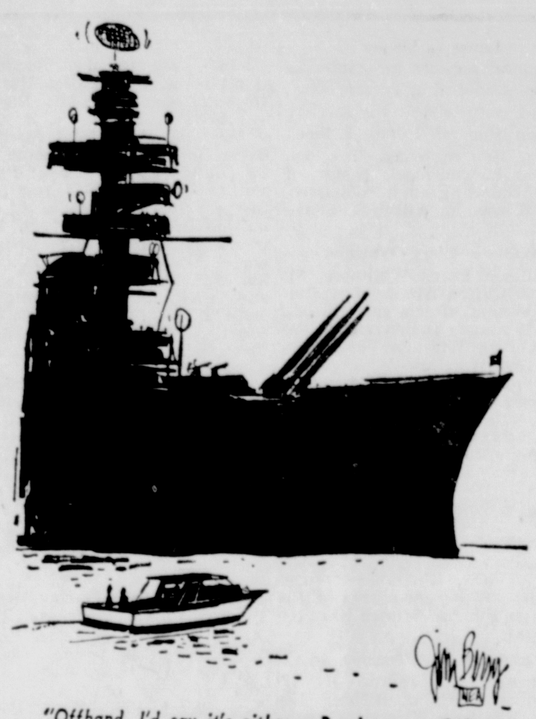

The code prohibits advertising that represents cigarette smoking as essential to "social prominence, distinction, success or sexual attraction."

It also bars advertising in publications or radio and television programs directed primarily at persons under 21.

In announcing Meyner's appointment Sunday, the companies said he would have "complete and final authority to determine whether cigarette advertising complies with the standards of this code and to enforce the code in all its respects."

Meyner said he would not take over his new job until the Justice Department completes a review of the code to determine whether it violates federal antitrust laws. He declined to discuss his salary.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

RED RIVALRY: The clash between the Soviet Union and China "most probably" will lead to a complete break but war between the Communist giants is unlikely, writes Dr. Mose L. Harvey, a State Department specialist on communism for 17 years, in the current issue of U.S. News & World Report.

"As things now are and seem likely to continue for the indefinite future, neither has the slightest thing to gain from a military showdown," Harvey wrote in the copyright article. He recently left the government to become director of the Center for Advanced International Studies at the University of Miami.

PRAYER: The Bill of Rights is "our most precious heritage" and any narrowing of its present guarantees in the field of religion could impair the other liberties it protects, 223 constitutional lawyers told the House Judiciary Committee in opposing any amendment to permit public school religious exercises.

The committee last week completed hearings on proposed amendments. The chairman, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has not yet set a date for closed deliberations on the various proposals.

RED BLOC: Former Secretary of State Christian Herter says there is a growing independence from Moscow in Romania, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, particularly in the economic field, "and I think we ought to encourage that."

Herter, who is serving President Johnson as a special representative for trade negotiations at Geneva, voiced approval of the recent extension of most-favored-nation treatment to Poland and Yugoslavia and said the United States should use trade concessions to encourage Communist satellites to be independent.

COMMUNION: President Johnson, a member of the Christian Church, received communion Sunday at St. Mark's Episcopal church. His wife and daughter are Episcopalians.

Last month, the Rev. Canon Albert J. Du Bois, executive director of the American Church Union, a voluntary association of Episcopal clergy and laity, questioned whether the president is eligible to receive communion.

He is, said the rector of St. Mark's, the Rev. William M. Baxter, and the Episcopal bishop of Washington, the Right Rev. William F. Creighton.

FOREIGN LOANS: Postwar repayment records indicate the United States will get back a large proportion of the dollars loaned for foreign aid, plus billions more in interest.

Of $25.7 billion loaned abroad by the U.S. government since World War II, the foreign recipients have paid back $10 billion on the principal so far plus $4 billion in interest, Commerce Department statistics showed Sunday.

Strikes Set Tuesday By 7 Aluminum Plants

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Strikes are planned Tuesday at seven Aluminum Co. of America plants in five states by the Aluminum Workers International Union, in sympathy with a 2-week-old walkout at the Alcoa plant in Massena.

Eddie Stahl, president of the aluminum workers union, said the decision to strike was reached here Sunday at a meeting of all the local unions involved.

An estimated 8,000 to 10,000 workers would be idled, including the 3,000 already affected at Massena, Stahl said. The Massena walkout was called May 23 in a dispute over reclassification of about 60 hourly rated jobs.

Notice of the strike plans was given to Alcoa's general manager of industrial relations, William Davis, in Pittsburgh, the union president said.

The plants that would be shut down by the strike, set for 11 p.m. Tuesday, are in Davenport, Iowa, Lafayette and Yankeetown, Ind., East St. Louis, Ill., Chillicothe, Ohio, and Lancaster and Cressona, Pa.

Rosendale Summer Home Burglarized

A New York City man's summer home off Route 32, Rosendale, was burglarized sometime between May 31 and June 6, according to State Police Sergeant Elliott Johnson of the Kingston substation.

Joseph Teicht, 609 W. 188th Street, New York City, reported the burglary. He told BCI Investigator Richard Ryan the intruder took a case of beer, a bottle of whiskey, a pair of work gloves and a sweat shirt.

Entrance was gained by forcing a side door, troopers said.

Copies of the examination reports have been sent to the clerk and other officials of the units of government examined. Since the reports are a part of the public record, they are available for review by interested citizens.

A copy of each of the reports is also on file at the Department of Audit and Control in Albany and is available for public inspection.

The holdup men, in their early twenties, apparently escaped on foot, police reported.

Somè Insect Bite

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—For two years, little Dawn Bardowell was bothered by an irritating, itchy sensation in the top of her shoulder.

CLEVELAND (AP) — If Sen. Barry Goldwater is the Republican presidential nominee, the GOP in New York State will be seriously hurt, predicts Jackie Robinson, former major league baseball star.

"This is a matter of tremendous concern to all of us," Robinson said Sunday in an interview. "A Goldwater ticket will drive thousands of New York people to the Democrats by default."

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That wrecking ball is breaking up those old haunts of mine.

The latest Hollywood landmark to be attacked by the demolition crews is the NBC radio studios at Sunset Blvd. and Vine St. The familiar pea-green building is being battered to oblivion after a brief quarter-century of life.

The studios are putting up a hard fight. They were built in 1939 to last, since the future for network radio seemed firm and enduring.

What memories those halls hold. They were happy hunting grounds for a young reporter who could drop in almost any day and find a host of stars.

There was Bing Crosby, sitting on a high stool and crooning to John Scott Trotter's orchestra. Fanny Brice, the irrepressible Baby Snooks. Red Skelton, who always did an aftershow for the studio audience that was longer than his broadcast.

Al Jolson, basking in the renewed fame caused by "The Jolson Story". The Fibber McGee and Molly crew. Perfectionist Edgar Bergen, who always treated his dummies with respect. Ozzie and Harriet Nelson and their two sons, who stood on boxes to reach the microphone. Phil Harris and Alice Faye, Oscar Levant, Jack Benny, Lum and Abner, "One Man's Family," etc., etc.

Meredith Willson, a longtime habitue of NBC Sunset, was talking about the place the other day.

"I drove by the old building the other day," he sighed, "and I couldn't look at what they were doing to it; I had to turn my head. It's too sad to see that place go."

Christine Keeler Released From Prison

LONDON (AP) — Christine Keeler, 22, the red-haired prostitute who once shook the British government, was released from Holloway Prison today.

She had served six months of a nine-month sentence for perjury and conspiring to obstruct justice. She had tried to frame a Negro ex-lover, jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, with testimony that he beat her up.

Christine's perjury trial was part of the aftermath of a sex and security scandal which brought John D. Profumo's resignation as war minister a year ago and threatened to tumble Prime Minister Harold Macmillan from power. Macmillan rode out the storm but resigned a few months later because of his health.

Christine got three months off her sentence for good behavior.

Timing Was Right

PARTRIDGE, Kans. (AP) — William Miller and his wife were watching a storm from his rural house when he saw his two-seater outdoor toilet fly past on a gust of wind.

The loss didn't disturb Miller. He had just completed installing indoor plumbing.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) —Network television over the past weekend was very good to viewers who like their dramas real.

There was Friday night's special 90-minute "CBS Reports" in which Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to the Normandy beaches where the Allied forces launched their assault on Hitler's Fortress Europe on D-Day 20 years ago.

Sunday there was ABC's live coverage of the exciting windup in the Thunderbird Golf tournament as Tony Lema's final putt broke a tie with Mike Souchak and won him top prize money.

Finally Sunday night on NBC, there was a meticulous — and painful — account of the literal return to life of a young woman whose broken and burned body was pulled from a Nantucket plane wreck six years ago.

Last summer Gen. Eisenhower, accompanied by Walter Cronkite and a camera crew, went back to the English Channel countryside, now sleepy beach and fields, which two decades ago was the site of the largest amphibious invasion in history.

The former president, commander of the invasion forces, sometimes spoke with a crisp clinical detachment as he explained the principles and theories behind the huge operation. Then he would shift to a more personal vein, recalling an anecdote or explaining his own emotions at moments of decision.

Much of the film showed the general in casual sports clothes, strolling along a sunny beach where children played, or in a crumbling German pill box, or sitting in the war room preserved in an English country house. He responded easily to Cronkite's questions. Interspersed was film shot before and during the invasion.

NBC's "Patient in Room 601" used news film taken at the time of the Nantucket plane crash in August 1958 and interviewed many persons involved in the story of plucky Lita Levine who almost six years ago started off gaily on a summer vacation. Since then she has undergone more than 40 operations and lost all her fingers, but is now launched on a painting career.

The camera lingered overlong on some of the subjects, particularly her highly vocal mother and on the doctors with their cautious phraseology. The most moving portions were when the girl—she is now 29—was telling of her terrible ordeal, often with a touch of wry humor.

Sometimes it seems a shame that television programs do not come in half sizes. This was a good example of a program that would have been sharper and more effective if it had been told in 45 minutes.

Saturday night's "Defenders" episode on CBS, seemed to have been written right off the current headlines and was an interesting treatment of the law in connection with the civil rights, passive resistence movement. It had all the punch and vitality of a fine editorial.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans go right along making up their own minds. This makes it pretty tough sometimes for the experts.

Has Good Points

The American voter doesn't always cast his ballot the way pollsters say he's going to.

The American consumer does not always spend his money, or save it, or go into debt the way either the politicians or the economists say he is sure to do.

The American businessman doesn't always spend for new plants on cue, or tailor his borrowing to fit the money managers' manipulating of interest rates, or build up his inventories when he hears a boom is in the offing.

The stock trader doesn't always buy because he's told the economic news is all good, or sell because he's warned it might change.

All this may be rough on some of the experts and pollsters. But consumer calm has some good points. Right now it's pretty reassuring.

For instance, the federal income tax cut didn't spark the rush to spend which some politicians said would send the economy soaring. But neither did it trigger a boom that some experts warned would bring inflation.

Instead the consumers have gone on spending a little more as they have a little more to spend, saving a little more as their take home pay goes up a little, borrowing a little more as they figure they will be in a better position to meet the monthly payments.

Auto Loans Jump

Installment credit went up $412 million in April, but it had advanced even faster before the tax cut. Some savings institutions are reporting fewer deposits, but others are reporting gains.

Consumers paid off charge accounts and single-payment loans in March and then took on more of these items in April. Auto loans are increasing as sales mount, but other types of consumer debt aren't going up as fast as in January and February.

Highlights of Ninth Annual Page One Ball

COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD—Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, president of the American Newspaper Guild, Kingston Unit, presents an engraved plaque to George Svirsky of Kingston in recognition of his outstanding contributions to the community in which he lives. Citing him as "a dedicated worker in countless charitable organizations and a beloved individual," Mrs. Narel presented Mr. Svirsky with the Page One Award for Community Service. The Page One Ball was held in the Wiltwyck Country Club. Messages of congratulations to the Guildsmen were received from President Lyndon B. Johnson, his press secretary George Reedy, Governor Nelson Rockefeller, and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, Senator and Mrs. Ogden E. Bush attended the Ball.

JOURNALISM AWARD FOR AP REPORTER—Hugh A. Mulligan, Asociated Press reporter who covered the assassination and funeral of the late President John F. Kennedy, accepts the Guild's Page One Journalism Award from Edward Palladino, general chairman of this year's Page One Ball. Mr. Mulligan's coverage of the tragic event led to his role in the authorship of "The Torch Is Passed," The AP story of the Kennedy death. The book has sold more than four million copies to date.

MUSIC GIANT IS HONORED—Henry Cowell of Shady, New York, won the Guild's Page One Music Award. A giant among the music greats of the world, Mr. Cowell received a Guggenheim Fellowship and a Rockefeller Grant, the latter for study in 10 Asian countries. He is frequently identified as the founding father of 20th Century American music, Mrs. Narel stated prior to the award presentation.

AWARD FOR LABOR RELATIONS—President of the Hudson Valley Brick Handlers Union and a former city official, Joseph Amato, accepts the Page One Labor Award from the Guild president. A native of East Kingston, Mr. Amato served twice as alderman from the fifth ward of Kingston and is a well known athletic figure.

Donations Sent Negro Singer To Save Children's Village

PERIGUEUX, France (AP)—Thanks to a burst of generosity from admirers, Negro singer Josephine Baker may be able to save her children's village at nearby Milandes.

A flood of donations have been pouring into a special account to prevent the eviction Tuesday night of Miss Baker and her 11 adopted children.

The star announced last week that she was broke and heavily in debt. Her 12th century chateau at Milandes and its furnishings were to be sold at auction Tuesday unless she could satisfy her creditors.

Movie star Brigitte Bardot made a radio-television appeal for Miss Baker. It was an unusual gesture for Miss Bardot, who had never met Miss Baker and detests the glare of television lights.

The French television office was deluged with calls asking where to send the checks.

Miss Baker says she needs $400,000 to get the chateau at Milandes into the black for good.

She has adopted children of various races to conduct a living demonstration of racial understanding. The children—all but one of them boys—are between 4 and 12 years old. They came from places as distant as Japan, Africa, South America and Finland.

Several years ago Miss Baker decided she would try to develop Milandes as a tourist attraction that would provide her children with a steady income. She could then retire permanently from the stage.

The property, including the hotels, the chateau and its grounds, now is heavily mortgaged. The horde of tourists did not materialize, and the tourist center has been a steadily losing proposition.

Miss Baker said last week that if she can solve her immediate problem, she intends to launch out on a different tack. She holds about 500 acres of very fertile ground which she believes can be profitably developed.

Earrings at Graduation

Q: I will be graduating from high school in two weeks and I, as well as the other girls in my class, would like to know if it would be proper to wear earrings with our academic gowns?

A: Large conspicuous earrings would not be proper. Small ones that will hardly be noticed, are permissible.

Bridegroom's Parents are Divorced

Q: I am going to be married next month and have a problem in regard to seating at the wedding reception. I know that ordinarily the bridegroom's parents are seated at the same table, but my fiance's parents are divorced and I don't know whether it would be proper to seat them both at the family table. Neither of them has remarried. Will you please advise me?

A: It would not be proper to seat them at the same table. The bridegroom's mother would be seated at the family table on your father's right. His father would be seated at another table.

Luci B. Johnson Highly Approved IN GOP Territory

HARVARD, Ill. (AP) — McHenry County may have gone Republican in every presidential election this century, but it has given at least one Democrat its overwhelming approval.

The youngest of the LBJ's, blue-eyed Luci Baines Johnson, charmed record crowds of 200,000 Saturday, and upstaged 15 mayors and a would-be governor on hand for the 23rd annual Harvard Milk Day.

In Harvard, "milk capital of the world" a cheering crowd estimated at 100,000 lined the sidewalks to watch 16-year-old Luci lead a parade down the city'.s white-painted main street.

"I've heard that you paint your main street white for milk day, but I didn't believe it until I saw it," she exclaimed.

Charles Percy, Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, and 15 Illinois and Wisconsin mayors on hand for a milking contest were no match for the Texas warmth of the enthusiastic teen-ager.

Earlier she literally stopped a children's pet parade in La Grange, Ill., where an estimated 90,000 persons turned out to catch a glimpse of the President' perky envoy.

QUEEN AND HER COURT—Crowned Page One Queen of 1964 Saturday night at the Page One Ball was Miss Kathleen Pritchitt, center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick James Pritchitt of Route 4, Box 179, Saugerties. In addition to her silver loving cup, sterling silver bracelet and $50 U.S. Savings Bond, Miss Pritchitt will have a weekend in New York City and will receive several gifts. The runners-up are Miss Diana Knight, at right, and Miss Pamela Houghtaling, at left. Miss Knight is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knight of West Hurley and Miss Houghtaling is the daughter of Mrs. George L. Chilson and Leslie Hotaling. Too Scared to Crow

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Ray McKinney and his family drove from their McKee, Ky., farm in the family truck to visit relatives here.

When they arrived, they found Whitey, their 6-year-old rooster, clinging with feathers ruffled to the truck's undercarriage.

"We didn't hear a crow out of him," McKinney said after the 280-mile drive.

Peace Marcher, Student Talk to CORE, Unitarians

The Ulster County Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality met Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kricker, of Woodstock, to hear British peace marcher John Papworth discuss his experiences when he was jailed earlier this year in Albany, Ga. for attempting to walk through the city together with an integrated group of demonstrators.

Declaring that "non-violence when used with imagination is absolutely irresistable," Papworth pointed out that jailing the civil rights demonstrators, who went on prolonged hunger strikes during their incarceration, "by all estimates cost the Albany authorities close to $25 thousand," and he declared that one of the most potent factors in the success of such demonstrations "is the parsimoniousness of civil authorities anywhere — they can't afford to let you die, you know, and those daily injections of vitamins and so forth cost money." The Krickers' 18-year-old daughter, Candy, was one of the demonstrators.

Worked with Africans

Papworth, today a successful importer, worked for many years with African Nationalist parties. He stated that the physical structure of communities in Mississippi is identical to that of communities in Nairobi; "in each case, it is a physical confession of failure of the community to emerge."

Later in the evening after a buffet dinner, Papworth talked to the group about the theoretical aspects of movements like the civil rights movement in the United States.

Declaring that the Industrial Revolution had "reversed the rising trend toward democracy in the 18th Century and succeeded in consolidating power in more and more remote, minority hands," Papworth condemned Fabian Socialists and Communists alike "for continuing to deny human fulfillment."

"According to Freud, work is a man's chief contact with reality. But today under these vast Power Structures in which we live, man is required to be a passive adjunct to a machine. His decision-making powers are no longer wanted but are positively rejected by the Power Structure. It is only in direct non-violent action that man today can achieve any sort of liberation."

Awareness Vital

Papworth concluded by saying that "action without awareness is ineffectual," and he urged his listeners to "forge power links around the world" by keeping informed of civil rights action movements in other areas and making certain that their own actions were well publicized.

Speaking Sunday before the Ulster County Fellowship of Unitarians in Kingston, CORE speaker Jennifer Miller, a sophomore at Ulster County Community College, stated that the Ulster County Chapter of CORE was formed at this time "to prevent the emergence of explosive situations like those that now confront Chester, Pa., New York City and not too far south of us, Newburgh."

Declaring that this area is "stratigically located in the Hudson Valley and that as the exodus from the city continues and new industry locates here," CORE is deeply concerned that "bloodshed and rioting do not occur here as the result of more and more rigidly consolidated Negro ghettos and a depressed wage structure made possible by discriminatory practices in employment." She stressed the importance of each individual's committment to take action now to right existing wrongs where he finds them and called upon her audience to consider "not what you can do but how best you can do it—now."

The Ulster County Chapter will begin a workshop in non-violent disciplines under the instruction of National Field Worker Brendon Sexton. The first workshop will take place at 18 Mill Street, Kingston, Saturday, June 13, at 3:30. It is open to the public. At 8 p. m. the same day, CORE will sponsor a money-raising dance at the Recreation Center on Lower Broadway. Admission price will be nominal.

Two Youths Injured When Car Hits Hydrant

Two youths were injured at 6:15 a. m. Sunday when the car in which they were riding failed to negotiate a curve on Route 308, Town of Rhinebeck, and hit a tree after glancing off a fire hydrant.

State Trooper John Moran said Allen J. Gregory, 16, of 6 Wyncoop Lane, Rhinebeck, was driving east on the highway when the accident occurred. The youth received bruises of the nose. A passenger, George Weber, 17, Rhinecliff Road, Rhinebeck, suffered a possible fractured ankle.

The youths were treated at the Northern Dutchess Hospital.

Shreiner Injured When Car Hits Tree

David Shreiner, 24, of Stone Ridge, was injured at 2 a. m. today when his 1964 convertible veered off Route 213, of Marbletown, and hit a tree, according to State Police Sergeant Elliott Johnson, Kingston sub-station.

Trooper R. Houghtaling reported Shreiner was traveling west on the highway when he apparently fell asleep, lost control of the vehicle and hit a tree. Shreiner was taken to Benedictine Hospital by the Rondout Valley Rescue Squad and treated for lacerations of the scalp and other possible head injuries.

ROGER BLACK MICHAEL GALLAGHER

BOYS STATE CANDIDATES — Two Onteora Central High school students—Roger Black, left, and Michael Gallagher have been nominated for the American Legion's Boys State . Black was nominated to represent Phoenicia Post and Gallagher to represent Olive Post.

Nominate OCS Students for Boys State

Paul T. Runge, principal of the Onteora High School, has announced the nomination of two OCS students to represent American Legion posts at the annual Legion Boys State convention at Colgate University.

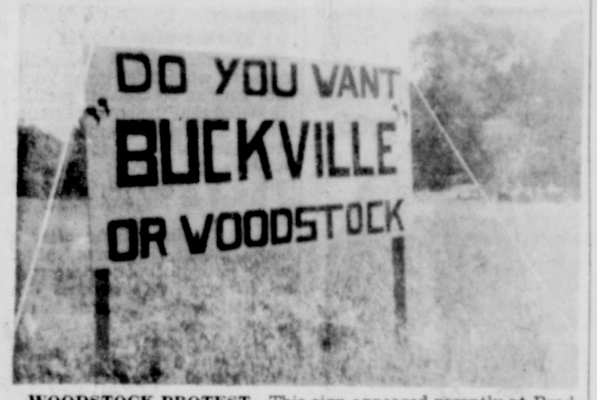

Nominated were Roger Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm D. Black, to represent Phoenicia Post 950, and Raymond J. Gallagher to represent Olive Memorial Post.

Both boys were chosen on the basis of an outstanding citizenship record and evidence of academic achievement and qualities of leadership.

Both Very Active

Black and Gallagher have been active in the extra-curricular program of the school. Black has been a class representative member of the dance band, the Junior Class vice president and a member of the radio club, Spanish club, current events club and the NRA club. He was also elected president of the Senior Class for 1965. He has earned varsity letters in football and track. Gallagher has been a member of the Biology Club and received varsity letters in football and baseball.

Each year, both the Phoenicia Post and the Olive Memorial Post have sponsored two boys to attend the Boys State program. This sponsorship, in addition to the awarding of prizes at graduation, has been one of the valuable contributions of the local community organizations to encourage and foster scholarship and good citizenship on the part of the Onteora student body.

WOODSTOCK PROTEST—This sign appeared recently at Bradley Meadows in Woodstock when it was learned that negotiations are under way to locate a supermarket and shopping center at this traditional setting for artists down through the years. The site had been earmarked for open space and recreational purposes on the Master Plan for the Town of Woodstock.

More than $1,000,000 was contributed by Vassar College alumnae to the annual alumnae fund for the fourth straight year, it was reported Saturday at a meeting at the college. The contributions aggregated $1,411,676.

On Saturday, reunions were conducted by 13 former classes. Mrs. James R. Breed of Poughkeepsie was elected chairman of the nominating committee of the Alumnae Association.

Deputy Sheriff, Prisoner Hurt In Auto Crash

A Dutches County Deputy Sheriff and a prisoner were injured at 1:45 a. m. Sunday, when a sheriff's car was involved in a collision on Main Street at Innis Avenue, Poughkeepsie.

Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan told The Freeman that Deputy Sheriff Harold Jennings, 53, of Salt Point Road, Town of Hyde Park, was taking a Millerton youth to the jail, when the crash occurred.

The other car, Sheriff Quinlan said, was driven by Morris D. Kovacs, 53, of 6 Vineyard Avenue, Highland. Kovacs and his wife reportedly were not injured.

Richard D. Miller, 18, of Millerton, was in the sheriff's car, enroute to jail to await arraignment on an intoxication charge. Miller suffered severe lacerations of the forehead which required more than 22 sutures at Vassar Hospital.

Deputy Jennings was treated for an injury of the right arm. He later was released.

The sheriff said Jennings was driving west on Main Street and as he approached Innis Avenue the traffic light was green in his favor. The deputy saw the Kovacs car pulling out of Innis Avenue into the path of his car, and he tried to avoid a collision by pulling to the right, Quinlan said. The cars collided, and the sheriff's car continued on and snapped off a fire hydrant, causing the water to shoot into the air.

A Board of Public Works crew was summoned to the scene to make repairs.

Sheriff Quinlan said the accident investigation will continue, and a charge probably will be lodged.

Ulster, Dutchess

were traveling in opposite directions when the headon crash occurred.

Detective Sergeants Philip McCready and David Cundy of the Poughkeepsie town police, investigated.

The Associated Press listed the number of traffic deaths at 20. One person was burned to death and two others died in other kinds of mishaps. The tally began at 6 p. m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Ends Tragically

The train-car crash marked the tragic end to a day of swiming and water skiing.

The youngsters had driven from their homes in Wappingers Falls, south of Poughkeepsie, to Ballston Lake for a weekend at a summer camp.

After a day on the lake, they headed for town for dinner. The car was struck at a grade crossing and dragged nearly a half-mile by the southbound freight.

Rescuers worked an hour to cut away the twisted metal with acetylene torches before removing the dead and injured from the car.

The dead were John F. Burns, 21, Michael J. Barry, 13, David Windheim, 15, and David's sister, Corine, 17. Barry's sister, Anna, 15, was in critical condition with head injuries at a Schenectady hospital.

Others Reported

Other deaths, by community, included:

Rotterdam Junction — Alfred Kletzmann, 27, Amsterdam, car hit a tree early Saturday.

Schenectady—Lecretia Philips 9, hit by a car Saturday night.

Vernon—Sharon Ann Dundon, 16, Verona, struck by a car Saturday night.

Port Byron — Charles M. Archetko, 24, Rochester, car-truck collision Saturday.

Agree Tentatively

NEW YORK (AP)—A tentative agreement that could end the Broadway theater strike was announced today by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

He said negotiators for Actors Equity Association and the League of New York Theaters agreed at 3 a.m., but their action is subject to a vote by the governing bodies of both groups today.

The terms won't be disclosed until presented to the governing bodies, Wagner said. The negotiators said they were confident of acceptance.

Conservative Poll Picks Newcombe And Rickard Here

Lloyd A. Newcombe and Eric M. Rickard have won the Conservative Party primary contests, according to Lee Pierce, chairman of the Conservative Party of Ulster County.

Mr. Newcombe, of Catskill, is the Party's candidate for Senator from the 34th Senatorial District, and Mr. Rickard, of Mt. Tremper, is the Party's candidate for Assemblyman from the first Assembly District.

"Lloyd Newcombe won by a ratio of about 4 to 1 over incumbent Senator E. Ogden Bush," said Mr. Pierce, "while Eric Rickard won by more than 7 to 1 over incumbent Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

Mr. Newcombe was not available for comment, being away for a rest after his strenuous campaign.

Mr. Rickard expressed his sincere appreciation for the support indicated by the vote of the enrolled members of his party and stated he will closely adhere to the Party platform — "dedication to our American tradition of limited constitutional government, individual liberty and self-reliance."

"It is interesting to note," said Rickard, "that almost 50 per cent of the enrolled Conservatives voted in the Ulster County primary. This is, indeed, a remarkable turnout and is an excellent indication of the enthusiasm and vitality of the Conservative movement." Rickard is the first Ulster County enrolled Conservative to run for public office.

The Conservative Party of New York became the first official Conservative Party in the nation in 1962. November 1963 was the first time that voters could enroll in the party.

The next meeting of the Conservative Party of Ulster County has been postponed until Thursday evening, June 18. Frank S. Meyer of Woodstock will be the guest speaker.

Five Are Injured

Robinson was taken to Ellenville Hospital and treated for lacerations of the face and chest injuries. Trooper Pinnow said the driver was charged with operating a motor vehicle with unsafe tires.

Lloyd Davis, 19, of the Nevele Hotel, Ellenville, was injured at 5:25 p. m. Sunday when his car went out of control on Old Country Road, Town of Wawarsing, and hit a utility pole.

Fails on Curve

Trooper Pinnow said Davis was driving south when he failed to negotiate a left curve. The car skidded on wet pavement and hit the pole on the east side of the road. Davis was treated at Veteran's Memorial Hospital for lacerations of the scalp and abrasions of the right leg.

State Police Sergeant D. J. Suttlehan cited the youth for being an unlicensed driver. The summons is returnable at a later date.

Cars operated by Charles Pomeroy, 20, of Kerhonkson, and George Rycar, 21, of 428 East 139th Street, the Bronx, were involved in a collision on Route 209 about two miles north of Wawarsing at 9:55 a. m. Saturday. Rycar was cited by Trooper William Hubert on a charge of failing to yield the right of way, according to Trooper Pinnow.

Sideswipe Collision

Troopers said Pomeroy was driving north on Route 209 and Rycar was approaching the highway on Ukranian Road when the crash occurred. No injuries were reported.

Cars operated by James DiStefano, 69, of Thompson Ridge, and Edward Clowse, 19, Silver Lake, Middletown, were involved in a sideswipe collision in New Prospect Road, Town of Shawangunk, at 4:30 p. m. Sunday. No injuries were reported and no charges were filed. Trooper C. R. Larson investigated.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market nudged higher in slow trading early this afternoon despite some heavy selling in Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional.

Texas Gulf fell 3⅛ to 47 on a delayed opening block of 24,000 shares, trimming its loss only slightly in a rash of subsequent trades.

The company is being sued by two Canadian mining companies which claim they own the Ontario land on which Texas Gulf announced a big mineral discovery which has boomed the price of the stock.

Moderate and selective gains among airlines, motors, steels, oils, nonferrous metals and utilities helped bolster the averages.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 302.0 with industrials up .6, rails unchanged and utilities up .5.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .04 at 806.07.

Wide moves elsewhere in the list included 2-point hops by IBM and Xerox. Polaroid lost a point.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange seemed to have an irregularly higher trend.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Traver Without Lawyer, Trial Is Set for June 22

A suspended Poughkeepsie police lieutenant, today made another appearance in Dutchess County Court to face a second degree assault charge, involving the alleged wounding of a Highland taxicab driver.

George H. Traver, who received a week's adjournment on Monday, June 1, after his attorney N. LeVan Haver, of Kingston withdrew from the case, told Judge John R. Schwartz he had engaged the services of another attorney but the lawyer's physician had advised him not to take the case. The name was not mentioned in court.

Judge Schwartz told Traver the case was not a complicated one and that the defendant should be able to obtain counsel.

Assistant District Attorney John Heilman noted that the case has been pending six months since Traver was indicted and he asked the judge to set a definite date for trial. His suggestion that the trial be put down for June 22, was approved by the court.

Traver has been under suspension since his arrest by Town of Poughkeepsie police last Nov. 17, when the police officer allegedly hit John Phillips, of Highland with his service revolver during an argument in front of Traver's home. The gun discharged and wounded the Highland man.

May Be Further Gains Even After a Big Rise

Q) "I own Texas Gulf Sulphur for which I paid 17. The shares are now up in the 50's. Should I sell at this price or hold? I also have shares in Ponce de Leone Trotting Association, Florida. Could you let me know if these have any value?" J.M.

A) I congratulate you on your purchase of Texas Gulf Sulphur, but I can only commiserate with you on Ponce de Leone Trotting Association. There is no bid for these shares.

Texas Gulf had one of the most sensational rises in the list this year when it discovered zinc, copper, and silver ores—in substantial amounts—in its land holdings near Timmins, Ontario. No one can yet evaluate these holdings, or estimate what they will mean to future earnings of Texas Gulf.

If you are not in need of income, I would play along with this situation, which has a big speculative potential. Otherwise, I would sell.

Q) "A good article of yours on E bonds — very informative. I have a lot of E bonds purchased from 1944 on through the subsequent 15 years. I never look at them. You said there is a ten-year extension period after maturity. If my bonds have gone beyond that period, do you think I should check and see what I should do?" E.H.

A) Thank you. I like to write about series E bonds, because I believe they are the safest, most stable security available, and because they afford an absolutely assured 3¾ per cent return to maturity, compounded semi-annually.

It is entirely unnecessary for you to check your E bonds. All of these have entered, or will enter, their second period of extension automatically. They will accrue 3¾ per cent if held to maturity, with one exception. The issues dated from June 1957 and subsequently, have been granted automatic extension, but the accrual rate has not yet been set.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Essex Wire Corp. Strike Continues

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — The Essex Wire Corp. strike moved into a 101st day today after failure of a proposed settlement pact to win strikers' approval of its full terms.

The strikers, members of the International Union of Eelectrical Workers, sent the package back to their bargaining committee Sunday night in an action described by union representatives as unanimous.

"The members were just as unanimous as the day (March 28) they walked out of the plant," said George Gould, IUE international representative.

Hillsdale Local 810 of the IUE pulled out its 180 Essex Wire production workers in a dispute over a first contract with the company.

Next steps to get the parties back together were not yet clear.

Gov. George W. Romney, who played a big role in prior negotiations, had no immediate comment on the new turn in events.

Romney, shuttling between Michigan and Cleveland for the National Governors Conference at the Ohio city, returned to Michigan Sunday night just in time to hear of the union's action. Romney had a breakfast date in Detroit today with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Two hundred National Guardsmen remained on patrol in the factory strike zone with Romney's 10-day-old state of emergency order still effective.

Details of the four-year-contract proposal were not disclosed in full.

Sen. Smith Is Not For Any Effort ToStopGoldwater

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine says she will have nothing to do with any move to bar Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona from winning the Republican presidential nomination.

"I'm not in favor of stopping anyone," Mrs. Smith, a candidate herself for the GOP nomination, told a newsman Sunday.

The reporter had asked whether she would take part in a "Stop-Goldwater" movement.

Mrs. Smith commented during a news conference, after addressing the graduating class at Skidmore College, a women's college, and receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree.

She expressed an opinion that Goldwater did not yet have the nomination sewed up. His most difficult job, she predicted, will be to obtain the last few needed votes in the convention balloting.

Health for All

Star Billing

If you're in a trend-spotting mood these heady spring days (trend-spotting is the armchair squatter's substitute for bird-ogling), here's an item worth your notice. The New York State Health Department announced recently that it was establishing a new bureau devoted to combating chronic respiratory disease.

In announcing the move, the New York State Health Commissioner pointed out that upstate deaths from chronic respiratory disease had actually doubled in the two decades from 1940 to 1960. Ailments in this category include asthma, emphysema, chronic broncnitis, tuberculosis and others.

Chronic RD on a national scale now afflicts an estimated minimum of 12,000,000 Americans, and possibly as many as 27,000,000. While there has been a decrease in tuberculosis, other diseases of breathing such as emphysema and lung cancer have increased at a drastic rate. Whatever the sum total of reasons may be (cigarette smoking and air pollution are widely agreed to be important among them), it's lucky for all of us that the two commonest symptoms of Respiratory Disease are easy to spot. One is chronic cough; the other is shortness of breath.

Neither is a sure indication of serious RD, but both are warning signals not to be ignored. In fact, they are important enough to have first and second billing in the slogan of the RD Alert that Christmas Seal associations in all parts of the country are conducting right now: "Cough too much? Short of breath? Don't take chances with respiratory disease. See a doctor." It means everybody, including you.

$4,325 Ruby Found On Weekend Gem Hunt

FRANKLIN, N.C. (AP) — A ruby estimated to be worth $4,325 was found by a Georgia housewife on a weekend gem hunt at the Old Shuler mine near here.

Mrs. David Stock, 30, of Dawson, Ga., bought six buckets of dirt for $1 at the mine and found a ruby weighing 86.50 carats.

Mrs. Stock, wife of a ladies ready-to-wear dealer, called it "a gift of God."

The mine charges a set fee for tourists to try their luck.

Jim Brinkman, who runs a gem shop in this area, estimated the value of Mrs. Stock's ruby at $50 a carat.

Brilliant Play Defeats South

BY OSWALD JACOBY

A motorist stopped his car to ask a Vermont farmer, "How far is it to Brattleboro?"

The reply was, "About 25,000 miles the way you are going, but if you turn around it's only 15."

A great many bridge players have a tendency to play hands that way. Occasionally such roundabout plays work. Most of the time it pays to use the simplest method available.

South's two no-trump was brilliant, imaginative and most unsound. Had he just passed, North would probably have bid and made three hearts. North might well have bid three hearts anyway, but he decided to gamble.

West doubled on general principles and opened the queen of diamonds.

South won in dummy and knocked out the ace of hearts. At this point, West could have led a club and defeated the contract, but West made the conservative lead of a low diamond. He hoped his partner would show up with the ace of spades.

This should have allowed South to bring home nine tricks, but South was too brilliant for that. He ran off the heart suit.

West discarded the five of spades and the queen-eight-four of clubs while East let go two spades and a club. Now South decided that West had hung on to an unguarded king of spades, so South led a spade from dummy, went up with his ace and conceded down one when the king failed to drop.

Years of Enlightment

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) —When Robert D. Graham completed his term as mayor recently, his friends referred to the four years as "years of enlightment."

During Graham's tenure, more than 2,800 mercury vapor street lights were installed in a 50-block area.

Beet-Cane Sugar Refinery Started

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — The bite of a ceremonial shovel into rain-dampened ground marked the beginning of construction of the first combination beet-cane sugar refinery in the United States.

About 500 persons looked on Sunday as government officials and businessmen marked the start of efforts to revive the Central New York sugar beet industry, which died out more than a half-century ago.

The $22-million plant is scheduled for full operation by October 1965 and is expected to process 50,000 tons of beet sugar annually.

It will be operated by the Empire State Sugar Refinery Co., a subsidiary of Pepsi Cola Co., and will rise on a 350-acre site, 14 miles north of Auburn.

The U.S. Agriculture Department has granted the Finger Lakes-Central New York area its first sugar beet allotment of 29,500 acres.

Speakers at the ground-breaking Sunday included Donald M. Kendall, president and chief executive of Pepsi Cola,

Herdegen Play Starts Saturday At Twaalfskill

A Kingston High school varsity golfer, Neil Pauker, led Herdegen Memorial qualifiers with an 18-hole score of 38-37-75 over Wiltwyck Country Club's sprawling par 36-36-72 layout Saturday.

Charles J. (Jimmy) Turck's 74-80-154 paced Wiltwyck's 13-man qualifing contingent. Three Wiltwyck players—Leon Randall, William (Buzzy) Costello and Harvey Bostic were exempt from the qualifying round.

At Woodstock Country Club, veteran Allen Waterous, posted a 36-hole score of 149 to lead five qualifiers. The club champion, Bill Van Aken, was exempt.

Robert Carnright of Saugerties fired 35-38-73 to pace the Twaalfskill Club qualifiers. Club champion George Hughes was exempt.

Frank K. Muller of Ellenville, a Cortland State player, earned the sixth at-large spot in a 4-hole sudden death playoff with Sam Spiegel of the Kingston high school varsity. Muler, who scrambled back with a 15-foot saving putt on the second hole of the playoff, eliminated Spiegel with a par-4, Spiegel sliced his tee shot and needed 3 to get on and missed his bid for the equalizer.

Players qualified under a new format for the first time this year. Clubs were alloted quotas based on participation in the Herdegen tournament over the past five years.

The Shawangunk Country Club (Ellenville) qualifiers have not yet been determined. Deadline for filing is Wednesday.

All Stars Lose Cup Tilt, 3-0

German-American League All Stars blanked the Central New York All Stars, 3-0, in a Kennedy Cup series game Sunday at Albany. The loss eliminated the upstaters from the tournament.

Recent winners over the crack Hamburg, Germany booters, the German-American team dominated the action from the beginning. Tremendous work by the team's goalie thwarted several scoring bids by the Centrals.

Kingston Sport Club players on the all-star squad included Lee Roberts, George Vizvary, Alex Dirks, Carlos Bustamente, Tony Fitzharris.

All-star Jimmy Reinhardt remains on the injured list from injuries sustained in the May 24 game against Troy.

Resume Sunday

The Sport Club, locked in a tie with Albany Athletic Club, resumes league play next Sunday against the Albany Sons of Italy at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

In two other preliminary games on Sunday's program at Albany, Kingston Jayvees nipped the Albany AC's second team, 4 to 3, on a last minute goal by Bob Graves. The goal broke a deadlock that existed throughout most of the second half. The other goals were kicked by three members of the Kingston club. Ronald Scharlley, Brian Ennis and Roy McCoultchor.

Local Jayvees resume play next Sunday against the Poughkeepsie Blue and White varsity squad. Sunday's win kept Tony Alexander's charges unbeaten for the season.

In their second outing of the season, the Sport Club Juniors lost to Albany, 1-0.

The Jayvee lineup:

Goal — Manning; LFB — B. Sylvesky; RFB — Pete Wolf; CHB—Shaun Northrup, RHB—McCoultchor; LHB—Oscar; CF—Graves; OL—W. Hansen; IL—Hans Ulfig; OR—R. Scharlley; IR—B. Ennis; subs—R. Renalds, R. Dirks.

Ernie Beesmer slipped by Pete Keator on the 19th lap for another strong second place finish with Pat Patterson and Lee Cole chasing the leaders across the finish line.

Harold Montanye led the first five laps but was in collision with Beesmer. Nissen went ahead and held it until the skies opened and flagman Dick Young called it a complete race.

Heat winners were Beesmer and Montanye, Bud Glass captured the consolation.

Silver's Many Uses

Silver was once used only as a monetary standard and as decorative metal, but lately increasing uses have been found for it in industry. The shiny metal is a major ingredient in making photographic film. Silver's conductivity and resistance to corrosion makes it valuable in the electronics field.

Ed Palladino's MR Selections

UPSET CHANCE—E.T. Adios (4th)

1. MARCEL MIR won four straight at Green Mountain. Will probably go to the wire in this one. Figures as the best of the night. GRAND DARNLEY was once a fair pacer Has Cobb and the pole and figures to be tough, if on gait. FAMOROUS will be close.

2. SUMTER REBEL is as good a guess as any in a race of non-winners. LADDIE PICK and SUCCESS SID are next in line but don't count on it.

3. HENRY JONES closed well in debut at MR. Can win this with top-rated drive. NEVELE DUKE can't go much lower. Was once a classy trotter. COSMIC HANOVER doesn't show too much.

4. MARIE ADIOS a beaten favorite Rates another chance. E. T. ADIOS in perfect spot to upset. Can do just that. FABULOUS FLAME has been out only once but seems ready.

5. CASH IN started too late and just nipped in previous outing. Has a chance despite post. WAYCOUNT starts fast and might hang on. ADIOS TOPPER won before despite two breaks. Figures to be close.

6. WYN CREED has met and beaten better. Should cop this race. BLUE GRASS is the competition. TRADER VIC has the pole but little else.

7. KNIGHT PRINCE gets the call in a tight finish. CONGRESS KING seems troublesome. BAR RAIL shows a 2:08.3 reading.

8. TOPMOST a shaky choice over PAULETTE WICK and SKIPPER TASS, especially if Carmine does the driving.

9. ATLAS BOY doesn't have much to beat. GENE PUTNEY needs racing. JACQUELINE BYRD is another who has been out but once this season.

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Probably the world's only combination meat market and art gallery is in El Paso at the Crossroads Meat Market. "Andy" Anderson sells sides of beef there and his wife Ferne exhibits her oil paintings on the walls. It's a pleasure for housewives shopping for the week's meat to be able to take in a rotating art exhibition at the same time.

Williams' Caddy Gets Key Hit; Dark, Mauch in Strategic War

Stephans Gets Winning Safety As Chisox Sweep

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gene Stephens, who made a living in the '50s as Ted Williams' caddy in the Boston Red Sox outfield, earns his major league paycheck these days with a set of clubs.

Stephens' pinch single in the eighth inning drove in the winning run Sunday as Chicago nipped Detroit 2-1 and completed a doubleheader sweep.

There was a time when all Stephens needed to earn his keep in the big time was a ready glove. That was in the twilight of Williams' fabulous American League career. The Splendid Splinter would start in left field, do his damage at the plate, and then let Stephens handle the fielding for the last few innings.

But when Williams retired in 1960, Stephens had to come up with something more than a five-fingered piece of leather to keep his job. It took him three years and a trip to the minors but he appears to have done it.

Stephens drifted to Baltimore and Kansas City and then to Indianapolis in 1963 when, all of a sudden, he discovered his bat. A .304 average with 17 homers earned him a look with the White Sox at the tailend of last season and he impressed with seven for 18 and a .389 average.

Chicago Manager Al Lopez remembered Stephens' bat in the eighth inning of Sunday's second game against Detroit. The White Sox had taken the opener 8-3 but were trailing 1-0 against Hank Aguirre in the nightcap.

Error Starts It

Floyd Robinson led off the eighth and reached on Jake Wood's error. A balk and a sacrifice moved Robinson to third and he scored on Ron Hansen's single. Don Buford's single put the winning run in scoring position and Lopez called for Stephens.

The veteran outfielder singled to left, delivering Hansen with the winning run and completing the sweep for the Chisox.

The double victory coupled with Minnesota's 5-2 victory over Baltimore put the White Sox in first place, a half-game in front of the Orioles. Elsewhere in the AL, New York whacked Los Angeles 9-3, Boston and Kansas City split with the Red Sox winning the first 9-5 and the A's taking the second 8-6, and Cleveland split a pair with Washington, winning the first 3-2 in 15 innings and losing the nightcap 6-3.

Stephens' hit made a winner of Joel Horlen, who fired a strong three-hitter, allowing just one hit after the first inning and retiring 20 of the last 21 batters he faced.

Dave Nicholson crashed a three-run homer and Pete Ward delivered a clutch single to win the opener. The Tigers had come back to tie it after Nicholson's eighth homer of the season put the Sox on top. A hit batsman and singles by Robinson and Ward pushed the lead run across in the sixth.

Ford Wins 7th

Whitey Ford won his seventh straight for the Yankees with home run support from Tommy Tresh and Elston Howard. Ken McBride lost it for the Angels, his 10th setback in 11 decisions. Ford hasn't lost and McBride hasn't won since Opening Day.

The Red Sox and A's had a home run duel with 11 balls soaring into Municipal Stadium's seats. Frank Malzone and Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs apiece in Boston's first game victory. Both homered and Yastrzemski had another circuit in the second game. Dick Williams homered twice for Boston in the second game and Jim Gentile drove in five runs with two homers for the A's in the nightcap.

The A's scored all their runs in the opener on homers with Ed Charles and Bill Bryan each connecting with a man on and pitcher Orlando Pena adding a bases empty shot. Tony Conigliaro had a two-run homer for the Red Sox.

The Twins halted rookie Wally Bunker's winning streak at six games and dropped the Orioles into second place. Baltimore grabbed a quick 2-0 lead but Harmon Killebrew's 15th homer evened things in the second. Tony Oliva and pitcher Camilo Iascual, who won his eighth, drive in runs to give Minnesota the lead and Bernie Allen's fifth homer closed the scoring.

Bob Chance clubbed two homers for Cleveland but the Indians struggled into the 15th before winning the first game against Washington. Al Smith singled Leon Wagner home to break it up after a walk and a throwinr error had put the winning run on third.

Chuck Hinton homered and added two other hits as Washington came back to take the nightcap. Al Koch won it, scattering eight hits including John Romano's seventh homer.

One Gold Fang

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When Hans, a sentry dog at Lockbourne Air Force Base, broke a fang on a fence, veterinarian Don Waldrup and dental officers Ralph Garcia and James Bigalke tackled repairs.

Now, although he may not be the handsomest sentry dog on base Hans is the most dazzling. The fang he damaged is gold-capped.

Giants Win It With Late Rally; LA Beats Mets

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When they come to write Danny Cater's baseball epitaph, they could say simply: "He was an innocent victim of the Great War."

Cater, a 24-year-old Philadelphia rookie, was listed in the starting line-up as batting fifth Sunday when first-place San Francisco edged the second-place Phillies 4-3 in 10 innings. Although seven Phillies came to the plate in the first inning, Cater never made it.

Managers Al Dark and Gene Mauch took care of that.

They perpetrated one of the weirdest innings of the season, moving players in and out faster than James Bond gets into trouble.

Giants' starter Bob Hendley, a southpaw, triggered the strategy battle by hitting Tony Taylor with a pitch, walking Cookie Rojas and giving a run-scoring single to Johnny Callison, the only hit of the inning.

Out came Dark and in came right-handed reliever Bob Bolin. Richie Allen walked, loading the bases and bringing Cater to the plate.

However, before the right-handed hitting Cater could look at a pitch, Mauch pulled him for left-hander Wes Covington. Bolin then went the same way as Cater as Dark brought on southpaw Ken MacKenzie. Mauch, not wanting to run out of outfielders before he got through one inning, let Covington bat.

Dark, however, didn't let MacKenzie pitch too long. After he got Covington on a pop out, he departed in favor of right-hander Gaylord Perry, the fourth Giants' pitcher. By now, observers were beginning to wonder if Dark would have to finish the game with Willie Mays on the mound.

The rest of the inning, though, went relatively fast. Roy Sievers lined a sacrifice fly to Mays for the second run, and Gus Triandos struck out.

After that display of bullpen versatility, Dark apparently took pity on his staff. He brought in just three more pitchers the rest of the way.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati outslugged St. Louis 11-6, Chicago overpowered Milwaukee 5-2, Pittsburgh whipped Houston 6-1 after losing 6-3 and Los Angeles trounced New York 6-1, then played a 1-1 tie when rain washed out the game after five innings.

Although Mauch might have won the battle, Dark wound up winning the war. Down 3-0, the Giants rallied in the ninth on Duke Snider's two-run homer and Jim Hart's solo blast. They won it in the 10th as Chris Short walked Tom Haller with the bases loaded, forcing in Chuck Hille.

Deron Johnson belted five hits in five times at bat and John Edwards clouted a grand slam homer in the first inning for the Reds. Johnson rapped three singles, a double and a home run. Frank Robinson also homered for the Reds while Julian Javier hit two and Charlie James one for the Cardinals.

The Cubs knocked down the Braves with home run power. Ernie Banks and Billy Williams each connected with one on and Andre Rodgers hit a bases-empty blast. Hank Aaron slammed a two-run home fror the Braves.

Vernon Law scattered seven hits as he won his third game against five defeats for the Pirates. He was supported by Bill Mazeroski's three-run inside-the-park homer in the second.

The Colts won the first game with a five-run rally in the ninth. Rusty Staub drove in the tying and winning runs with a bases-loaded single while John Bateman added a home run. Until the ninth, Pirates' starter Bob Veale had a three-hitter. He struck out 12, tying a Pittsburgh record for strikeouts in a nine-inning game.

Don Drysdale pitched and batted the Dodgers over the Mets in the opener, allowing six hits and driving in two runs with a homer in the third and a sacrifice bunt in the four-run ninth. He also singled. Charlie Smith homered for the Mets. Jim Hickman's home run in the fifth gave the Mets a 1-1 tie in the nightcap.

Vassar Hospital Wing Approved

An estimated $3.5 million project for a seven-story south wing at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, has been approved by the Hospital Review and Planning Council of Southern New York, it was made known Sunday.

J. Ernest Doolittle, president of the hospital's Board of Trustees, said plans have been approved. The project will include enlargement and improvement of emergency, surgical and recovery areas.

Doolittle said the building program will get underway immediately, with $3 million of the cost to be sought in public subscriptions throughout the area served by the hospital. The contributions will supplement $500,000 in funds now held by the hospital.

Doolittle stated the plans provide for a net increase of 90 beds for patients, increasing the hospital's total capacity from 255 acceptable beds to 345. It was explained that acceptable beds are those that meet U. S. Public Health Service standards for location and amount of adjacent space.

The new addition will be southwest of the five-story Community wing, costing $3 million, which was dedicated in January, 1960.

Open Bids Wednesday

Bid proposals on a project at State University College at New Paltz will be opened Wednesday, June 10 at 10:30 a. m. at the Department of Public Works Administration and Engineering Building, The State Campus, Albany. The project calls for sanitary work for correction of plugged sewer lines in Building 26 at the college.

Outlook for Humid Week, Several Days of Showers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts for Upstate New York, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Saturday:

Eastern New York — Warm and rather humid most of the week. Several days of showers and scattered thunderstorms. Good chance of showers and scattered thundershowers late Wednesday and Thursday and probably again over the weekend. Rainfall one-half inch or more. Temperatures well above normal.

Western New York — Temperatures will average 4-7 degrees above normal. Warmer Tuesday and Wednesday, cooler Thursday, warmer at the end of the week. Scattered showers late Tuesday or Wednesday and again at the end of the week, averaging one-half to locally one inch.

Temperature Normals—Daytime highs in the 70s; nighttime lows in the 50s.

TO RAZE LANDMARK—The 63-year-old wooden-planked Fish Creek bridge on the Fish Creek-High Woods Road will be razed and replaced by a modern concrete and steel structure, if preliminary plans are approved by Ulster County Board of Supervisors. Replacement of the landmark has been under study for some time. Under the proposed arrangement the bridge, a property of the Town of Saugerties, would be turned over to the county which maintains the county road connecting the bridge. The existing bridge at the site was constructed by the American Bridge Company of New York under the administration of the late David W. Maxwell, who was supervisor. It was completed in 1901. William B. Wolven was town clerk, and Augustus Wolven served as superintendent of highways. It replaced the old covered bridge which stood at the site for many years. (Freeman photo).

Williams Pays Fine

Albert Williams, 32, of Box 157, Clintondale, was arrested by Town of Plattekill constables on Sunday charged with being an unlicensed operator, driving an unregistered vehicle and driving while intoxicated. Before Justice of the Peace James Palen a $100 fine or 10 days in jail was imposed on the driving while intoxicated charge, $25 or five days in jail on the unregistered vehicle charge and $25 or five days in jail on the charge of being an unlicensed operator. The fines were paid.

Johnson Scoffing At Story About Menace to Liberty

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP)—President Johnson scoffed today at those who call the federal government "a major menace to individual liberty."

At the same time he appealed to college graduates of 1964 not to "feel alien to this world they are preparing to enter."

By some definitions, Johnson's message appeared to be aimed, on the one hand, at those who share the political philosophy of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and, on the other, at the college-educated segment of "the beat generation."

In his address, prepared for commencement exercises at Swarthmore College, Johnson said: "Let us not call forth phantom fears about what the future holds."

Continuing, he said, "One of those fears is that the federal government has become a major menace to individual liberty."

"This," he asserted, "is not so."

The chief executive went on to ask a series of rhetorical questions, all of them obviously intended to be answered in the negative:

"Does government subvert our freedom through the social security system?

"Does government undermine our freedom by bringing electricity to the farm—by controlling floods— or by ending bank failures?

"Is freedom lessened by efforts to abate pollution in our streams — or by efforts to strengthen competition in the free market?

"Is freedom diminished by banning the sale of harmful drugs — by providing school lunches for our children — by preserving our wilderness areas —or by improving the safety of our airways?

Johnson saved for last civil rights, a subject he has mentioned in every address he has made this year.

"Is freedom betrayed when in 1964 we redeem in full the pledge made a century ago by the Emancipation Proclamation?"

The President said that "far from crushing the individual, government at its best liberates him from the enslaving forces of his environment."

Alluding again to the civil rights issue, he said, "This government is fighting to free 20 million Americans whose rights and whose hopes have been damned because they were born with dark skin."

He went on to couple the civil rights issue with his antipoverty program, saying, "We are determined to wage unconditional war against the poverty that keeps one-fifth of our people in economic bondage."

Rhinebeck Will Vote Wednesday On School Project

Rhinebeck Central School District voters on Wednesday will vote on a proposition for a new 29-room elementary school and alterations to the Central school building, which will cost an estimated $1,412,000. State aid is estimated at $600,000.

Leslie Close, chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee for New buildings in the school district, said the committee urges a large turnout of qualified voters. Polls will be open from 2 to 9 p. m. at the high school.

Close said Mrs. Judy Kane is in charge of transportation and babysitters on voting day and that persons desiring either service may telephone her.

The committee chairman said persons eligible to vote must have these requirements: be a citizen of the United States, be at least 21 years of age, be a resident of the school district for a period of 30 days prior to the vote and must meet one of the following qualifications:

Own or is the spouse of the owner of taxable property in the district; is a parent of a child who has attended a district school for at least eight weeks prior to the day of voting.
